Labor Board's Steel Ruling Traced to C. I. O.

SECRET PARLEY SHOWN BACK OF WEIRTON EDICT

Charges Jar Board, Peril Appeal.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 20.—[Special.]—J. Warren Madden, chairman of the national labor relations board, was charged today with secretly conferring in Washington last December with C. I. O. officials concerning the Weirton Steel company hearing at Steubenville, O. The charges almost broke up a hearing of the board.

The three members of the board were considering the appeal of Clyde A. Armstrong, chief counsel for the steel company, who was barred from the Weirton hearing by Examiner Edward Grandison Smith. On July 11, Smith climaxed an eleven months hearing, which has been termed a colossal burlesque, by excluding Armstrong from further proceedings.

Roused by Gang Tactics.

Appealing from this ruling, Armstrong, through his attorney, Earl F. Reed, admitted an aggressive attitude which he denied was contemptuous, but was brought on by the "ganging up" of Examiner Smith, the board's attorneys and C. I. O. organizers.

In support of this contention Attorney Reed made the following charges:

1. That C. I. O. Organizer Kenneth Coe, active in the Weirton hearing, went to Washington last December, conferred secretly with Madden, and then returned for another conference with Lee Pressman, chief counsel of the C. I. O.

2. That another C. I. O. follower, an armed constable, served subpenas for the labor board, while requests by Weirton lawyers for subpenas were ignored for weeks.

3. That Donald Wakefield Smith, junior member of the labor board, attended the Weirton hearing last Nov. 18 and made disparaging remarks about Counsel Armstrong during the taking of evidence.

Terms Charges "Indecent."

Chairman Madden, his face red with wrath, declared these "innuendos" were "indecent, outrageous and disgraceful." Then he went on to admit the December meeting with C. I. O. Organizer Coe, but denied it had any significance.

"The fact is," he said, "that I walked into my outer office one day and saw Coe there. I recognized him and called him into my private office for about ten minutes. As for Pressman [C. I. O. counsel] I see him often, like other attorneys. What of it? You are attempting to create a prejudice against me. It is an outrageous, an indecent thing for you to do."

"I just wanted to show you," responded Attorney Reed, "that when a lawyer in a case is up against a double-barreled attack of that sort, he is inclined to adopt an aggressive attitude in order to get his client a fair chance."

Orders Attorney, "Be Silent!"

"You be silent," declared Madden, "or this hearing will end!"

It was in almost similar fashion that Examiner Smith ended the Steubenville hearing last July 7 after Attorney Armstrong had objected persistently to the admission of hearsay evidence which universally is barred under legal rules.

Four days after ending that hearing, Smith barred Armstrong from the case. The hearing later was removed from Steubenville to Pittsburgh because a great crowd gathered in the Ohio town demanding Armstrong's return to the case.

Madden, however, permitted today's hearing to proceed, although Attorney Reed kept hammering away with his charges linking the C. I. O. and the labor board.

At the conclusion of the hearing the board took the appeal under advisement. There was no indication when a decision will be made.

Smith Loses Temper, Too.

When Attorney Reed declared that Board Member Smith had sat in on the Weirton hearing Nov. 18 and interrupted the proceedings with disparaging remarks about Armstrong,

JAP-SOVIET WAR SCARE GROWS; TROOPS RUSHED

New Threats Arise in Danger Zone.

BY KIMPEI SHEBA.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, July 21 [Thursday.]—Japan was drawn closer into the grip of fear of war with soviet Russia today. A fresh frontier incident was reported and the soviet union poured regiment after regiment of its far eastern army into the danger zone.

Arrows indicate points of soviet military activity.

A soviet squadron estimated at forty to fifty submarines in Vladivostok moved into America bay. Soviet warships were concentrating on Possiet bay. The latter bay was illuminated with searchlights last night, probably because of fear of Japanese air raids.

Four soviet military transports carrying troops were sighted sailing toward Possiet bay from Vladivostok. The eighth Nicolisk cavalry brigade, the 26th snipers' division, and the 32d Razdolinoye snipers' division were sent to the frontier in trains and motor lorries.

Soviets Fire Star Shells.

Part of the 21st army corps and 39th division in Vladivostok was shifted into the Possiet bay region. Last night star shells were thrice shot toward Manchukuo by soviet soldiers in the neighborhood of Changlingtze.

Japanese war leaders were holding urgent conferences to discuss measures. The war minister saw the chief secretary of the cabinet and then called on the foreign minister. Later the war minister proceeded to the emperor's palace.

[Tension has existed on the Manchukuan-soviet border since July 12, when, the Japanese charged, Russian troops occupied an area near Shanfeng which Manchukuo, a Japanese dominated state, claimed as its own. On July 17 it was reported in Tokio that Japan had decided to use force to eject the Russian troops if they did not withdraw.]

Fly Over Ocean in Pick-a-back; Montreal Goal

BULLETIN.

ST. JOHNS, Newfoundland, July 21 (Thursday).—(AP)—Flyers on the seaplane Mercury reported at 2:30 a. m. (Chicago time) they were in the vicinity of Cape Bauld, tip of Newfoundland, and heading directly for Montreal, without making a Newfoundland stop. They expected to reach Montreal early in the morning.

MONTREAL, Que., July 21 [Thursday].—(AP)—The seaplane Mercury reported heading into clear weather 580 miles off Botwood, Newfoundland, at 5:44 a. m., British summer time, today [11:44 p. m., Chicago time, Wednesday] on her Atlantic crossing from Foynes, Ireland.

Average speed of 145 miles an hour was being maintained. Altitude was 7,000 feet. Airport officials at St. Hubert airport took it for granted the plane would continue over Newfoundland to Montreal. Originally a stop was anticipated at Botwood. The plane will visit New York.

Service Crews Ready.

Service crews waited on the banks of the St. Lawrence river 10 miles east of Montreal for the arrival of the pick-a-back plane.

Imperial Airways officers here said they expected the plane to make the hop from Foynes to Montreal nonstop.

A landing place on the river had been marked off with buoys, and preparations were made to refuel and service the plane.

Battle High Headwinds.

FOYNES, Ireland, July 21 [Thursday].—(AP)—The unique British pick-a-back seaplane Mercury, upper half of a composite two-in-one aircraft, was pushing steadily through headwinds over the Atlantic early today on a 2,000 mile flight to Botwood, Newfoundland.

The heavily loaded four-motored Mercury took off from the back of its parent ship Maia 1,000 feet above the River Shannon here at 8 p. m. [2 p. m. Chicago time] yesterday and pointed westward for its first transoceanic flight.

The two craft had left the water as one, locked together by secret devices. In the air, Donald C. T. Bennett, pilot of the Mercury, shouted over the connecting telephone: "Ready!" From the parent flying boat Pilot A. S. Wilcockson replied: "Okay and good luck." Bennett counted three and cried: "Go!"

Both pilots pulled levers. The planes parted and the Mercury roared out to sea.

Radio Operator Albert Coster, Bennett's only companion, was keeping in touch with both sides of the Atlantic and with ships at sea.

THEY BET $2.50 EACH, BUT COUNT ON PAYOFF OF SOME 2 BILLION

Baton Rouge, La., July 20.—(AP)—J. D. Stotler of Baton Rouge and R. E. Collins of Zeigler, Ill., have up a bet that should pay the winner $2,084,495,605.22, but it won't do either of them any good. The payoff will be in 2432.

Stotler bet $2.50 Louisiana's $5,000,000 capitol building, completed in 1932, would stand 500 years. Collins bet $2.50 it wouldn't. They signed legal papers and banked the money under contract in 1932.

Meeting here last week, Collins and Stotler reaffirmed the bet and learned the stake had grown to $6.85 from the 4 per cent interest rate that will boost it above 2 billions in 500 years. The bank is to pay the money to the winner's heirs.

DOGGONE! SAYS GIRL WHO GETS RABIES SERUM

Miss Helen Chmieliak, 5019 Fletcher street, confronted a clerk yesterday in the offices of the board of health in the city hall.

"I came to start anti-rabies treatment," said Miss Chmieliak, who is 21. "I was bitten by a stray dog on July 10."

"We'll give you the treatment," the clerk said, "but we'd better get the dog and keep it under observation."

"You won't get this dog," she said positively.

"O, yes, we always try," the clerk replied.

"Well, it should be a pleasant trip for the dog catcher," Miss Chmieliak said. "I was bitten while on a vacation in Poland."

Shuns World's Frivolities for 82 Happy Yrs.

There came to our town yesterday a man who in all his 82 years has: Never been to a movie theater. Never read a novel. Never danced. Never smoked nor chewed tobacco. Never taken a drink of liquor. Never played cards. Never seen a ball game.

He is James Alexander Hendry of St. Louis and Mr. Hendry feels that he has had a full and happy life, he said yesterday as he stepped off the train to attend the 39th annual convention of the Gideon association—the society that places Bibles in hotel rooms.

Admits He's Not Perfect.

He is quick to admit, however, that he is no saint. For example, he slept away twelve years of sermons because he didn't like the preachers. But when it is understood that Mr. Hendry has not missed church or Sunday school in fifty-five years, it will be seen that he still is pretty well off in spiritual goods.

And speaking of goods, it comes to light that Mr. Hendry is a traveling salesman—or was, for many years. He sold groceries on the road for a long time but he now is in the clothing business in St. Louis.

Mr. Hendry was born in 1856 and attended Sunday school for the first time in Cuthbert, Ga., in 1862 and liked it. For the next 21 years he missed Sunday school only two dozen times—mostly between 1862 and 1865.

"My father was away with the Confederate army and, well, it was a little difficult. The church was four miles away."

He's in Favor of Zoos.

He doesn't object to diversions, so long as they are not worldly. He has been to the St. Louis zoo and, frankly, does not object to zoos. Music is all right too, if it's the right kind But hearing a good gospel preacher warm up and go to it is what Mr. Hendry really likes. But he warns:

"The devil does his best work in the pulpit. He doesn't work with drunkards and sinners. He has them. He works on the preachers. The devil's a real personality too—and don't you forget it."

Veteran Takes Over Grimm's Duties Today

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Gabby Hartnett, who was christened Charles Leo but lost the name early in his baseball career, now is managing the Cubs and Charley Grimm is out in the cold world with nothing to do.

The job changed hands early last night, announcement of the sudden shift coming from Owner P. K. Wrigley, who included a statement that "Grimm has done a swell job, but the club has not done as well as we felt it should."

Prior to the decision to change bosses in hopes that it might overcome what nonpartisans recognize as an inadequate supply of playing talent there was a secret conference in the Wrigley home of the owner, the man he fired and the man he picked for the vacancy.

Wrigley Tells Why.

The announcement was made after newspapermen had been summoned to the club's offices. Owner Wrigley, who less than a week ago straddled the fence when the baseball writers swarmed on him as the result of the report that Grimm was to go immediately, explained what had been done and why. Then a door was opened and out popped Manager Hartnett and Ex-Manager Grimm, who had carried the load since Aug. 2, 1932, when he succeeded Rogers Hornsby.

"Well, this is a surprise," said Hartnett, adding the customary compliments for his predecessor. "Naturally, I will do what I can to win a pennant. There is nothing further I can say now, except that I'll go through for a day at least with about the same lineup. Before I make any announcements, I want to talk with Mr. Wrigley and the team coaches."

In his talk with the club owner Hartnett probably will come to an agreement on a new salary. They claimed there wasn't time to discuss this feature yesterday.

Grimm Is Philosophical.

Grimm had little to say. He explained that he had done his best, intimating that he might have done better if his team had been as good as judged by outsiders. Grimm tried to put on one of his big grins and look happy when photographers posed him with his successor.

"I'm glad you are taking it this way, Charley," Hartnett said.

"What the hell," Grimm responded. "There's no other way to take it. That's baseball."

When Grimm was asked what plans he had in mind, he said he would go to his St. Louis county farm for a few days and then return to Chicago. Either before or after his St. Louis trip he will have a conference with Owner Wrigley, but this will not involve a position with the club in some other capacity. He is "out of the organization," according to a statement last night by Charles Drake, the club's publicity man. Grimm, however, admitted that he will make an effort to remain in

FILM MONOPOLY, CHARGE BY U.S.; CIVIL SUIT FILED

8 Parent Companies Made Defendants.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., July 20.—[Special.]—The government moved today to break up what it charges is a great moving picture monopoly. The government says the monopoly is taking its weekly toll from more than 85 million American theater patrons.

The department of justice filed a civil suit in the United States District court of New York City to free all moving picture theaters from control by producers. It also seeks to restrain discriminatory practices by the producers in an alleged combine against independent producers and theaters.

[Sharp declines occurred in virtually all motion picture companies' securities after news of the federal action. Details in financial section.]

If the government accomplishes its object producers will be unable to foist unwanted pictures upon theaters. Theaters also will be able freely to obtain those pictures for which there is popular demand.

Eight Companies Defendants.

The bill of complaint filed in the name of Attorney General Homer S. Cummings is directed against eight parent motion picture companies, twenty-five subsidiaries and 132 individuals. The eight parent companies are:

Paramount Pictures, Inc., Loew's, Inc., Irving Trust company, New York, as trustee in bankruptcy for Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation; Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., Twentieth Century-Fox Film corporation, Columbia Pictures corporation, Universal corporation and United Artists corporation.

Among the individual defendants are Mary Pickford, Douglas Fairbanks, Charles Chaplin, Louis B. Mayer, head of the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer corporation; Harry M. Warner of Warner Brothers, Adolph Zukor of Paramount, and Joseph M. Schenck of Twentieth Century-Fox.

Division Into Two Fields.

Mr. Cummings petitions the court to require the defendants to divest themselves either of ownership of theaters or of production and distribution of moving pictures.

"The investigation by the department of justice," Mr. Cummings explained, "was made in response to numerous complaints by independent producers, distributors, and exhibitors and by the theater-going public. Independent companies complained that the defendants were threatening their complete exclusion from the business.

"The department of justice was interested on its own initiative because the motion picture business is not a private affair, but a matter of vital concern not only to those immediately engaged in the industry, but to 85 to 90 million people who attend the picture theaters every week.

Points to Sole Market.

"The public theaters constitute the only market for the commercial distribution of motion picture films. The finer theaters and theater chains are now dominated by five of the major companies, Paramount Pictures, Inc., Loew's, Inc.; Radio-Keith-Orpheum corporation, Warner Brothers' Pictures, Inc., and Twentieth Century-Fox Film corporation. These companies, together with the three other major companies, United Artists, Columbia Pictures corporation, and Universal corporation, control about 65 per cent of all pictures produced from the selection of the story to the final showing at the theater.

"The actual control of product is even greater than would appear from this figure, because from 80 to 90 per cent of the quality feature films upon which exhibitors are dependent for the successful operation of their theaters are produced or distributed by the eight major companies.

Sees Division of Territory.

"In acquiring theaters and chains of theaters the major companies have not occupied, to any great extent, the same territory. Indeed, there appears to be a virtual division of territory. Operating in their separate divisions of territory, the theaters of each major company afford a market for the pictures produced by the others. As the aggregate annual production of the major companies is sufficient to fill comfortably the theater programs of their respective theaters, outside pictures are put under an impossible handicap.

"So effective is the combination that these companies in the production of pictures have pooled their most valuable assets and made them available to each other. These assets consist of stars and feature players of known drawing power, as well as directors, technicians, and physical properties, such as sets and scenes. Seldom are these facilities made available to independent producers.

Claims Competition Prevented.

"So far as ownership is concerned, there are enough independent theaters to furnish the basis for substantial competition with the theaters controled by the major companies. This competition, however, is prevented by the major companies by denying to independents equal access to the films distributed by them. A theater affiliated with a major company is given first access to the product of all the major companies before the independent is permitted to exhibit it on any terms.

"Thus, in a territory where an independent exhibitor is in competition with a theater affiliated with a major producer, he may not be able to obtain first run pictures. He must wait until the affiliated theater has exhibited the choice films. This is true regardless of the price which the independent might be willing to pay for the film.

"This is not the only handicap. There are special types of contracts and contract modifications, including various possible reductions in film rentals where pictures turn out to be unpopular, which are given to the affiliated theater. The independent theater is denied such contracts.

Charges Discrimination.

"The independent theater also is subject to numerous oppressive discriminations.

"The control of the finer theaters by the five major producer-exhibitors has given them the actual power to exclude other producers from these markets. This, in the judgment of the department, constitutes monopolistic power forbidden by the Sherman act.

"This monopolistic power has a tendency to drive independent theaters out of the business or to compel them to sell to the producer-owned theater chains on the latter's terms."

In discussing the economic effects of monopolistic control by the movie combine, Mr. Cummings said that the present mortality rate of independent theaters suggests it will be only a short time before no independents are left. The difficulty of obtaining films on a nondiscriminatory basis closes the door to new competition. Independent theaters are able to stay in business only by surrendering freedom in choice of pictures and in management of their business.

VAINLY PROTESTS DIVORCE GRANTED WHEN HE'S IN JAIL

Forrest Webb Holter was in jail when his wife was granted a divorce a month ago, but his protests yesterday gained him nothing. Judge Charles A. Williams made the divorce decree final, ruling that Holter had proper notice of the proceedings.

Holter must remain in jail until he puts up a $1,500 bond assuring that he will remain in Illinois, the court also ruled. He is $400 behind in alimony payments. Holter has refused the offer of his employers to furnish the bond and free him.

To win the divorce decree, Mrs. Brenda Holter, 300 South Brainard avenue, La Grange, exhibited some dainty underthings found in her husband's car. Holter, being absent, couldn't explain how they happened to be there.

INDEPENDENTS BACK FIGHT ON MOVIE COMBINE

Private Theater Owners Draft State Laws.

Independent theater owners from coast to coast joined actively in the government's campaign yesterday to smash the motion picture monopoly. The independents, organized as the Allied State Exhibitors' association, launched a drive for state laws that will prevent producers or distributors from having an interest in theaters.

Drafts of the proposed law will be submitted at the next sessions of forty-seven legislatures. One state—North Dakota—now has such a law and it has been the center of a fight between the independents and Paramount Pictures.

Paramount to Fight On.

Though the law has been upheld as constitutional by a federal court, Paramount has announced it will fight through the Supreme court of the United States.

The independents will seek to do through legislation what the government hopes to accomplish through its civil suit filed in New York yesterday. In announcing the campaign, Abram F. Myers, chairman of the Allied State Exhibitors, charged that the producers and distributors have been engaged in contracts, combinations, and conspiracies in violation of the anti-trust laws.

Practices Under Fire.

The independents long have opposed the practices listed in the government's suit as block booking, full line forcing, imposition of preferred playing time, and high rentals. These trade terms were defined yesterday by Joseph Rosenberg, counsel for the Allied Theater Owners of Illinois, representing 120 independent theaters in the state.

BLOCK BOOKING—Theaters are required to contract for all the major pictures of a given studio for a year in advance. Often the owner is not told the name of the picture, who plays in it, or what the story is.

Double Features Forced.

FULL LINE FORCING—This carries block booking a step farther. The theater owner is forced to buy the entire output of a studio, shorts and newsreels included. For much of this material the exhibitor has no use because double features have been forced upon him by the chain distributors.

PREFERRED PLAYING TIME—Under this system [in Chicago and other large cities] independents cannot show any picture until several weeks after it has been exhibited by the large combines. In Chicago these combines are Balaban & Katz and R.-K.-O., who are permitted to buy all major offerings of the eight big producers.

How Pictures Are Routed.

R-K-O and Universal pictures are available first to R-K-O's Palace. All others first go to Balaban & Katz. Balaban & Katz and its subsidiary, Great States Theaters, own or operate about 100 movie houses in Chicago and Illinois. Paramount Pictures owns more than 90 per cent of the stock in Balaban & Katz.

Warner Brothers operate twenty-three houses in this area. A dozen of them are in Chicago, but none is in the loop.

In Chicago the release ban period for independents is ten weeks. The Allied Theater Owners recently opened negotiations to force the eight leading producers and distributors and Balaban & Katz to shorten this period. They threatened to sue on the ground that this dictatorial schedule violates a consent decree established in court six years ago.

Negotiations Interrupted.

These negotiations were interrupted on July 10 by the death of Aaron Saperstein, president of the Allied Owners. Yesterday, however, the organization elected Jack Kirsch of 4046 Wilcox avenue to continue the talks and to demand that independents be permitted to buy films in the competitive market.

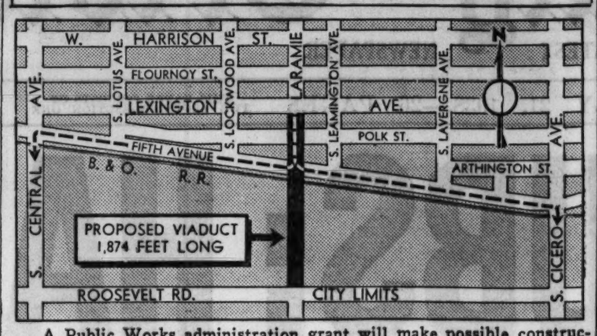
The present system gives first run loop theaters the advantage of a pre-release date. For example, a feature becomes available for a run of a week or more to the Chicago, Palace, Garrick, Apollo, United Artists, State-Lake, and Oriental [when it is open].

Pass to "A" Zones Next.

It is then three weeks before it is available to theaters in the combine's "A" classification. These are the biggest outside the loop. Two more weeks pass and the "B" theaters—next in size—get the picture. After another fortnight it goes to the "C" zone. At the end of a final two weeks there is a general release to the independents.

In theory, this system allows a picture to show only three or four weeks of the ten before the independents get it. But meanwhile it may be running week in and week out at a loop theater. Thus the picture is milked of profit before those outside the combine get a chance to show it.

Laramie Avenue Viaduct Plan



A Public Works administration grant will make possible construction of a viaduct to carry Laramie avenue over railroad tracks from Lexington avenue to Roosevelt road. Chicago motorists en route to Cicero and to the Hawthorne race track now must drive a half mile east to Cicero avenue or a half mile west to Central avenue, as indicated by dotted lines.

Total Cost $630,000

A more direct route from Chicago to Cicero—and to the Hawthorne race track—will be made available because of a Public Works administration grant announced yesterday. The grant is for $270,000 of the $630,000 cost of a viaduct to carry Laramie avenue over railroad tracks from Lexington avenue to Roosevelt road.

Motorists on Laramie avenue to cross the tracks now must drive half a mile east to Cicero avenue or a half mile west to Central avenue.

The steel and concrete viaduct and approaches will be 1,874 feet long. A four lane roadway eventually may carry street cars also. Work will be started in two months. The city will pay its share of the cost out of gasoline tax funds.

GENERALLY FAIR AND NOT SO COOL FORECAST TODAY

Today will be generally fair and the mercury probably will go a little higher than it did yesterday, according to C. A. Donnel, weather forecaster. Yesterday's maximum temperature was only 69 degrees at 2 p. m., compared with the normal maximum of 81 for the date. Donnel reported that half an inch of rain fell in the city during the 24 hours ending at 7:30 p. m.

Lightning struck a 50 foot brick chimney at the Chicago Electric company plant at 1328 Cermak road. Falling bricks endangered 150 employés, but none was injured. Another bolt struck the steeple of the St. George church at 3924 Wentworth avenue, starting a fire in the belfry. Damage was $500.

In Waukegan and North Chicago many basements were flooded. Garwood Braun, weather bureau observer, said 1.78 inches of rain fell there. Thousands of dollars damage was done to dwellings and stores in the two communities and in Zion and Winthrop Harbor. Lightning struck the F. H. Warren home at 1530 Dugdale road, Waukegan. Mrs. Warren's mother, Mrs. Mary Netherton, was shocked by the bolt, but was not seriously injured.

ATTACKS MOTIVE OF LEITER HEIRS IN TRUSTEE SUIT

An exchange of charges by attorneys enlivened yesterday's hearing of the suit by three grandsons of the late Levi Z. and Mary T. Leiter against the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company. The grandsons, Thomas Leiter, Colin Campbell, and Cecil J. A. Howard, seek removal of the bank as trustee and an accounting of three $100,000 trust funds created for them by Mrs. Leiter. Master in Chancery Harold Sullivan of the Circuit court is hearing the proceedings.

Attorneys for the bank charged that the suit was brought by the three grandsons in an effort to evade their grandmother's wishes.

"There was an improper motive for bringing this suit," declared Attorney Emmett McCarthy, representing the bank. "The heirs do not come to court with clean hands."

"The bank is wasting trust assets," replied Denis E. Sullivan Jr., one of the grandsons' lawyers. "Our purpose is to get the trust away from you as soon as possible."

Gang Halts Freight Train; Steals $1,000 in Cigarets

Ionia, Mich., July 20.—[Special.]—A Detroit gang is believed responsible for stopping a Pere Marquette railroad freight train near Lake Odessa last night and plundering it. One hundred and seventy thousand cigarets valued at $1,000 were taken. Local and railroad police investigating said the train was stopped when an air hose was cut near the rear of the long train by one of the robbers riding the train. While the train crew was repairing broken hose, police believe, others waiting in an auto where the train was stopped broke into the car.

Jack's Luck Gave Out Just at Wrong Time

Butler, N. J., July 20.—(AP)—Jack Miller, a high school teacher, won $4 in a baseball pool last week. He spent $1 of his winnings on chances for an automobile at a firemen's fair and another dollar for chances on a ton of coal. He won the car, but took $500 instead. He won the ton of coal. Then he hurried from the fair grounds to a local theater, but had a tough break. He was too late to collect another $105 when his name was called during a bank night.

HAYS DEFENDS FILM INDUSTRY AGAINST U. S.

Welcomes Suit to Clarify Movie Problems.

New York, July 20.—[Special.]—Commenting on the department of justice's institution of a civil suit today branding the 2 billion dollar industry a monopoly, Will H. Hays, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, tonight issued a statement defending the industry.

The statement was designed to give a clear expression of Hollywood's attitude. It said that the industry welcomes a clarification of the anti-trust laws and will coöperate in any friendly governmental gesture to have them clarified; it still regards self-regulation as preferable to legislation and governmental supervision; it considers unique the problems—and their solution—of the film industry; it will oppose any attempt, in court or by legislation, to divorce the production, distribution, and exhibition branches.

Peculiarities Are Cited.

"The trade customs of the industry were born and have developed under unique and peculiar necessities never before encountered in commerce or law," Mr. Hays said. "Yet the existing structure of production, distribution, and exhibition of motion pictures has brought to the theater the greatest classics of literature, history, drama, and music at a price that has commanded a universal audience even during the darkest days of depression.

"American motion pictures with world-wide audiences are ambassadors of good will. They occupy about 75 per cent of the screen time of the world despite quotas, embargoes and other foreign trade restrictions through a system by which an art industry has been created and is operating in a manner that transcends all barriers of language and geography.

Employs 280,000 Persons.

"On the economic side, an industry starting a few years ago with nothing, now normally employs more than 280,000 persons, keeps 17,500 theaters in more than 9,000 cities and towns in the United States alone in regular operation, produces $1,000,000,000 worth of business in the local communities and pays to the federal government about $100,000,000 a year in taxes. It has pioneered in a labor policy which has kept wages high.

"Pictures, like other dramatic entertainment, must be created, not manufactured. Pictures go on tour, as does a road company, and are available in time to the smallest theaters in the land for the lowest possible admission price.

"In this great field there is the keenest competition. With every studio competing to produce the best entertainment, every distributor competing for sales, and every theater competing for the best film product involving 12,000,000 individual transactions every year, the problems of trade relations have grown with the growth of the industry."

ONE MAN CRIME WAVE SUBDUED IN RIVER FOREST

Policemen Charles Wilson and Joseph Welch sighted Bert Firey, 32 years old, last night when he failed to stop his automobile after colliding with another at Ashland avenue and Vine street in River Forest. After a mile chase into Forest Park Firey abandoned his car, but was caught in a foot race.

Lodged in the River Forest detention cell, Firey asked for a drink of water. Allowed to leave the cell to get it, he attacked Desk Sergeant Walter Allen. Knocking Allen to the floor, Firey, who weighs 200 pounds, ran out the front doorway.

There he bumped into Police Chief Carl Soderlin. After another two block foot race Firey was caught again. This time it took three policemen to lock him up. He faces charges of leaving the scene of an accident, driving while intoxicated, reckless driving, resisting arrest, and breaking jail. The address he gave was fictitious.

HIS DEATH BED NUPTIALS ROIL ALIEN COLONY

Bettendorf, Ia., July 20.—[Special.]—Bettendorf's Mexican colony seethed with disapproval today over Alfonso Navarro's death bed marriage yesterday to Maude Bur, 42 years old, with whom he had made his home in Bettendorf.

Old friends said Navarro, who was 56, had a wife and two sons in Mexico.

Navarro died last night of injuries incurred early yesterday morning in the Bettendorf company foundry, where he was struck by a swinging crane load of lumber and crushed against a wall.

A foreseen consequence of the marriage is a court contest over payment of benefits to which his wife ordinarily would be entitled under the Iowa workmen's compensation law, amounting possibly to $4,500.

NATIONAL GUARD RULES NEWTON IN MAYTAG STRIKE

Puts Down Riots, Closes Courts, Clears Streets.

Newton, Ia., July 20.—[Special.]—National Guardsmen with armored cars and machine guns maintained order in this strike torn town tonight. Thirty-four persons were injured in a free-for-all street fighting earlier in the day.

Martial law was being enforced strictly in the area of the Maytag Washing Machine company plant, where the battle took place. C. I. O. pickets have kept the plant closed since May 9 despite efforts of nearly half the employés to return to work.

The violence occurred as members of the back-to-work group approached the plant to learn whether it would be closed under the military rule ordered last night by Gov. Nels G. Kraschel. The factory operated Monday and Tuesday with a force of about 500 men.

Mob of 600 Battles Workers.

A mob of about 600 persons, nearly a third of them women, milled about the plant. They were in an ugly mood. Sporadic fist fights were frequent. As loyal workers appeared in increasing numbers, the fighting grew in volume and intensity.

For nearly half an hour the battle was waged in individual flurries. When men neared the gates to see if they could get in to their jobs, pickets caught them between the closed gates and beat them. Several times men singled out for attack were slugged and then pushed into the arms of police.

Peace officers on the scene were powerless to halt the general mêlée. Word of the situation was relayed to the guardsmen who had arrived here earlier. They had not had time to establish communication between their camp at the edge of town and the riot scene.

Troops Put Down Disturbances.

The troopers rushed to the strike zone and soon restored order. Most of the fighting stopped quickly when the armored cars appeared and the militiamen trotted up with fixed bayonets.

When order was restored, it was learned that the injured were thirty members of the back-to-work group, one C. I. O. picket, a policeman, and two special deputy sherifs.

James Butcher, a worker, was taken to a hospital with a possible skull fracture and severe lacerations. He was unconscious three hours from a blow on the back of his head.

Troopers formed a loose line across streets and drove the crowd away from the plant.

No automobiles were permitted within two blocks of the Maytag plant. Persons having business in the zone were allowed to pass through on foot.

Civil Courts Taken Over.

A military commission closed all civil law offices in the town and National Guardsmen were on duty in the county courthouse. Armored cars patrolled streets at regular intervals, their machine guns bristling ominously.

Guardsmen warned townsfolk not to loiter on the streets. Public gatherings of any sort were prohibited. All club meetings were cancelled and it was announced that the usual soft ball games would not be played.

Shops and theaters were allowed to remain open, but the state liquor store was closed.

Judge Advocate Frank B. Hallagan of the National Guard prepared to handle legal affairs here at a military court which will replace that of Judge Homer A. Fuller. Acting on the commission with Maj. Hallagan are Maj. Orville W. Harris of Jefferson, Capt. Fred Clark of Waterloo, Capt. Ollie S. Clause of Grand Junction, and Lieut. John G. Bowes of Des Moines.

Hangman Who Executed 500 Canadians Dying in Poverty

MONTREAL, Que., July 20.—Half starved and penniless, Arthur Ellis, who hanged 500 men and women during his twenty-five years as the dominion's executioner, was near death in a hospital here tonight. The hangman, who is 71 years old, was found in a rooming house. He had been out of work since he was retired as executioner in 1936. Ellis, whose real name is Arthur English, was a strange figure in Canada, from whom people generally shied. He received $100 for each hanging.

Picket Arrested

The bar (No. 1) north of the entrance (see arrow) to the Chicago Hardware Foundry company marks first picket line established by Lake county sherif. The line yesterday was forced northward (No. 2 bar), leaving both Morrow avenue and 22d street free for arrival and departure of workmen.

CITY APPROVES FINANCING FOR FILTER PROJECT

The city council yesterday authorized the sale of $6,700,000 water certificates for a start on construction of the south side water filtration plant. The council also voted to accept a grant of $5,415,750 from the Public Works administration for the project.

The total cost of the plant is estimated as $20,936,000. However, the project can be carried on for fourteen months with the $12,115,000 now available. Mayor Kelly anticipates that the balance needed can be obtained later.

Bids for construction of a breakwater, coffer dams, and underground facilities will be asked within a few weeks. The plant will be built on a sixty acre peninsula to be filled in the lake north of 79th street. Eventually a larger fill of eighty-five acres will be made to provide a park and beach.

QUAKE KILLS 20 IN GREECE; NEW SHOCKS FEARED

ATHENS, July 20.—(AP)—Frightened inhabitants were warned today that more shocks might be expected to follow a morning earthquake which scattered wreckage across much of ancient Greece.

Incomplete estimates were that 20 persons were killed and 100 injured in today's shock, the strongest felt in this country in modern times.

Twenty miles north of Athens gaping fissures swallowed houses, but the capital suffered no serious damage. Torrential rainfall which followed the earthquake hampered rescue work. Rail communication between Athens and Thessalonike, 200 miles to the north, was interrupted.

Heaviest damage was in the island of Euboea, north of Athens, where the quake centered.

GUNMEN RAID TAVERN, STORE.

Three men armed with revolvers last night robbed Michael Dentanaro of $250 in his tavern at 40 North Paulina street and shut him and two customers in a back room. Two bandits took $57 from Martin Cohen and locked him in the washroom of his liquor store at 1930 Montrose avenue.

ACT TO RETURN C.I.O. BOSS UNDER GUARD FOR TRIAL

Lake County to Send Deputy to Get Adelman.

Representatives of Meyer Adelman, organizer for the Steel Workers' Organizing Committee, were told yesterday he can return to Lake county in only one way—as a prisoner.

Adelman had been active in encouraging disorders at the plant of the Chicago Hardware Foundry company in North Chicago since a strike was started seven weeks ago. He was indicted for conspiracy on Monday. He went to Elkhart, Ind., to try to start a strike in a branch factory of the hardware company.

Authorities at Elkhart arrested him Tuesday on request of the Lake County court. They put him in jail at Goshen, where he said he would fight extradition. Yesterday J. J. Brownlee of the S. W. O. C. told Assistant State's Attorney George Field at Waukegan that Adelman would return voluntarily provided he were released at Goshen.

Regular Procedure Ordered.

"He'll come back by the regular procedure," said Field. "If he waives extradition a deputy will be sent to bring him back."

Brownlee and Attorney Lester F. Collins indicated extradition would be waived as soon as a bond for Adelman has been obtained and approved.

Adelman is no stranger to Lake county courts. He was found guilty of contempt of court during the Fansteel Metallurgical corporation strike early in 1937 and was sentenced by Judge Theodore Forby to 240 days in jail. This sentence has been appealed.

Nineteen others were indicted with Adelman in connection with the present strike disorders. Eleven of them pleaded not guilty yesterday and were freed on bonds of $2,500 each. One of the eleven was Robert Wirtz, who led pickets at the plant for several weeks. Ten pickets, found guilty of contempt of court by Judge Ralph J. Dady, also appeared in court, furnished appeal bonds and were released.

The rule of the plant by strike pickets was broken Tuesday when deputy sherifs used tear gas to push them back several blocks. Yesterday 218 men who had been kept out since the strike started were at work in the foundry. A large force of deputies was guarding them.

Start Production Tomorrow.

President Edward B. Sherwin said the plant was rapidly being put in shape and production probably would start tomorrow. Normally 460 workmen are employed.

Van A. Bittner, regional director of the S. W. O. C., told 300 strike sympathizers that Judge Dady is "guilty of a conspiracy against the laws of the United States" and "would like to hang all who stand by the national labor relations law." He also informed the strikers they could stay on relief indefinitly while they fight their battle.

Harry A. Scheck, a federal labor conciliator, yesterday arranged a meeting of company and union officials to be held this morning. The union has demanded maintenance of the present wage scale, vacations with pay, and a written contract. The company has insisted that a 10 per cent wage cut is necessary if the foundry is to continue operating. The strikers belong to the Amalgamated Association of Steel, Iron, and Tin Workers, a C. I. O. affiliate.

Norman Thomas Lashes at Hague for Dictatorship

Norman Thomas, the socialist leader, declared yesterday that Mayor Frank Hague of Jersey City masks dictatorial tactics in the guise of Americanism. Thomas spoke at a luncheon of the Workers Defense league in the Hotel Sherman. Hague's police prevented Thomas from making a speech last April 30.

Labor Charges Aired

J. Warren Madden (left), chairman of the National Labor Relations board, yesterday was charged with secretly conferring with C. I. O. officials concerning the Weirton Steel company hearing at Steubenville, O. The charge was made at a meeting of the board considering the appeal of Clyde A. Armstrong (right), chief counsel for the steel company who was barred from the Weirton hearing.

Earl F. Reed (left), Armstrong's attorney, charged that Examiner Edward Grandison Smith, who barred Armstrong, "ganged up" with C. I. O. organizers and the board's attorneys. Reed also charged that Donald Wakefield Smith (right), junior member of the labor board, made disparaging remarks about Armstrong at the Weirton hearing last November.

CAPT. L. HANSON, ON LAKE SHIPS FOR YEARS, QUITS

Manitowoc, Wis., July 20.—[Special.]—Capt. Louis Hanson, who for more than thirty years has skippered carferries across Lake Michigan, resigned today, having reached the age of 75. In recent years he sailed the Ann Arbor No. 6, one of the larger ferries.

Capt. Hanson began sailing the lakes in 1886, on a schooner. His father, the late Capt. Anton Hanson, owned a sailing vessel. He became associated with the Ann Arbor Line in 1903 as an officer on the old No. 1. During his many years on the lakes he never met with disaster although he was in two of the worst storms in lake history—that of Oct. 28, 1887, and the more recent one—Oct. 28, 1929—when the carferry Milwaukee of the Grand Trunk Line sank off Port Washington with all hands.

Wife Put on Probation After Husband Is Shot

Mrs. Genevieve George of 1314 Devon avenue was found guilty by Judge John J. Rooney yesterday of assault with intent to kil her husband. She was placed on probation for six months. The husband, William George, 29 years old, was shot and slightly wounded on July 2 in a tavern at 1422 Morse avenue. He testified yesterday that he accidentally discharged the gun himself. The Georges told the judge they intend to separate. Mrs. George is 25 years old.

LABOR BOARD'S STEEL RULINGS LINKED TO C. I. O.

Members in Rage; Almost Close Weirton Appeal.

the Weirton lawyer, it was Smith's turn to get angry.

"Mr. Reed," Smith declared, "I am going to put you and Armstrong on the stand. You can't prove that statement."

"I'll prove it in the proper place," returned Attorney Reed. "Of course you can hardly expect me to try the conduct of this board before the board itself. We are in an unusual situation here. In this appeal we are arguing with the board in its judicial capacity to undo something it has consented to do in its administrative capacity."

C. I. O. Serves Own Subpenas.

Picturing the circumstances which Armstrong had to face in his lengthy fight against the C. I. O. charges of unfair labor tactics filed against the Weirton company, Reed said:

"The labor board attorneys had a local constable, a C. I. O. man, who had a pocketful of blank subpenas which he went about serving. He was armed. The company lawyers had to file lengthy affidavits giving reasons why they wanted subpenas. We have filed petitions for subpenas as long ago as May 5 which as yet have not been acted upon.

"Coe, the C. I. O. organizer, went about town with an authority, written upon NLRB stationery, ordering him to be given every assistance.

"Every day labor board counsel went into secret conference with the examiner. They held meetings with him in his hotel room. Here was Armstrong fighting conditions like that for eleven months. Thank God for a lawyer with courage to stand up and fight in a case where the presiding officer was both judge and prosecutor."

Ready to Prove Charges.

"You ought to be ashamed to stand there and make such demagogic remarks," interrupted Chairman Madden.

"I'll prove them before the proper tribunal," replied Reed. He then delivered his charges regarding the meeting of C. I. O. Organizer Coe, C. I. O. Counsel Pressman, and Chairman Madden. He asserted the meeting was held in Washington "by arrangement with Examiner Smith."

Asked if he would apologize to Examiner Smith, Armstrong said he knew of nothing for which to apologize, that he merely had been trying to protect the interets of his client in protesting evidence he considered illegal.

SHERIF BECOMES REFORMER, TOO; HE MAKES A RAID

For the first time since June 9, when a Lake county reform group started gambling raids, Sherif Lawrence A. Doolittle yesterday made a raid. His deputies arrested George Johnson and George Sikokis for operating an alleged handbook in the White House tavern at Half Day.

Earlier Claude Warner, leader of the reform raiders, arrested Thomas Shanyfelt, 72 years old, for operating a slot machine in his tavern west of Waukegan. At the request of Special Prosecutor Charles E. Jack, Warner was made a special deputy sherif.

During the day Jack received word from Attorney General Otto Kerner to procede fearlessly with the gambling investigation.

FIGHT OIL WELL BLAZE.

Olney, Ill., July 20.—(AP)—Fire threatened widespread damage at the Ohio Oil company's Arbuthnot No. 9 well, a mile north of Noble, Ill., today. The flames were extinguished by Ohio and Pure Oil company firemen and the Olney department. The blaze started as the well was being cleaned.

C. I. O. AUTO WORKERS' LOCAL EXPELS CHIEF OFFICERS IN 'PURGE'

North Tarrytown, N. Y., July 20.—[Special.]—At a tumultuous meeting here this evening, members of Local 118 of the United Automobile Workers of America expelled five men who had been their principal officers until a week ago when the international board undertook a purge of so-called "disruptive and communistic elements" in the local. All five denied being communists.

Paul Phillippe, recently suspended from the presidency and now expelled from membership, declared he still considered himself the head of the local and accused Bert Harris, representative of the international board, of violating the union's constitution by not filing written charges and not providing a fair trial.

Phillippe said he would take an appeal to John L. Lewis, head of the C. I. O., parent organization, and to the union's international board.

FIRES SPREADING IN FORESTS OF NORTHWEST AREA

Seattle, Wash., July 20.—(AP)—The Campbell river conflagration in British Columbia was the big threat on the northwest forest fire front tonight, but in scores of other areas thousands of men continued a dogged fight.

The wind driven Canadian fire on Vancouver Island caused the navy department to send two destroyers to evacuate fighters and residents of beleaguered towns if need be.

On all but the north Idaho-western Montana front fires continued to spread unchecked. Unofficial estimates indicated nearly 80,000 acres of timber, some of it commercial, had been burned over since the season's worst fire period began about ten days ago.

New German Ship Lists at Dock; Ballast Corrected

HAMBURG, Germany, July 20.—The new Hapag-Elektro ship Patria developed a dangerous list in dock before she was completely ballasted, and could not be immediately righted. After a pumping boat from the fire department had put in the required water and replaced the flood valve, the ship resumed her natural position.

JURY CONDEMNS EGG ATTACK ON NORMAN THOMAS

Newark, N. J., July 20.—[Special.]—The Essex county grand jury today handed up a presentment condemning unnamed persons who started a riot last June at Military park, where Social Leader Norman Thomas was howled down and subjected to a barrage of rotten eggs and brickbats.

The disturbance, the jury said, was a "direct definance of the constitutional right of free speech."

There was no basis, the jury declared, for charges that police on duty at the park were lax, but failure to assign a larger force might have been a mistake in judgment. The grand jurors said they found no cause for returning an indictment.

SENATOR UNDER GRAFT CHARGES KILLS HIMSELF

State Officer Protected by New Yorker.

BY WILLIAM FULTON.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 20.—[Special.]—District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey today started an investigation into the tangled affairs of State Senator Julius S. Berg. Berg shot and killed himself at noon today rather than face an indictment on charges of graft. One witness said Berg was protecting a state official.

The senator, who was named in a true bill yesterday, committed suicide in his law office. He and his wife had spent the night there talking over the situation. When Mrs. Berg left the room for a moment her husband killed himself with a revolver.

Veteran of War.

Senator Berg, a one-legged war veteran and influential Democrat, had been dodging examination before the grand jury for ten days. Last night one of Dewey's assistants told Berg that today would be his last chance to appear. He did not tell him the true bill had been voted.

The indictment contained seventeen felony counts charging Berg with taking large sums of money for getting liquor licenses and concessions at the 1939 New York World's fair and for supporting legislation sought by various interests.

Pay High as $6,500.

Payments received by Berg ranged from $2,000 to $6,500 over a period of several years, it was learned.

Political circles heard last week that Dewey had something on Berg. The Bronx county Democratic committee yesterday refused to name him for reëlection.

Berg had been in the legislature since 1923. He moved up from the assembly to the senate in 1930. He was chairman of the motor vehicle committee of the senate.

Wife Begs Him to Tell.

Berg entered a hospital for shelter from Dewey last Thursday and was discharged after an examination. Yesterday he again broke a promise to appear. Then the true bill was voted.

Berg called his wife from Belle Harbor, N. Y., last night. This morning they left his office building for a short time. The elevator operator overheard Mrs. Berg begging her husband to tell everything.

"I can't, I can't," wailed Berg. "There is too much involved."

Then the operator heard Berg say what he could tell might implicate one of the highest officials in the state.

FREE DISBARRED ATTORNEY FROM THE COUNTY JAIL

Harold W. Jirka, disbarred attorney and brother of Dr. Frank Jirka, former state health director, was released from the county jail yesterday. He had been there for four months on a contempt citation issued by Probate Judge John F. O'Connell.

His release was possible because his attorney, Jay J. McCarthy, won the consent of Attorney Albert G. Duncan, representing the administrator for the estate of Joseph Lillig. McCarthy said that restitution of a $4,000 shortage in the estate will be made. The contempt charge grew out of this shortage.

Jirke began his indefinite county jail term April 28 after he was freed from Stateville prison, where he was serving a one to five year sentence for conspiracy. He was convicted in connection with an unsuccessful jail break involving six prisoners in the county jail in 1934.

COUNCIL PRAISES POLICE, FIREMEN FOR THRILL SHOW

The success of the first Chicago Police and Fire Thrill Show was made official yesterday when the city council passed a resolution commending the performance of the firemen and policemen who took part. The resolution, introduced by Ald. John F. Healy [6th], urged that the show be repeated next year.

The spectacle, which was sponsored by the fire and police departments, the Chicago park district, and THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, was held last Sunday afternoon in Soldiers' field. Seventy thousand persons saw the thrilling work of the men who protect the city from crime and fire. The substantial profit which was earned will be used next year to finance a free show.

U. S. Seeks $139,000 Tax on Bootleg Beer Profits

The federal government yesterday filed a claim in the Probate court against the estate of John J. Nolan for $139,297 in taxes on beer Nolan sold in the prohibition era. Nolan, said by government officials to have made $5,000,000 from the sale of beer while the country was dry, died June 28, 1937. He lived in Lyons and operated a brewery in Kankakee. Assistant United States District Attorney David Bazelon filed the claim.

Landon's Boyhood Home to Make Way for a Shop

Greenville, Pa., July 20.—(AP)—The house in which former Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas spent many happy boyhood days is to be razed to make way for a monument shop. The property in West Middlesex, Pa., was the former residence of the Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Mossman, maternal grandparents of the Republican party's nominee for President in 1936.

PASS CAR LINE PERMIT; DEMAND 3% OF EARNINGS

Company Is Expected to Fight Provisions.

BY WILLIAM BROMAGE.

The city council yesterday passed a street car ordinance granting the Chicago Surface Lines a temporary permit if it pays 3 per cent of its gross earnings for use of the streets. This would amount to approximately $1,400,000 annually. The measure was signed immediately by Mayor Kelly.

The ordinance will now be offered to the receivers of the car lines, who have warned they will reject it. The permit extends to Oct. 31.

Must Keep Cash Intact.

The ordinance requires the companies to keep intact their 31 million dollar cash resources for future modernization. It eliminates the disputed 171 million dollar book value of the properties for franchise purposes. City officials contend that valuation substantially exceeds the actual worth of the system.

The new ordinance was passed to replace the old 1907 street car ordinances which expired last Friday. Receivers for the system are given five days to accept it. If they refuse, the city will ask the federal court to order them to abide by it. The court has jurisdiction because of the receivership.

Guy A. Richardson, president of the surface lines and one of the four receivers, said he is not ready to make a formal answer.

Charge Permit Is Unfair.

Receivers of the lines have said they consider the ordinance unfair and confiscatory. Attorney for bond groups have warned they would appeal if the Federal District court ordered receivers to accept it. Under a recent order of Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson, the receivers are vested with full authority to accept or reject a temporary permit during the next three months.

The transportation committee, which is headed by Ald. James R. Quinn [50th], gave little consideration to an alternate permit proposed by surface lines receivers.

HUSBAND LEAVES HOME WITH A CAT AND IS DIVORCED

Joseph Adler, part owner of the Adler string of drug stores, took a prize Angora cat when he left home June 13. He said he preferred the cat to his wife, Myrtle, 35 years old, she told Judge Charles A. Williams yesterday. Attorney Maurice Marcus waived alimony because she has sufficient income from her sandwich shop. The divorce was granted. Her home is at 3411 North Western avenue.

New Electric Code Given Council; Modernizes Setup

Writ for Husband

MRS. FAY G. WEISS.

When she refused to carry the watermelon up three flights of stairs her husband beat her and forced her to do it. This incident in the domestic life of Abraham and Fay Weiss brought Mrs. Weiss into court yesterday with a suit for divorce.

Mrs. Weiss, who is 23, also went before Judge Oscar F. Nelson and got an injunction to keep Weiss from disposing of their brokerage and bank accounts of $60,000. Weiss is part owner of several hosiery stores and also is a public accountant with an office at 38 South Dearborn street. Her home is at 905 Carmen avenue.

The divorce bill, drawn by Attorney Morris K. Levinson, charged that Weiss often put his wife out of their car on cross-country trips and made her walk to the nearest town.

SLAYER OF TWO IS CLEARED BY CORONER'S JURY

Bryan Devaney, 623 West Madison street, a WPA worker, charged with fatally stabbing two other WPA workers on the west side July 12, told a coroner's jury yesterday that the two had attempted to rob him and a companion. Thereupon the jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide. The two killed were Michael Pykar, 23 years old, of 1621 14th street, and Stanley Liesen, 27, of 317 South Throop street. Devaney is to appear today in Felony court on two murder charges. His companion, James Heaney, of 440 South Clark street, who fled to call police, will appear on a disorderly conduct charge. Heaney corroborated Devaney's story of the robbery attempt.

BLAST KILLS 10 IN BALTIMORE WATER TUNNEL

Baltimore, Md., July 20.—[Special.]—Ten colored workmen were killed today by the premature explosion of 450 pounds of dynamite in a water tunnel they were blasting through solid rock. Four others of a crew of eighteen Negroes and whites were injured. Mayor Howard Jackson tonight ordered an investigation. The job is a WPA project employing abolt 500 men.

It was believed the blast was set off as the men were tamping down the explosive. After packing the dynamite into a hole in the end of the tunnel all nearby workmen customarily assembled at a safe place while the charge was exploded electrically.

Seven members of the crew were buried beneath the débris which the blast rolled through the tunnel. The eleven others were brought to the surface alive, but three died in hospitals. The white members of the crew escaped death.

The scene of the explosion was 200 feet below the surface near the city pumping station.

Coast Guardsmen Find Boat Missing for a Day

Missing since Tuesday, the fishing boat Fred Weimer was found yesterday afternoon by the coast guard cutter Rush about thirty-five miles northeast of Chicago. Aboard were three persons, including the owner, Fred Weimer. The boat's engines became disabled near trout fishing grounds off Saugatuck, Mich., Weimer said. When found, it was making slow progress under improvised sail. Weimer, whose home is at 2733 Ainslie street, owns a fish store at 1045 North avenue.

AL SMITH PROPOSES DALLYING LAWMAKERS SHOULD JOIN UNION

Albany, N. Y., July 20.—[Special.]—Alfred E. Smith spoke his mind tonight on the subject of unnecessary delays that have marked sessions of the state constitutional convention. The former governor offered the caustic suggestion that members of the legislature form a trade union to protect themselves from overwork.

Smith suggested this remedy to offset another suggestion he heartily disapproved, that a prohibition against lengthy state legislative sessions be written into the constitution.

"We're supposed to be drawing up a document covering the fundamental issues for 12,000,000 people," Smith said, "and here we are asked to tell the legislature how many hours they can work. Let's have them form a union and make all the members join."

BLAST CAUSES $5,000 DAMAGE IN ELGIN PLANT

A terrific explosion, followed by fire, caused damage of about $5,000 yesterday afternoon in the asphalt plant of W. R. Meadows, Inc., on the Fox river at Elgin. The blast was the second in a month in the factory. Two men were killed and three seriously injured in the first, on June 22.

Yesterday's explosion occurred in a 10,000 gallon tank filled with asphalt and naphtha. Workmen had quit for the day about 45 minutes earlier, and no one was inside the plant. The flames, which spread rapidly, attacked a boathouse near by. Two men saved themselves from being burned by leaping into the river. Firemen brought the flames under control after an hour. The Meadows company manufactures expansion joints for pavements.

Finds Salesman Dead on Running Board of Auto

Springfield, Ill., July 20.—(AP)—L. J. Scheer of Miami, O., was found dead today on the running board of his automobile near here. Coroner W. L. Dragoo said Scheer, salesman for a machine used by hospitals to administer anesthetics, apparently became ill and had attached a hose to a machine he carried in his car in an attempt to administer oxygen for his own relief.

TVA CENSORSHIP CHARGES MADE BY DR. MORGAN

Gag Rule Keeps Employes Silent, He Says.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Knoxville, Tenn., July 20.—[Special.]—Tennessee Valley authority censorship of free speech among its own employés caused a stormy session today of the congressional committee investigating the authority.

Dr. Arthur E. Morgan, deposed chairman, threw the session into turmoil when he charged Francis Biddle, chief counsel of the committee, had ordered him not to talk to TVA employés except in his presence, or after permission granted by him or James Lawrence Fly, chief counsel for the TVA.

TVA has insisted, it was charged, that its offices serve as a "clearing house" for information relating to the authority. It was revealed that Biddle had made application to the TVA management for contacts between Dr. Morgan and engineers.

Morgan Charges Interference.

Dr. Morgan, whose charges of mismanagement, deceit, and misrule by TVA brought about the inquiry, testified that even while he was chairman last year Directors David Lilienthal and Harcourt Morgan had adopted a rule under which he had to obtain permission from the manager's office before he could talk to the members of his own engineering staf.

In the course of the explosive session today Biddle jumped up and shouted he would resign if slurs against him continued.

Representative Thomas A. Jenkins [R., O.] had inquired whether TVA officials had been getting reports from Mr. Biddle on information TVA workers have been giving Dr. Morgan.

"If that kind of dirty slur that I'm in cahoots with TVA keeps up," cried Biddle, "I'll resign now."

"I think you'd do the country a great favor if you do," said Jenkins.

Brings Another Explosion.

Jenkins made a motion to give witnesses direct access to any TVA employé and to give employés of TVA freedom to offer assistance to any witness at any time. This brought another explosion, in the course f which Mr. Fly was on the stand.

Fly argued that free contacts would disrupt TVA. He said interviews with employés should be made through TVA "clearance." It was brought out by Representative Charles A. Wolverton [R., N. J.] that the procedure gags employés from speaking on TVA affairs even after working hours, unless TVA gets a list of those to be interviewed and approves it. Wolverton held it was a censorship of free speech, such as America has not seen before.

"No power under the sun," said Wolverton, "can preclude Dr. Morgan talking with any employés of TVA when off their jobs. No power of TVA can keep any employé after working hours from talking with him. I don't think any TVA employé should be put on the spot. It is un-American, unconstitutional, unjustified in any way—it would not be permitted in any private concern."

Put Off Until Today.

Consideration of the Jenkins motion went over until tomorrow.

Dr. Morgan, in the course of his afternoon testimony, also charged that TVA prepared, but did not use, in its defense against the 180 power companies' suit in Chattanooga last winter "unfair figures and misleading evidence."

Dr. Morgan denied a charge of Director Lilienthal that he had tried to "sabotage" the power suit which questioned the validity of TVA. The case now is before the Supreme court. Dr. Morgan submitted records and memoranda, and declared he had sought to turn TVA from a course of deception.

Pressure Put on Engineers.

Morgan said the TVA legal department put pressure on the engineers to prepare "impossible" figures playing down the cost of the hydroelectric phase of the valley experiment, and put weight on navigation and flood control.

Dr. Morgan said the idea was to make hydropower a mere byproduct of TVA instead of a chief factor.

He testified that for years Lilienthal had made an effort to adopt a by-products allocation of costs for the power phase of TVA, that TVA should regard the hydro cost as being only the cost of the plants at the dams and the transmission.

The rest was to be chalked up to navigation and flood control. All this had direct bearing on the yardstick to measure fair electric rates, a chief issue.

Electricity Called By-product.

"Electricity," he said, "was to be called only a by-product. Navigation and flood control were to pay for everything but the hydro plants at the dams. This would show power cost almost nothing. E. L. Chandler, TVA chief estimator, was asked by Fly to make an impossible comparison."

Morgan said Fly asked figures be prepared showing the cost of three sets of dams. One set was for flood control, the second for navigation. The third would take the total cost of these two, subtract it from the actual cost of the TVA projects, and call this the figure for power.

Cost of the TVA dams was put at $276,400,000. Cost of a set of eighteen low navigation dams was put at 144 million dollars, and of thirty-two low flood dams at 132 millions, a total of 276 million dollars. Morgan said by subtraction these figures thus would whittle power costs down to less than half a million dollars.

Morgan said when this came to his attention he wrote a memoranda declaring that such figures were unfair and could not be defended. The figures were not used in the case, he said, intimating this probably was due to his protest.

Cause of Censorship Blast.

The explosion over censorship came earlier, just after Dr. Morgan had got into the record a charge that in 1936 President Roosevelt sent him an explicit request to attend a Washington conference on a power transmission pool. The TVA board, however, he charged, denied his request for engineering assistance in preparing for the conference and that later Lilienthal criticized him for consulting with an engineering expert on pools.

"I'm not allowed to speak to TVA engineers unless I make arrangements that they come to your office," said Morgan, looking at Lawyer Biddle.

"I've been informed by counsel that I cannot talk to TVA employés except in the presence of two other men in his office."

"Has any such authority been granted?" asked Jenkins. Attorney Biddle said that the rule that Dr. Morgan might examine data and records of TVA in the presence of a TVA man and one from the committee had been extended to contacts with members of the personnel. This, he said, had been done after a talk with Chairman Donahey.

Cites Need of Assistance.

"Is it necessary for Dr. Morgan before he speaks to TVA staf members to make application through Mr. Biddle?" asked Mr. Wolverton.

"Dr. Morgan can do anything he wants," said Biddle, "but I think it is doubtful if he could get witnesses without our coöperation and help."

"Does that mean Dr. Morgan is prohibited from talking to any TVA employé unless the order comes through Mr. Biddle and TVA mangement?" asked Wolverton in a tone of astonishment.

"Why can't he speak to TVA employés directly. Why should Dr. Morgan, who had the confidence and ear of the President, be regarded as disrupting TVA simply by talking with someone with whom he has worked on TVA and had previous contacts? It's ridiculous to think Dr. Morgan would take a man off the job; I'm talking about hours when off duty."

Firemen's Cat Gets Broken Leg

Minnie II. after having splints put on leg at Anti-Cruelty society.

Hit by Auto

"You can't keep a good cat down," Lieut. Oliver Patton of Fire Engine company 13, 209 North Dearborn street, said yesterday. He referred to Minnie II., the company's 6 month old kitten mascot who is hobbling around the engine house with her right hind leg in splints. It was broken July 9 when a hit and run auto struck her in front of the engine house. Minnie last month proved to the world she could slide down the brass pole from the second floor as good as a fireman.

"She can't slide the pole and Dr. Wesley Young at the Anti-Cruelty society says it may be a long time before she can," Lieut Oliver said.

O'CONNELL LEADS IN MONTANA; FOE CONCEDES RACE

Helena, Mont., July 20.—(AP)—Montana Democrats renominated the state's two freshmen congressmen for second terms, incomplete returns from yesterday's primary elections indicated today.

Representative Jerry J. O'Connell, who told voters President Roosevelt instructed him to "defeat Senator Wheeler's machine so he wouldn't be back in 1940," was conceded renomination in the 1st district by his leading rival, Payne Templeton, Helena superintendent of schools. Returns from 327 precincts of 413 gave O'Connell 19,696, Templeton, 16,140.

James F. O'Connor of Livingston, incumbent, ran nearly 5 to 2 ahead of his only rival, H. D. Rolph, Farmers' Union leader, in the 2d congressional district.

The Republican race for congressional nomination in the 1st district remained close. The vote in 300 precincts: Dr. J. Thokelson, 4,704; Winfield Page, 4,350.

The Republican vote for congressional nomination in 597 precincts in the 2d district: W. C. Husband, 10,755; T. S. Stockdzl, 8,978.

Italy and Hungary Continue Rome Pact Without Austria

ROME, July 20.—(AP)—Italy and Hungary today declared the Rome protocols of 1934, by which they once were linked politically and economically with Austria, still effective between themselves. The statement was issued at the close of a three day conference between Premier Mussolini and Premier Bela Imredi and Foreign Minister Koloman von Kanya of Hungary. The Rome protocols bound the three countries to consult one another before taking political decisions on matters of interest to any or all of them and were intended to underscore Austrain independence.

KAISER'S FRIEND VANISHES; NAZIS ADD TO MYSTERY

Hitler Once Given Shelter by Missing Man.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, July 20.—Nazi officials refused today to confirm the arrest by the GSP [secret police] of Reinhold Wulle, former conservative Nationalist leader and one time friend of Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler and a friend of former Kaiser Wilhelm II. of Germany.

Neighbors asserted that Wulle and his wife, Wulle's assistant Herr Melos, and his wife, and other members of Wulle's staf were arrested by the GSP. Seals of the GSP were placed on the locks and doors of Wulle's Berlin offices.

Missing for a Week.

Wulle's friends admitted that Wulle and his wife and his assistant had not been seen for a week. They assumed the group was arrested. The GSP had cross-examined Wulle repeatedly, charging him with anti-Nazi activities.

Wulle, who was a member of the republican reichstag, was an ardent opponent of the republic. He favored return to the monarchy in the days of the republic. In the middle of the 1920s Wulle and his friends worked together with Hitler. It created quite a stir in conservative circles when, in those years, reports spread that the leader of the Nazis, when in Berlin incognito, lived in Wulle's home. Hitler and Wulle separated later, and Wulle joined the Nationalist group which, in the days before the Nazis assumed power, opposed them with the greatest energy.

Frequently Visited Kaiser.

In the days of the republic Wulle frequently called on the former kaiser in Doorn, his retreat in the Netherlands. He discontinued these visits after the Nazis took over power, fearing the GSP would use them against him and his friends. Wulle, who formerly edited a Junker agrarian paper, recently restricted his activity to writing editorials for a small news service with official permission.

A number of his books on German and world politics were banned by the Nazis. Wulle has many friends among the big landowners in Junker circles.

Vienna Nazis Raid Cafes, Beat Up Czech Patrons

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, July 20.—Bands of young Nazis last night invaded cafés and inns in the district of Vienna where many Czechs live. While some of the Nazis terrorized the patrons by ostentatiously fingering pistols in hip pockets, others went from table to table, assaulting Czechs and throwing crockery through windows. At one inn more than twenty panes of glass were smashed.

Jeers Win Decree

MRS. HILDEGARD LABBE.

When she attended sorority meetings, Mrs. Hildegard Labbe, 25 years old, waited until midnight for her husband to call for her. Usually he didn't arrive. When he did, he would drive past and jeer at her. This testimony won her a divorce yesterday from Leon Labbe, 1015 Dewey street, Evanston. Mrs. Labbe, who lives at 1245 Elmwood avenue, Evanston, told Judge Charles A. Williams she would waive alimony because she earns more money than her husband does.

LICENSE RULED INVALID; THREAT TO FREE SPEECH

New York, July 20.—[Special.]—Basing his decision upon the constitutional guarantee of a free press, Magistrate Morris Rothenberg in Tombs court today held invalid a law requiring vendors of booklets on city streets to pay a license fee.

The magistrate dismissed a charge of violating a city ordinance against Max Banks, 30 years old, who had been arrested June 10 while selling a pamphlet entitled "John L. Lewis Exposed."

The magistrate also dismissed a charge against Charles Slater, 30, of selling pamphlets at the foot of Whitehall street without a park department permit. In a decision accompanying the dismissal of Banks, Magistrate Rothenberg said:

"The vice of such a requirement [a license] becomes more apparent when thought of in connection with the exercise of the right of free speech. Clearly, it would be repugnant to the constitutional guarantee of free speech if a citizen were required to pay a license fee which is tantamount to a tax for the right to address a public meeting on the street."

FLYER CORRIGAN GROWS TIRED OF HERO BUSINESS

Besides, He Doesn't Want a Plane as Gift.

DUBLIN, July 20.—(AP)—The hero business is rapidly turning sour to the taste of Douglas G. [West is East] Corrigan, and he doesn't want anybody to give him an airplane.

"I certainly hope they have stopped being Corrigan-mad when I get back to America," said the young Californian who flew from New York to Dublin [by mistake].

He spent a busy day today in which he had several new ideas, received congratulations from important persons, and looked over calls offering marriage, movie contracts, and what not.

Corrigan was informed of a report that the Advertising club of Newark, N. J., was opening a campaign to collect $25,000 to present him a new plane.

Coming Home Next Week.

"I hope they don't do any such thing," he said. "I don't deserve it at all. I appreciate the spirit in which they are planning it, but this contribution business isn't right in view of the circumstances of my trip."

The flyer, who hopped the Atlantic in a 9 year old plane and contended all the time that he really meant to go to California but his compass was set wrong, planned to sail for home by the middle of next week.

He will have no trouble getting back. Five steamship lines were begging him to be their guest. The latest offer came from the United States maritime commission, which plans to take Corrigan and his plane to America in its steamship Lehigh.

Buys Some New Clothes.

During the day Corrigan bought new clothes—two suits and a spectator outfit. The shopping trip was sandwiched in between the hours when he received congratulations or studied over his new ideas.

Congratulations came from Ireland's new president, Douglas Hyde, and Howard Hughes, who with four others recently made a record round the world flight in less than four days. Admirers have sent Corrigan an average of twenty pieces of mail every hour since he landed here Monday.

"I should like to fly around the Eiffel tower," said Corrigan in musing over his new ideas, "then I would have something to talk about."

In declaring he would not accept any contracts until he returns to America, the young aviator said: "I am not interested in money. I can get sufficient fun and satisfaction from life without it." He intimated, however, that a movie contract might interest him.

BRITAIN VOTES MORE MONEY TO SPEED UP LAGGING AIR PROGRAM

LONDON, July 21 [Thursday].—(AP)—Britain early today boosted expenditures to speed up her lagging air expansion program to a total of 126,401,000 pounds [$632,005,000] for 1938.

Moving for adoption of a supplementary air estimate for 22,901,000 pounds [$114,505,000], Air Secretary Sir Kingsley Wood disclosed in a late night session of the house of commons that most of this would be raised by a loan.

Commons approved the supplementary estimate, biggest item of which was a $45,000,000 provision for new planes and barrage balloons, the latter a system of balloons supporting dangling cables to trap attacking aircraft. Other items included $27,500,000 for new factories, including shadow factories to manufacture of engines and carburetors. A shadow factory is one primarily built for other materials but readily convertible to make war supplies.

The measure also included provision for increasing the royal air force personnel by 13,000 to a total of 96,000.

LUPE FILES 3D DIVORCE ACTION AGAINST TARZAN

Los Angeles, Cal., July 20.—(AP)—Lupe Velez, screen actress, today filed suit for a divorce from Johnny Weismuller, one time swimming champion who became one of the screen's Tarzans. Suits, in 1934 and 1935, ended in reconciliations. They were married in 1933.

Miss Velez charged Weissmuller in the last few years has been sullen, morose, and jealous.

Miss Velez returned to Santa Catalina Island after signing the complaint. Weissmuller was on the way to Lake Arrowhead.

WAY TO A MAN'S HEART

By CALEB

FOR THE NEXT few weeks they will be especially busy in the kitchens at our Men's Grill. It's canning time, and under the supervision of a white haired lady with twinkling eyes, the force has set out to prepare several hundred quarts of fruits, relish, sauce, jelly, pickles, preserves and some special concoctions that she will not even talk about.

"Wait and see," she says, and goes about her busy way testing this, stirring that, admonishing her assistants. The air is heavy with the smell of spices and the sharp tang of vinegar. On a big table with wooden top scoured almost pure white is a stack of tomatoes —both red and yellow.

Colors—vivid in contrast; odors —heavy-sweet and gently-sour by turn. The warm rush of air from huge ranges; heaping cups of sugar, red peppers, green peppers, pale pink cubes of watermelon rind ready to be made into pickles. No wonder they're busy!

Until the canning season ends this fall the array of jars and containers will grow steadily on pantry shelves. In the end, some two dozen mixtures will have been prepared against the pleasant months of eating to come.

The recipes by which these things are made have been gathered through the years from many sources. Most of them belong in the "home made" category. Each mixture has a tradition to meet —a special turn that artists in the Grill kitchen have learned to give it. Each item on the list is there because men like and ask for it.

Each dish has its special followers. Let any favorite disappear for too long from the menu—and we are quickly called to time. There are devotees of our pepper relish, of the rhubarb chutney, watermelon pickles, oil pickles, cherry olives (and they are the kind a certain business man used to carry to school in his lunch box), corn relish (it must meet the requirements of a gentleman who lived twenty years in southern Indiana), chili sauce, apple butter, beet relish, and half a dozen others.

Years of experience tell just how much of each thing should be prepared. So when the canning crew swings into action each July, there is ample precedent by which to proceed——and, by the same token, there is a world of good masculine eating ahead for the coming months.

HELP 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

To Flush out Acids and Other Poisonous Waste

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 Miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the beginning of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 Miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

HELP STOMACH DIGEST FOOD

Without Laxatives—and You'll Eat Everything from Soup to Nuts

The stomach should digest two pounds of food daily. When you eat heavy, greasy, coarse or rich foods or when you are nervous, hurried or chew poorly—your stomach pours out too much fluid. Your food doesn't digest and you have gas, heartburn, nausea, pain or sour stomach. You feel sour, sick and upset all over.

Doctors say never take a laxative for stomach pain. It is dangerous and foolish. It takes those little black tablets called Bell-ans for Indigestion to make the excess stomach fluids harmless, relieve distress in 5 minutes and put you back on your feet. Relief is so quick it is amazing and one 25c package proves it. Ask for Bell-ans for Indigestion.

PAID VACATIONS ADDED TO WORK LAWS IN SWEDEN

Vast Burocracy Required for Social Legislation.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 20.—Sweden's most recent addition to its advanced social legislation is a parliamentary act passed last month enforcing a legal, paid vacation of twelve days yearly, exclusive of Sundays, for all employes who have held a job for more than 180 days. For piece workers, vacation payment is calculated on average earnings.

This act caused a lot of grumbling among some employers, but others say it has served to stimulate trade in other directions by sending more persons to amusement places and resorts.

An eight hour day, applied with many exceptions, has been in effect since 1919. The law limiting working hours is one part of a large body of legislation designed to improve the welfare of workers. The legislation forbids, for instance, night work in bakeries, establishes the age of employment of minors at 14, fixes leave of absence for women employes in cases of childbirth, and covers elaborately with rules and regulations all occupational risks and accidents.

Two Agencies Set Up.

Two agencies have been set up for the application and supervision of this legislation. The first is the labor council of nine members which governs application of the eight hour working day law. Wide exceptions are allowed in this law, especially in the case of agriculture, timber cutting, railways, barber shops, hotels, and restaurants. The principle is that the hours should not exceed forty-eight a week or, in the case of agricultural and other seasonal activities, fifty-four hours weekly.

The council is overburdened with work. In 1935 it dealt with more than 3,000 cases regarding limitation of working hours. In the last fifteen years it has dealt with more than 33,000 cases.

The second institution for supervising the workers' legislation is factory inspection. The country is divided into nine districts, each under direction of a factory inspector, an assistant, and two subinspectors. In addition there are several special inspectors for forestry, mining, explosive manufacture, and shipping.

Large Burocracy Required.

Sweden's social legislation must be very costly because it requires a large body of burocrats to run it, and it has been the subject of much political bickering between Socialists and conservatives. In general, some idea of the scope of the legislation is given by a survey of organizations which administer it and of the way in which workers and employers have organized themselves.

The ministry of social welfare is at the head of the social administration. This ministry includes what is generally designated as the ministry of interior in other countries. Under it comes:

1. A medical and health board for matters relating to hygiene and care of the sick.

2. A state insurance board institution dealing with accident insurance and workers' protection.

Pension Board Included.

3. An insurance council dealing with disputes on the application of accident insurance legislation.

4. A pension board for old age and invalid insurance and matters concerning sickness funds.

5. A labor court for the settlement of disputes involving the interpretation and application of collective contracts. Collective contracts now are in force involving about 720,000, or nearly the entire membership of organized labor.

6. A labor council for the application of legislation on hours of work.

7. A social board which is the central authority for dealing with all such matters of a social nature which are not specially assigned to any other administrative departments. The work of the board is divided into six bureaus, two of which are statistical. Unemployment insurance and employment exchanges, poor relief, child welfare, and reform of inebriates are other matters dealt with.

8. A conciliation commission for intervening in labor disputes. Sweden, for this purpose, is divided into seven districts.

Confederation Embraces Bulk.

The Swedish General Confederation of Trade Unions embraces the bulk of organized workers. Membership is around 800,000, with forty-two national federations belonging to it. The unions are closely associated with the Social Democratic party, now in power.

A number of trade unions do not belong to the confederation. They remain outside for tactical reasons, but do not disagree on policy. They have a membership of 30,000. Another syndicalist organization adhering to Moscow has a membership of 30,000. There also is a Farmers' National association, with 60,000 members, and an association of salaried employes, including government workers, known as the Daco.

The Radical Socialists and communists who are trade unionists are not compelled to subscribe to the Social Democratic doctrin, having what is called the "right of reservation" in trade union councils. They often succeed locally in getting a majority in a trade union.

Employers Also Organized.

Employers have what is called the Swedish Employers' association, with a membership of 4,000. It was organized later than the unions for the purpose of meeting the unions' rising power after a series of strikes at the beginning of the century. The employers' association is more centralized than the unions, many of which remain fairly independent.

Swedish experts point out that the system in force in Sweden and the legislation on which it depends is conditioned by the size of the country and the homogeneity of the population. Sweden has only slightly more than 6,000,000 people.

Up to 1870 agriculture engaged 72 per cent of Sweden's population and industry 28 per cent. The census of 1930 showed that agriculture comprised 39 per cent and industry 54 per cent. Even with this change, however, two-thirds of the country's population still is found in rural districts because many industrial enterprises are located there to be close to raw materials, iron and timber, or water power.

Swedes point out that this also makes a difference in the application of their social legislation. Urbanization is not yet extensive in Sweden.

Turn Valencia Drive

(Story in adjoining column.)

Spanish loyalist resistance at Ragudo pass (1) has diverted rebel drive toward Begis and halted the insurgent drives toward Viver and Segorbe (2). Rebel infantry pushed closer to Almenara (3) aided by artillery and aerial bombardment.

REPORT EXPECTED SOON ON BRITISH PALESTINE PROBE

LONDON, July 20.—(AP)—The government announced today that the commission it sent to Palestine to study the question of partition of the strife-torn Holy Land had almost completed its investigation and would hasten its recommendations. During the two weeks ending on July 19, seventy-seven persons were killed and 247 wounded in Palestine Arab-Jewish clashes.

Malcolm MacDonald, secretary for colonies, told the house of commons that the four-man commission, headed by Sir John Woodhead, would start for home early next month. It has been in Palestine since April 27.

The commission is expected to make recommendations concerning the future of the Holy Land, administered by Britain under mandate. An earlier commission drew up a plan for partition into an Arab state, a Jewish state and a greatly reduced British mandate.

URGES BRITAIN CEDE TERRITORY TO CUT WAR DEBT

Seattle, Wash., July 20.—(AP)—Senator Robert R. Reynolds [D., N. C.], en route to Alaska for a study of the territory's defenses, suggested today that Great Britain settle part of her war debt to the United States by ceding to this country a corridor to connect Alaska with the states.

The senator, member of the senate military affairs committee, also suggested that England and France turn over to the United States their insular possessions near American shores and receive credit on their war debts, and the United States utilize the islands for national defense.

Specifically, he suggested England transfer Labrador and Newfoundland to the United States and France her West Indies islands and French Guiana.

WOMAN SAVED FROM SUICIDE.

Mrs. Mary Cerone, 22 years old, a night club cashier, tried to end her life by gas yesterday in her apartment at 3845 Washington boulevard. The clerk smelled the gas and called an inhalator squad. Revived, Mrs. Cerone said her marriage was unhappy.

ITALIAN TROOPS HURLED BACK IN SPANISH BATTLE

Loyalists Cling to Pass Shielding Valencia.

HENDAYE, France [At the Spanish Frontier], July 20.—(AP)—Fierce government resistance at Ragudo pass on the Teruel highway to the sea was reported today to have diverted the Spanish rebel drive on Viver, Segorbe, Sagunto and Valencia.

Italian troops fighting under Generalissimo Francisco Franco's red and gold banner shifted the brunt of their mechanized assault to the Begis sector, five miles west of Viver.

The rebels reported penetration of the Begis fortifications, 35 miles northwest of Valencia, while defense forces clung to their positions at Ragudo pass, barring the direct southeastward path to the Mediterranean.

Strike Down Coastal Road.

While the center of fighting in the rebels' six-day-old drive was on that front, a rebel coastal column struck again near Almenara, about five miles northeast of Sagunto on the Barcelona-Valencia seaboard highway.

Franco's artillerymen and airmen were reported to have reduced Almenara's outlying fortifications. Infantry pushed a little closer to Sagunto, at the intersection of the Teruel and Barcelona highways about 15 miles north of Valencia.

Fighting on the Begis-Viver front was marked by intermittent pushes of Italian tank and armored car units behind artillery fire. The rebels announced 4,500 prisoners were taken in the last four days, including a political commissar carrying important papers.

U. S. Embassy Shelled.

A government report reaching Madrid said 40,000 Italian soldiers were fighting for Franco on the Teruel road front. Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez del Vayo, in Barcelona, charged that Italian troops still were entering rebel Spain despite nonintervention moves for withdrawal of foreign warriors.

Madrid, in its 21st month of rebel siege, was shelled today and the United States embassy building, unoccupied by diplomatic officers since early in the war, was hit by four projectiles. No one in the building was injured but seven persons elsewhere in the city were wounded.

ANTI-STALINIST RING URGING NEW REVOLT ELUDES GPU SEARCH

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, July 20.—Proclamations calling on the Red army, workers, and peasants to revolt and overthrow the terrorist régime of Dictator Josef Stalin and N. I. Yezhov, GPU chief, in Russia were distributedly widely in Moscow during a session of the supreme council of the Russian Federative Socialist Republic, it was learned today.

The appearance in Moscow and other cities of printed leaflets calling for the destruction of the Stalin dictatorship is becoming more frequent, and although the GPU [secret police] has conducted all-night searches in many sections an opposition organization still is functioning.

The Moscow press reported that Japanese agents succeeded in distributing the handbills to Siberian garrison towns, calling upon soldiers and officers to desert and cross the frontier into Manchukuo, where they are promised employment. Some proclamations were signed by Maj. Gen. Lucikov Samolrovich, commander of the GPU forces in Siberia, who recently fled across the border to Japanese dominated Manchukuo and now is in Tokio.

CHINESE BEAT OFF JAP ATTEMPT TO GAIN ON YANGTZE

SHANGHAI, July 20.—(AP)—Japanese failed today to break Chinese lines for an advance up the Yangtze river toward Hankow, provisional Chinese capital, as the temperature soared above 100 degrees.

Chinese entrenched on the river banks held fast against planes and river boats' guns attempting to puncture the defenses in a "big push" which had Kiukiang, 135 miles below Hankow, as its immediate objective.

Two Japanese warships shelled Chinese positions at Hukow, at the mouth of Lake Poyang and 16 miles downstream from Kiukiang. Three others attempted to force a passage upstream but were repulsed by land batteries.

Chinese air headquarters announced several Japanese transports had arrived off Hukow, only to be bombarded by Chinese planes. One of the river craft was said to have been sunk.

Japanese planes raided Kiukiang and the surrounding area almost continuously. Other Japanese squadrons bombed Chinese positions along the river between Kiukiang and Hankow.

JAP-SOVIET WAR SCARE GROWS; TROOPS RUSHED

Manchukuo and to be fortifying their position. The Japanese have announced the invasion took place on July 12.

Information available in Riga indicated Marshal Vassily C. Bluecher, commander of the far eastern Red army, ordered this move to halt efforts of Gen. Mechlis, vice commissar of war, who is now in Khabarovsk, to arrest and execute some of his best officers.

Bluecher Ordered to Return.

Bluecher has been ordered twice in the last fortnight to report personally in Moscow. The first time he replied that the critical situation in the far east demanded his presence in Khabarovsk. His answer to the second order, signed by the political bureau of the communist party, is unknown.

Since the first command, however, his troops have crossed the border near the point where the Siberian-Manchukuan-Corean frontiers meet and Japan has made a categorical demand on Moscow that they be withdrawn.

In diplomatic terminology, the word "categorical" means that the next step will be an ultimatum.

Bluecher last week objected to the presence of Mechlis in Siberia, suggesting his recall before the morale of his army is damaged seriously. Moscow, however, wishes to undermine Bluecher's authority in eastern Siberia by purging his loyal officers and replacing them with men who will obey Moscow's commands.

Fear War Provocation.

Diplomats in Moscow believe Bluecher capable of provoking war with Japan to prevent his position being undermined. Besides being the most capable Red army leader left after repeated purges, they say he also is responsible for the fact that the brand of communism in Siberia is much milder than Stalin's terrorist régime in Russia.

The political bureau, with Stalin present, held another meeting Saturday to consider the far eastern situation.

A report was made by M. Stomaniakov, vice commissar of foreign affairs. He said communist Internationale agents in Manchukuo reported that the population there was ready for an uprising and that the presence of Red army forces in Manchukuan territory would strengthen the guerrilla warfare being waged by nonpartisan troops against the Japanese.

Marshal K. E. Voroshilov, commissar for defense, presented a report from Bluecher, who declared that Japanese authority in Manchukuo is shattered and that Japan's repeated attempts to draft men for the war in China have failed. His report contained many details of the rising of the Manchukuans against the Japanese, but failed to mention the invasion of his forces into Manchukuan territory.

The political bureau decided to send an urgent telegram to Bluecher to come to Moscow.

It was learned also in Moscow that Voroshilov has concentrated large forces on the Bessarabian [Rumanian] frontier. The troops are said to include twenty divisions of infantry, cavalry, and motorized and mechanized units. Soviet diplomats said the Red army would move through Rumania, should it be necessary, to help Czechoslovakia.

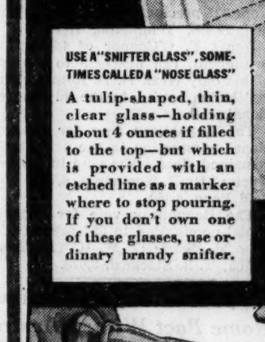
The Most Severe Test for BODY in Whiskey!

MAKE THIS REVEALING TEST FOR BOUQUET, BODY, TASTE, AROMA, FLAVOR



USE A "SNIFTER GLASS", SOMETIMES CALLED A "NOSE GLASS"

A tulip-shaped, thin, clear glass—holding about 4 ounces if filled to the top—but which is provided with an etched line as a marker where to stop pouring. If you don't own one of these glasses, use ordinary brandy snifter.

1 Fill the "snifter glass" to the line.

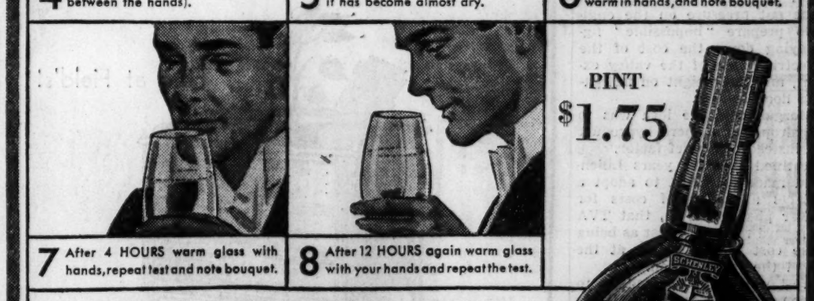
2 Now carefully warm the "snifter glass" with the whiskey in it.

3 Pour the whiskey, which you are testing, out of the glass.

4 Warm the glass again (rolling it between the hands).

5 Shake out the glass until you see it has become almost dry.

6 After 1 HOUR pick up glass, warm in hands, and note bouquet.



7 After 4 HOURS warm glass with hands, repeat test and note bouquet.

8 After 12 HOURS again warm glass with your hands and repeat the test.

PINT $1.75

NOTE If the bouquet still lingers after this protracted period, you hold in your possession a whiskey which has passed the most severe test that any whiskey can undergo.

Schenley's Bonded Belmont passes test with flying colors!

It takes a truly great whiskey to pass a test as severe as this. To our knowledge, there is one whiskey that can meet it... Bonded Belmont. For Bonded Belmont is the real old-style Kentucky Bourbon of luxury unlimited... a Bourbon of body, bouquet and flavor deep as a diamond... a veritable gold mine of good taste!

BRITAIN, FRANCE SHUN NAZI OFFER; SUSPECT TRICK

View Peace Proposal as Move to Cause Split.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 20.—While an elaborate program of entertainment for King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of England was proceeding smoothly amid growing popular enthusiasm, the Anglo-French alliance was submitted to a critical test today in the form of a proposal for a settlement of European affairs by Reichsfuehrer Hitler's confidential agent, Capt. Fritz Wiedemann.

Wiedemann made a hasty trip to London and called on Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary, just before Halifax departed for Paris. He is known to have made attractive offers of assurances and promises regarding a peaceful settlement of the Czechoslovak question and disarmament and to have declared that Germany wanted British friendship.

Looked on With Suspicion.

Halifax presented this offer to French Premier Edouard Daladier and Foreign Minister Georges Bonnet today. It was declared unofficially in Paris that Capt. Wiedemann's proposal was looked upon with great suspicion. It was suspected of being a trick to separate France and Britain.

Statesmen of the two countries apparently were not much moved by the offer, and a communique issued at the termination of the conference indicated that they withstood the test reasonably well.

The communique indicated that the British and French attitude with regard to Czechoslovakia remains the same as on April 28 and 29, when Daladier and Bonnet visited London and reached an agreement with the British. Ideas for a settlement may not be the same, but they are united in their determination not to let Germany settle with a mailed fist.

The statesmen also discussed the conditions under which the Italo-British accord for the withdrawal of troops from the Spanish civil war may become effective. Bonnet will be satisfied with Halifax's assurances.

King Backs Diplomats.

The determination not to be separated by anybody's machinations and a strengthening of the Anglo-French accord found happy corroboration in King George's speech at the city hall this morning. Speaking in French, he referred to the visit of his grandfather, King Edward VII., in 1903 when he helped lay the foundations of the Anglo-French entente, and to the visit of his father, King George V. in 1914, on the eve of Anglo-French coöperation in the world war.

"Today I, in my turn, have come and I find our entente has lost nothing of its strength or vitality," he said.

The king started his busiest day during his Paris stay with a visit to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier. Wearing the uniform of field marshal, with republican guards and Moroccan Spahi cavalry doing the honors, he laid a wreath of poppies and oak leaves on the tomb.

People Get Closer View.

The ceremony marked a slight moderation in police severity, enough to allow people to get a look at the king without endangering him. He rode up the Champs Elysées at a slower pace and could be seen clearly. He was roundly cheered, and gave acknowledgment at times by doffing his cap, and again by gaily waving his right rand and smiling broadly.

The queen, too, could be seen at later ceremonies, and won the title of the "smiling queen."

The king returned to the Quai d'Orsay—the sovereigns' home during their visit—and was joined by the queen and President Albert Lebrun of France and Mrs. Lebrun in a trip up the Seine river to the city hall.

It was a beautiful ceremony, and for Paris a complete novelty, as the river rarely sees anything but coal, wine, oil, and stone barges.

The rulers lunched at the British embassy with members of the diplomatic corps and then visited the British art show at the Louvre. A naval detachment kept the public out of the Tuileries gardens while they were there.

At 4 o'clock they went to a garden party given by the city of Paris in the famous Bagatelle formal garden in the Bois de Boulogne park. Three thousand Parisians greeted the royal couple.

JEWELS SPARKLE AS PARIS FETES RULERS AT OPERA

Medals and Gold Braid Embellish Scene.

BY MAY BIRKHEAD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 20.—King George VI. and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain, wearing their grandest regalia, tonight set the note for a display of costumes, uniforms, dresses, decorations, and jewels such as one dreams of. It was at a gala performance in the Opera—an event which dwarfed everything in the way of royal entertainment.

It was certainly the most dazzling affair given in the Opera in this generation, and possibly ever given anywhere. The queen, in her white satin gown with the broad red ribbon and grand cross of the Legion of Honor awarded her yesterday, had the appearance of fairly dripping with diamonds from the crown of her head to the tips of her fingers. Her dark hair was surmounted by a high, dazzling tiara of diamonds. Three rows of large diamonds were around her neck.

King In Red and Gold.

The males were quite as resplendant as the women, and in some cases more so. The king wore a bright red uniform with gold braid and marvelously jeweled insignia of many orders. Illustrious military figures, such as Marshal Henri Philippe Petain and Gen. Maxime Weygand, as well as diplomats from scores of countries, wore their many decorations. One of the attending maharajahs wore a colosal diamond ornament in the front of his turban.

Brig. Gen. E. L. Spears of Great Britain was present with his wife, the former Mary Borden, of Chicago, whose white dress was set off by a tiara of emeralds and diamonds.

The king and queen, whose state visit began yesterday, were the center of two charming pictures today—scenes which might have been compositions of 18th century French painters or etchers. The historic Seine was the setting of the first, as the sovereigns were escorted to the city hall by boat.

Seine Ride Picturesque.

After the king returned to the royal quarters in the foreign ministry after laying a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, he doffed the khaki of a field marshal, donned the uniform of an admiral and, with Queen Elizabeth, appeared at the water's edge. The queen wore a white lace dress sweeping to the ground, with a small jacket and her white hat, turned up from her face was extremely becoming.

President Lebrun conducted the queen, and the king, accompanied by Mme. Lebrun, followed. A canopy of white gold sheltered a rich red carpet leading down to the water's edge. The landing was tiled in red, white and blue.

The white and gold vessel bearing the king and queen and their hosts was escorted by three launches as a compliment to the king's naval service. The scene was particularly attractive as the small fleet passed under beautiful arching bridges. They landed at the Hotel de Ville—or city hall—amid cheering throngs, and M. de Launay, head of the Paris city council, welcomed the rulers whom Paris has quite taken to its heart.

Garden Party at Château.

The other scene was in the tiny Château Bagatelle in the Bois de Boulogne, a gem of a structure put up in Marie Antoinette's gayer days for her brother-in-law, Comte d'Artois. The occasion was a garden party at once modern and old fashioned, with a large company comprising the élite of Paris gathered to meet the king and queen.

This affair was as informal as any reception can be where the guests of honor are royalty of the first rank. It revealed the graciousness of the king and queen. They circulated generally among the guests, strolling over the broad lawns with the group of dignitaries near them. The queen was a picture in her snow white dress of daintiest lace and tulle sweeping the sward, her sunshade hat of white straw having a large brim covered generously with white aigrettes. She wore three strings of superb pearls with a diamond clasp in the back and a large diamond brooch at her left shoulder, earrings of diamonds and pearls and diamond bracelets on her long white gloves. She carried a white envelope bag with two diamond clips at the fastening.

MME. LEBRUN'S ROYAL CURTSEY STIRS A STORM

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, July 20. — A controversy started today in the Paris press on whether Mme. Albert Lebrun, wife of the French president, was right in curtseying to Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain when she met the British sovereigns on their entry into Paris yesterday.

Pictures in the papers plainly show her in the act of a deep curtsey, and many Parisians were shocked, declaring the president's wife should consider herself an equal of the king's wife.

The semi-official explanation tonight, however, was that the president's wife has no official standing in French law, as the president has, while the queen does have in her country. It was pointed out that until about two decades ago the president's wife never accompanied visiting royalty to public ceremonies but merely received them in the presidential palace.

MRS. BARBARA STATLER.

Los Angeles, Cal., July 20.—(AP)—Mrs. Barbara M. Statler, former dental nurse, filed suit today to divorce Ellsworth M. Statler of the wealthy Statler hotel family and dismissed her separate maintenance suit against him. Charging cruelty, she said he had a violent temper and told her he was sorry he married her. After two recent hearings in Mrs. Statler's separate maintenance suit a settlement was arranged by which lawyers said she would receive more than $50,000. The couple married Oct. 1, 1937, and separated April 18, 1938, the divorce complaint said.

BRITISH PREMIER TOLD TO EXPLAIN TALKS WITH NAZI

Laborites Suspect New Move to Pacify Hitler.

LONDON, July 20.—(AP)—Labor members of parliament today sought from Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain an explanation of secret negotiations between Great Britain and Germany.

The action came after a quiet conference between Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, and Capt. Fritz Wiedemann, Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's adjutant, had given rise to reports that the two nations were preparing to launch new diplomatic talks to end all points of misunderstandings between them.

Czechoslovakia the Subject.

Lieutenant Commander R. T. H. Fletcher, backed by other Labor members, gave notice he would ask Chamberlain tomorrow to "make a statement concerning the purport of conversations between Herr Wiedemann and members of his majesty's government." Wiedemann talked with Halifax at the foreign secretary's London home Monday night.

Both German and British official sources disclaimed knowledge of the subjects covered. But "unauthorized interpretations" which never were denied disclosed that the problem of Czechoslovakia's Sudeten German [Nazi] minority was uppermost.

Berlin sources said Halifax was willing to back Sudeten demands for autonomy from Czechoslovakia, but not so far as Wiedemann wanted. At the same time, Halifax was said to have expressed himself against the spread of Nazi anti-Semitism to Czechoslovakia and to have remained silent in the face of German insistence that Czechoslovakia sever her friendly alliance with soviet Russia.

Offers Peaceful Settlement.

London sources said Wiedemann brought hearty greetings and expressions of good will from Hitler and requested that Halifax, now in Paris, relay them to the French foreign office.

Wiedemann was reported to have said Hitler would be pleased to settle the Czechoslovak-Sudeten question peacefully and would like to improve British-German relations, which currently are "fundamentally sound but not quite satisfactory."

Halifax, it was said, suggested that Germany could show coöperation by joining in solving the Jewish refugee problem, but Wiedemann remained silent.

British sources said the conference was arranged at Hitler's request, but others declared the British government, together with the French, was eager to join Germany in stabilizing relations between Sudeten Germans and the Czechoslovak government.

SOISSONS: 20 YEARS AGO.

Twenty years ago last night the German high command gave up all hope of holding the Soissons sector and the order to resist was changed to an order to retreat. American soldiers, in firm possession of the heights commanding Soissons, saw the flames of burning stores within the enemy lines. Twenty years ago this morning the world knew that American arms had turned the tide, but it was long before the full meaning of the Soissons victory was appreciated. The retreat, which began the night of July 20, ended only with the armistice.

If there was a crucial battle in the war it was the battle of Soissons. In March and April the Germans had delivered crushing blows, directed particularly at the British. Throughout the spring the allies had been giving ground. In mid-July the enemy succeeded in forcing a crossing of the Marne. To many observers on both sides it looked like the beginning of the end.

They discounted the power of the American divisions. To be sure, the 1st and 2d had given good accounts of themselves in a number of engagements, but these encounters were of limited scope. The 3d had held the line of the Marne with extraordinary tenacity. But still there was a question in many minds as to the real worth of the American troops.

The answer was delivered at dawn on July 18. The 1st and 2d American divisions and the Moroccan division of the French army had moved to the front on the night of the 17th through the forest of Villers-Cotterets under the most harrowing conditions. The men had had little sleep for several days. The roads through the forest were wholly inadequate. The preparation for the advance had been sketchy in the extreme. To make matters worse, a heavy rain fell. The artillery had been given no opportunity to spot their objectives. Infantry units became lost in the tangle of trails and ravines.

The attack was ordered for 4:35 a. m. A number of battalions were obliged to advance on the run through the forest to reach their jumping off place and arrived there exhausted just as the push began. But they kept on going. By nightfall they had advanced nearly five miles.

It is unnecessary here to retell the story of the battle. It ended in a victory, won against the most stubborn resistance. "From the purely military point of view," wrote Field Marshal Hindenburg, "it was of the greatest and most fateful importance that we had lost the initiative to the enemy." The German crown prince echoed the sentiment. He called the battle the turning point of the war. The German chancellor said that from that day "the most optimistic among us understood that all was lost."

The Americans of the 3d, 4th, 26th, 28th, and 42d divisions had played a gallant part in the defensive action which preceded Soissons. The Americans of the 1st and 2d divisions played the leading rôle in the offensive operation. It cost them 8,000 casualties, of whom 1,500 were killed. Sixty per cent of all the infantry officers were casualties. But elements of eleven German divisions had been met and defeated, 3,500 officers and men had been captured along with 125 guns and 300 heavy machine guns. And the road to the final victory had been opened.

AN IMPORTANT STUDY.

The study by the American Federation of Investors of 150 business concerns, which was published in yesterday's TRIBUNE, is a mine of information about business enterprise in this country. The concerns studied constitute an important segment of American industry. With assets of 41 billion dollars they gave employment during 1937 to an average of more than 3 million persons. Thus, they had about as many on their pay rolls last year as are now on the rolls of WPA.

Although the number of employés represented is large, they are not the most numerous group with a stake in the businesses. The study shows these companies had 6 million 490 thousand stockholders. Thus there are twice as many stockholders as there are employés.

For supplying the capital which created 3 million jobs and for taking the risks of loss these stockholders were paid dividends in 1937 which averaged $1.95 per share of stock. Those dividends were that large because of the surplus earnings tax which punished firms that did not disburse all that remained of earnings after the taxes were paid. In years like the present in which earnings are scant the dividends no doubt will average much smaller.

That figure of $1.95 a share for dividends can be compared with another figure, the amount of taxes paid by the concerns. That is $2.62 per share of stock. Thus stockholders last year were supplying capital and taking risks which benefited others more than themselves.

How the burdens of taxation have become progressively heavier upon enterprise is shown also by this study. These companies paid taxes in 1937 amounting to 1 billion 631 million dollars. That was 372 million dollars more than the year before, and nearly a billion dollars more than five years earlier.

The taxes collected from these 150 companies in 1937 would have paid the total costs of the federal and all the state governments in 1913 with enough left over to extinguish half the prewar national debt. This amount, mind you, was exacted from just 150 companies in a single year!

The hope for complete and lasting business recovery lies in making it attractive for people of means to supply the capital to start new businesses. Depression results when government discourages the starting of new enterprises. The number of new businesses launched in the first four months of this year was the smallest on record. In the four states used by the government as a sample 5,000 fewer concerns were started in the first four months of 1938 than in the first four months of 1932. The tax which skins its victims alive is avoided by those who can avoid it.

THE KING AND QUEEN GO TO PARIS.

The British find an excellent use for the monarchical institution in the ceremonial visit of the king and queen to Paris. Europe has been employing circus methods of diplomacy to demonstrate solidarities, advertise fronts, whoop up enthusiasms, and intimidate the neighbors. Mussolini and Hitler visited each other and made the occasion one for a parade of military might, seeking to impress the world with the idea of what the swaggering Fascists could do if they were opposed by the faltering democracies, if such, of Europe or by the smaller autocracies.

Mussolini, getting the return visit and thus having the second shot at the shining mark, was generally accredited with outdoing even the Nazi pomp with the Fascist display of a nation of happy warriors who wouldn't get what they really wanted until they died on the battlefield for dear old Duce and the grand council of Fascism.

More sober statesmanship must concede that these circus performances do amount to something, particularly in a world which seems to have blown its top emotionally and to have geared its normal life to a succession of salutes, high steps, and heils. The dictators have made a pretty good job of investing themselves with some of the attributes of ancient lineage and Augustan majesty. They came over the whitewashed fence from the least conspicuous streets to learn how to strut about in marble halls and wear the purple.

For something to fill the eye the British empire is still at the top whenever it wishes to achieve a spectacle and proclaim a moral with historical profundity. Members of the British and French cabinets may visit back and forth from London to Paris, and nothing much spectacular comes of it. The multitudes do not shout. The people take it as in the ordinary run of diplomatic negotiation. The consequences may be momentous, but they do not start the cannon booming and the bells ringing.

When the king and queen of England go to France, Germany, Italy, and Japan are put on notice. What diplomacy has been doing behind closed doors is blazed forth before all the world. The royal visit enabled George VI. to say: "It would now be impossible to recall a period in which our relations were more intimate. Long and close collaboration has succeeded in proving that we are inspired by the same ideal. Our peoples have the same attachment to democratic principles which are best suited to their natural genius, and we have the same belief in the benefits of individual liberty."

There is no flourish of sabers or beating of drums in that statement, but it was intended to inform the large and small nations of Europe that the Anglo-French alliance is compact and prepared for common action. The imperial yacht which carried the king and queen to France was the Enchantress. This, it happens, is the yacht which carried Edward VIII. from England after his abdication. Rather neat, if scarcely more than a throne memory.

TOMBSTONE WANTS A BUYER.

Tombstone, Ariz., says it is for sale if some person with money wants to buy title to an exemplary graveyard and the remnants of a silver town. There's a handsome and romantic antique for a collector who seeks something out of the ordinary. One of the grave markers reveals how Tombstone in its prime celebrated such an occasion as the induction of a new sherif. The good people wished him well by hanging a few highwaymen. Now we celebrate by winking at a jail delivery.

John D. Rockefeller did not buy Williamsburg, Va., but he restored it and it's a gift to the people, a handsomely reconstructed colonial capital to reveal what culture was in older days. Henry Ford has done odd jobs of recovering the past. So have various societies with or without the aid of government. Tombstone lived a long time in a few crowded years.

There was a time when Al Capone might have done something with Tombstone and left it, reconstructed, to the nation. The town now regards Hollywood as its best prospect.

TWELVE MILLION OWN STOCK.

[Rockford Register-Republic.]

We have heard a lot about the concentration of wealth and economic control in America among a mere handful of persons. But conclusions just arrived at by Barron's Financial magazine, which has attempted to answer the question of ownership of leading business corporations in the United States, throw a surprising light on the situation.

Among the significant conclusions reached by the magazine in its survey is that more than 12,000,000 people own common stock in 1,000 leading corporations in the United States. The survey further shows that there are more stockholders of American corporations than ever before; that the increase in common stock investment has been more rapid in the 1930s than in the 1920s and that investors have been turning since the big crash from railroads to industrial corporations.

We do not know whether the wide ownership of common stock refutes effectively the charge that American business and industrial control is dominated by a few bankers and financiers. But while the figures may not disprove that concentration of financial authority which at intervals since the turn of the century has been the subject of much concern it is a fact that the power and prestige of certain of the large investment banking houses of the nation have diminished markedly in the last decade. This was during the period in which business enterprise had been most widely extended.

Wide participation by the public in ownership of our large industries and businesses is a wholesome development and one which should be a bulwark against adoption and spread of radical philosophies.

Guess They Don't Want Baldwin.

If J. Kirk Baldwin runs for office, any office, he'll find out how unpopular he has been. Baldwin has no right whatever to seek office, thru his past term as state treasurer he proved how unworthy he is. If Baldwin runs, we predict a few things will be dug up about him that he didn't know any one knew except himself.

BUS NOTES: Passengers who come to work on a south suburban bus that starts its route at Dolton, Ill., have become friends through the daily trips. They go on picnics and bathing parties together. There is a radio on the bus and they have group singing. They even know about one another's birthdays, and take up collections for presents. On a recent morning one of the women passengers was given a house coat for a birthday present. She put it on and displayed it up and down the aile, while the passengers sang "Happy Birthday to You." One morning the bus was filled with rice. The bus driver had got married that morning, and the passengers showered him with it.

Then there is the 8 a. m. Douglas Park No. 36 bus. The description of this makes us feel a little grim. But that's because we're ageing and crotchety. Most of the passengers board the bus between Independence boulevard and Kedzie. Greetings are heard for a full five minutes, and the chatter and gossip continues. One of a little group of bus chums got engaged recently and the news was shouted up and down the bus. Romance flourishes on the way downtown. One girl and lad who rode the bus held hands for a year. Now there is a narrow band on one of the hands he still holds. (That's all right. We like the hand holding—it's the talking and greetings that make us feel glum.)

Who cares who frames our city's law
Or how this power framer uses,
If he redeems his every flaw—
And gives us sweetest of the Muses?

As mind expands in music's swell
Who says our bosses are not pure,
Who grudges framer's bagatelle—
Was that Der Freischütz Overture?

What matter should a seal be broken:
None doubts our civic personnel.
Is this not their warm hearts' token—
This music from the park's band shell?

Thanks for the Memory.

I'm harking back tonight across the miles and years to boyhood. *Did you ever drive the cows to pasture at dusk and see them at last merge with the shadows on the landscape while the stars become more distinct and the scent of dew-damp rises from the sod? Did you ever feel that aloneness that has no relation to loneliness, when the owl says "Whoo-oo-oo-Whoo" and a friendly pair of jacksnipes flash white underwing in the twilight, like the silver of the minnows by the little wooden bridge across the brook?
The frogs, who only croak by day, are now in symphonic ecstasy and every swampy bog takes up the cadence—a lilting, ringing, high pitched harmony, like ten thousand little silver bells. . . . Did you ever sit thus on a wooden gate, 'neath the filigree shadow coverlet of gnarled oak, and muse and muse? O, ineffable sacred hour that even long years in the artificial city have not erased.* Would that I might go back tonight and count the cows again as they pass thru the barnyard gate, and talk to each by name; then down the lane beneath those old ourr oaks, across the creek and to the pasture gate, there to sit again and dream.

S. Gilbert Belland.

The above references to the friendliness of nature brings to mind Thoreau's comments in Walden:

"In the midst of a gentle rain . . . I was suddenly sensible of such sweet and beneficent society in nature, in the very pattering of the drops, and in every sight and sound around my house, an infinite and unaccountable friendliness all at once like an atmosphere sustaining me. . . . Every little pine needle expanded and swelled with sympathy and befriended me . . ."

We recommend Thoreau, especially his Walden or Life in the Woods as a book to read or reread on your vacation. Although the most sophisticated man we know—whose interests are the theater, swing, yachting, and the latest books and phonograph records—is reading Thoreau every night in bed, often after a bout with the night clubs.

REST FOR THE LUNG IN TUBERCULOSIS.

THOSE who deal with tuberculosis long have been convinced that the victim may demand more help than is afforded by bed rest, fresh air, and good food. As we know, this regimen—which is designed to build the resistance so that the ailment may be conquered—is indispensable. But, after all, the cardinal principle of treatment is rest—not only for the muscles, but for the structures chiefly attacked—namely, the lungs. All that the physician can do is to place the body in the most favorable situation for repair. It must do its own healing.

This sound concept led to the development of artificial pneumothorax—collapsing one lung by introducing air into the pleural space. After such a procedure, the pulmonary tissue shrinks to a relatively firm mass. Air neither enters nor leaves the cells. As we can understand, this is an ideal plan in the event of hemorrhage, as there follows a prompt contraction of the blood vessels and hence cessation of bleeding. But the primary objective is to stop, at least for a time, the in-and-out flow of air and hence the expansion and contraction of the diseased organ. It is almost too much to ask nature to bring about a cure in moving parts. Breathing, as we know, takes place sixteen to eighteen times per minute.

Little danger attaches to the step, and it has been found of the greatest value in controling the spread of infection, particularly if a cavity has formed. It has been noted also that even though both sides are involved, the collapse of the one most severely injured will often bring about a marked lessening of the inflammation of the other.

The question frequently is asked, "How long should pneumothorax be maintained?" No one can answer this query positively. In fact, there is a growing tendency to tell those with the disease that perhaps the measure should be continued indefinitly, with periods of interruption to gauge the progress of the malady. If the patient is doing well—and most of them will be—pursuing this form of treatment at stated intervals is a small price to pay for good health.

The chief obstacle to the adoption of this type of management is the existence of adhesions, which may require loosening before collapse can be effected. In other words, fibrous bands may attach and hold the lung to the chest wall. Freeing these guy ropes is called pneumolysis, and is successful in about 75 per cent of the cases. Rarely will the sufferer object, because he realizes that his chances for recovery are increased greatly. It is either resort to this course or forego the benefits of pneumothorax.

Mild attachments may disappear, that is, stretch or rupture, so that a perfectly satisfactory flow of air into the pleural space becomes possible. Sometimes merely nicking the "hold-back" strips will bring about their release. If necessary, a small incision, made under a local anesthetic, will permit the introduction of a viewing instrument—similar to that used to inspect the inside of the bladder—by means of which the bands can be seen, located, and severed. Now and then it will be necessary to remove a portion of one or more ribs to permit free access to the region.

More extensive devices may be needed sometimes, and such operations as removing a section of the chest wall or crushing the nerve that controls half of the diaphragm are employed.

While the progress of tuberculosis cannot be arrested in every instance, nevertheless, pneumothroax, when carried out with skill at the proper time and under proper precautions, has added materially to our power to save lives. We must not forget that it stops the spread of the tubercle bacilli by the patient as he promptly becomes microbe free and, therefore, noninfectious. More important than all, perhaps, is the fact that it shortens greatly the requirement of bed rest.

HOW TO MUFFLE SNORES.

Mrs. N. D. writes: For the sake of suffering humanity and to add a little to the peace of this tired world, I send the following directions to stop the snoring habit: Fold a large handkerchief cornerwise until it is about 3 inches wide. Place center directly under the chin, bringing both ends to the top of the head. Tie just tight enough to keep the bandage comfortably in place. After a week's tryout you will find that you awaken feeling much more refreshed, and certainly those around you will sleep better.

REPLY.

An old, reliable procedure.

Years ago George Catlin, a famous painter of American Indians, wrote a book entitled, "Shut Your Mouth and Save Your Life," in which he set forth a strong argument against mouth-breathing and hence snoring.

PASTEURIZED MILK SAFER.

C. P. H. writes: Is there any advantage in using raw milk, as contrasted with pasteurized?

REPLY.

None that I know of. Even with the greatest care in handling, raw milk may not be safe. Pasteurizing, on the other hand, probably increases the digestibility of the protein. Vitamins A, D, and E are not affected by the process, but B is reduced by approximately 20 per cent. Inasmuch as both B1 and B2 are widely distributed in general foods, this failure is not significant, and one is assured of safe milk, as organisms which may cause septic sore throat, scarlet fever, typhoid, undulant fever, etc., are killed by pasteurization.

BETTER HAVE IT REMOVED.

M. L. writes: I have had a small tumor under one eyelid for about five weeks and lately that eye has been bothering me. Do you think I should have the growth removed?

REPLY.

Tumors of any size should be removed if they cause symptoms.

HAVE PROMPT EXAMINATION.

Mrs. J. S. R. writes: My stools have been black like tar for several days, and I have an "all-in" feeling. What could cause this, and what shall I do?

REPLY.

Have a careful examination at once. Continued black stools may indicate blood, the source of which may be anywhere along the digestive tract. Your feeling of weakness supports this suggestion. Do not delay being examined.

PEN PICTURE OF PEACEVILLE.

"Peaceville," Ill., July 18.—That is not quite the name of our town, speaking geographically, but it applies nicely, and I wouldn't dare divulge its real name for reasons that will follow.

We have three major industries and several minor ones, and not a labor union among them. We have weathered the two depressions better than any of our organized neighbors, because when times got bad our workingmen willingly accepted lower wages and shorter hours rather than hold out for boom times pay and by so doing compel the factories to close. They preferred to gather fewer golden eggs rather than kill the goose.

There is a fine spirit of coöperation between our employers and employés, and the latter are jealous of their independence and peace and comparative prosperity, so that when a gang of agitators recently invaded our precincts and undertook to organize them said agitators were quickly run out of town. A large portion of our laboring men own their homes, practically all of them have cars and live happily and well. But if our good town's name was made public we would likely suffer another invasion by envious union racketeers—and another little war of independence would result. L.

WHAT RILES THE PERFORMERS.

Omaha, Neb., July 15.—In the recent session of congress the check the house gave the senate in the reorganization bill and the prior check the senate gave the house in the Supreme court bill discloses, in the lack of any such beneficial checks, a fatal weakness in the Norris unicameral legislature, now being tried out in Nebraska.

Reformers do not like these little checks, as witness the Norris so-called lame duck bill, which nullifies the check our farsighted forefathers sought to impose upon the enactment of hasty legislation immediately following the excitement of a public election.

Witness also the amendment providing for the direct election of United States senators instead of by the state legislatures, which contravenes the plan devised by these same wise forefathers to provide one deliberate body in congress selected away from the excitement of a public election.

While these reformers and professional tax-eating parasites have been stalking abroad in our land reforming us our taxes have gone up by leaps and bounds—"for we planned it that way and don't let anybody tell you differently."

As old Ed Howe sagely put it: "We get the price, but not reform."

C. B. D.

ON A COMMISSION BASIS.

Chicago, July 17.—Small, as well as some large, firms have taken on the "straight commission" custom. They blandly expect a man to use what little bread and butter money he may have, his car, his gasoline, all of his time, as well as his abilities, loyalty, etc., in their behalf, for all of which he gets nothing. Money for orders obtained only.

They are in reality demanding such a man build up their business and good will free of charge to such firm, whereas did such a firm carry advertising in any daily publication they would have to pay for such advertising. A man on straight commission is not an actual employé of the house he is representing [that's one reason the house pays no social security tax on him].

Such a condition is a contributing factor to unemployment, relief rolls, and the various arrangements of the alphabet. ONE OF THE MANY.

A CITY OF FRIENDLY PEOPLE.

Chicago, July 20.—Regarding "Courtesy week" for Chicago, which will be held this coming week—why is this important subject given so little publicity?

At this time of the year we have thousands of visitors in Chicago. Why not do all we can to impress these visitors with Chicago as the city of friendly people?

Friendliness is everything. It is the key to life, and its influences are those that move the world. Brushing up on our motoring manners will go a long way toward making ours a city of friendship.

Courtesy is contagious. It radiates good cheer, and good cheer is catching. People cannot be rude or unkind to any one who has the habit of courtesy. It should be preached in places of worship; it should be taught in schools; it should be made a subject for our newspapers until we have a city of the most gentlebred, friendly, cheerful, and courteous people in the world. W. G. ECHOLS.

TOO BUSY TO SEE HIM.

Chicago, July 14.—As a taxpayer and employer of about average size and with no other course of redress I hope you will give the following incident the publicity it deserves.

Since the first of the month business has improved considerably and we have been unable to get enough help to do the work we require. It is not work which requires any previous experience, and there is no more effort needed than in knitting. A woman can easily earn between $3 and $5 a week and still have time left for her housework and recreation. We thought perhaps a relief station could use this kind of work, so we went to the station at 6 East 36th place. On the office door was printed the name L. Proctor. We were told to wait, which we did for fully twenty-five minutes, although there did not seem to be any great amount of activity. Then we were told that L. Proctor was too busy to see us and that we should tell our story to some who would in turn tell it to this high mogul of the relief station who was too busy to see any one.

Perhaps other people have had similar experiences. If so they know how we felt—like getting hit in the head by some person one has befriended for years.

If this is an example of the efficiency of our relief station superintendents, then heaven help us! H. L.

PICKS THE JOB FOR HER BOY.

Chicago, July 15.—After wondering for a long time what profession I should encourage my young son to get into when he grows up, I have finally decided to make him a policeman. They get steady pay, free transportation to and from work, free papers, and a "rakeoff" on a lot of things—food, clothing, etc.—for showing their stars. On July 3 we had occasion to visit in the neighborhood of Webster and Racine avenues where fireworks had been sold in a small store. The owner told of being awakened late Saturday evening by a policeman and taken for a ride of a few blocks. After paying him $25 the owner was taken home again. On Sunday another officer arrived and attempted to do the same thing, but the store owner had sold all his fireworks, so that officer was out of luck for his extra $25. That's the job for my son. A. E. L.

IN DEFENSE OF THE PICKETS.

Chicago, July 18.—On a letter in your columns "W. R." [wrongful reporter?] lays a lot of unjust criticism at the door of the milk wagon drivers' union by saying the pickets now employed by the union in its campaign against unfair competition of the nonunion dairies are not former milkmen, but are clerks, street car conductors, etc.

I am writing to say that the pickets now employed [147 in number] are former milk wagon drivers who hold honorable withdrawal cards issued to them after their livelihood was taken from them by the unfair competition of these nonunion dairies.

I am proud of the men who are so honorably carrying the banner which proclaims "This Store Is Unfair to the Milk Wagon Drivers' Union, Local No. 753, I. B. of T., A. F. of L."

JOHN M. O'CONNOR,
Representing the Picket Brigade, Milk Drivers' Union.

PRESCRIBES SHOVEL AND BROOM.

Chicago, July 14.—To the query "What is wrong with the Chicago relief administration" I answer "plenty. Too many men are working in the wrong place." Instead of having WPA stand around on some forsaken country road grading some slopes, why not give half of them a shovel and broom and put them to work on some Chicago alleys?

QUIT CLAIM DEED.

Aurora, Ill., July 14.—[Legal Friend of the People.—1. Many years ago I gave a quit claim deed on an 80 acre farm to be held until a debt of $5,000 was paid. Two years ago we came to an understanding whereby my son paid him [a brother] $700 cash and a note for $100,

In turn the brother who we paid turned [2] the deed over to me and I in turn had same properly recorded. The point in question is this: All grain raised and sold on the farm was to be credited to the debt I owed him. The last four years the government paid certain sums for acreage under the crop control plan. I have just been given the figures and find that this sum was never credited to my account.

3. I believe I should have credit on this note for $100 [which I still owe my brother] of $75 paid him by the government. I live in Minnesota.

4. Can he bring suit against me for the $100 note in Illinois or [5] would suit have to be brought in Minnesota?

6. My residence is in Minnesota and the farm is in Illinois, having been inherited from my father. N. C. M.

1. A quitclaim deed given as security in this way would be regarded as a mortgage.

2. If you mean that he merely delivered to you the older instrument which had conveyed the title to him, this would be of no importance. It is not clear whether you mean this or whether a new deed was executed and delivered naming you as grantee.

3. Your rights depend in part on how much time has elapsed.

4. Yes.

5. See 4.

6. Our answer that he can bring suit here is based on the assumption that he will be able to serve process here, or that he would limit his suit to an adjudication of rights in the land, relying on the court's jurisdiction of the land, and that the land is here.

CANADA SCANS BANK DEPOSITS OF MRS. SIDLEY

Hunt for Bull's Accounts in Havana and London.

William P. Sidley, Chicago attorney, was in Toronto, Ontario, yesterday. He was working with investigators inquiring into the death and financial affairs of his sister-in-law, Mrs. Mabelle Horlick Sidley, malted milk heiress.

Sidley is a member of the Chicago law firm of Sidley, McPherson, Austin & Burgess. Mrs. Sidley's son, William Horlick Sidley, asked that an autopsy be conducted following his mother's death July 6. She died in the Toronto mansion of W. Perkins Bull, Canadian barrister, where she had been a guest for a year.

Attorney Sidley conferred with W. B. Common, senior solicitor to the attorney general and chief link between the treasury and police departments in the present inquiries.

Government Rights Protected.

Canadian inheritance and income tax authorities are trying to ascertain whether the government is entitled to a share of Mrs. Sidley's estate, which has been estimated at between 4 and 9 million dollars. Attorney General Gordon Conant also ordered an inquest for July 26.

Government inspectors in Toronto began a systematic survey yesterday of all bank accounts in the name of Bull. The Toronto attorney was bequeathed a third of Mrs. Sidley's fortune in a will drawn in his home last April. A previous will had left all of Mrs. Sidley's wealth to her son.

It was learned that the Canadian government instructed its inspectors to complete their work in the case as rapidly as possible and to invoke whatever authority necessary to determine the extent of bank deposits Bull may have in Havana, Cuba, and in London, England.

Bank Accounts Tied Up.

Inheritance tax authorities already have tied up Toronto bank accounts of both Bull and Mrs. Sidley. They also sealed safety deposit boxes Mrs. Sidley had kept in Toronto banks and trust companies. This action was taken to make sure the Canadian government will collect any inheritance tax due it.

Dr. W. L. Robinson, University of Toronto pathologist, who is in charge of the autopsy, said Mrs. Sidley died of an acute condition of the spinal cord which probably developed only a short time before her death.

Dr. Robinson said an old disease, well recognized but uncommon, had been found beneath the new and acute development that caused her death. Her brain is being examined minutely, he said, with the expectation that a report on it will be submitted at the inquest.

Dr. G. W. Longheed, instructor in medicine at the University of Toronto, said a test of Mrs. Sidley's blood showed it contained nothing of importance to the investigation of her death.

Academy's Interests Safe.

Col. Roy F. Farrand, president of St. John's Military academy at Delafield, Wis., which was bequeathed about $1,000,000 by Mrs. Sidley, issued a statement that he regarded the interests of the school safe in the hands of the Horlick family.

Col. Farrand denied the school has any intention of retaining legal counsel to represent it in connection with inquiries that have followed Mrs. Sidley's death. Attorney Maxwell Landis of Chicago said in Toronto on Monday that he had gone there in behalf of the academy, which his firm, Landis, Landis & Landis, represents. He also said he would represent Bull.

The academy's relations with the Horlick malted milk family, and particularly with Mrs. Sidley, were most pleasant over a period of many years, Col. Farrand said. He asserted the family had been extremely generous with both moral and financial support. Col. Farrand received a personal bequest of $10,000 and was named an executor under Mrs. Sidley's will.

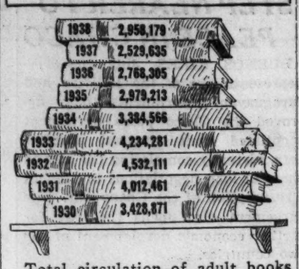
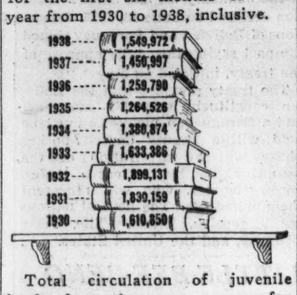
Books in Circulation



Total circulation of adult books from the main library and branches for the first six months of each year from 1930 to 1938, inclusive.



Total circulation of juvenile books from the same sources for the first six months of each year from 1930 to 1938, inclusive.

Circulation of books of the Chicago public library increased by more than 600,000 volumes during the first six months of the year, compared with the same period in 1937. Carl B. Roden, chief librarian, who yesterday announced circulation figures, attributed this to the business recession.

"Whenever business slows up and people lose jobs they start reading," he said.

During the first six months last year the circulation in the main library and all branches and deposit stations was 4,847,555, while this year it was 5,461,646.

In 1932, when depression readers flocked to the library, the first six months' general circulation was 7,227,392.

"Another evidence of depression reading," Roden said, "is that the increase in reading is greater in the adult sections of the library than in the juvenile sections."

Roden predicted a circulation gain of a million volumes for 1938. Last year's total circulation was 10,366,247.

FINISH RECOUNT OF 13TH DISTRICT DEMOCRAT VOTE

The major part of the recount of Democratic ballot cast in the 13th senatorial district last April was completed yesterday. The recount was made under the direction of Chief Clerk John S. Rusch of the Chicago election board as special commissioner for Circuit Judge Stanley H. Klarkowski. The results showed Representative John G. Ryan victor by 27½ votes in his contest against Adam S. Mioduski, whom the official returns showed nominated by 140.

The final count, however, depends on Judge Klarkowski's disposition of 1,134 disputed ballots. Of these 575½ were counted officially last April for Ryan and 559½ were counted for Mioduski. Judge Klarkowski is not expected to return to the bench until Aug 1 and Commissioner Rusch's report will be withheld until that time.

When the court rules in the case it is believed he will pass on the legality of party switching in the primary this year as it affects the Democratic nominations for representative in this district.

SCHNACKENBERG, SEARCY TO HEAD G.O.P. DAY AT FAIR

A. K. Stiles, chairman of the Republican state central committee, announced yesterday that plans were completed to make Republican day at the Illinois state fair at Springfield on Aug. 17 a great day for the Illinois G. O. P.

The local committee on arrangements which will support them consists of forty residents of Springfield and nearby cities. Among them are H. L. Williamson, John W. Kapp, J. Emil Smith, and Ben S. De Boice, all of Springfield; Frank M. Ramey, Hillsboro; Stuart E. Pierson, Carrollton; Richard Yates Rowe, Jacksonville; and Dan Dineen, Decatur.

COLUMBIA HIGH IN U. S. LIBERAL COLLEGE RANKS

Founded 100 Years Ago by Catholic Bishop.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Dubuque, Ia., July 20.—[Special.]—From its seven hills, that command a far view of the winding Mississippi and the green valleys and hills of three states, Dubuque offers an impressive reminder of what the church and education mean to this valley and to the nation. It is a citadel of church spires, college towers, mother houses of the black robed nuns whose educational influence reaches across the country.

From these heights emanate the Presbyterian missionary and educational spirit of the University of Dubuque, the Sisters of Charity influence and Clarke college, the widespread work of the Visitation Sisters, the powerful stone figure of Martin Luther in front of the gray quadrangles of Wartburg seminary, the work and devotion of the Franciscan Sisters, exiled from Germany under the Bismarckian persecution.

Plans Centenary Next July.

From the highest hill, rise the towers and brick piles of Columbia college, which was founded 100 years ago by the Rt. Rev. Matthias Loras, first bishop of Dubuque, and the son of a distinguished martyr of the French revolution.

Columbia college is planning its centenary celebration for next July. It is one of the few colleges conducted by diocesan priests. This was begun as an experiment and after 100 years can be said to be a success.

The college has behind it the full resources of the diocese, which in pioneer days reached from the Missouri river to the Canadian border, and has as its chancellor the Most Rev. Francis J. L. Beckman, S. T. D., archbishop of Dubuque. Its president for the last thirty-seven years has been the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Thomas Conry, P. A., V. G.

Enrollment Is 402.

The college was founded for the education of young men. It has an enrollment of 402. Its endowment exceeds a million dollars.

Its library of 70,000 books is one of the finest in the west. One of its features is a museum of science, art, and religious antiquity which gives visual aid and inspiration to students. It is valued at $1,500,000.

Since 1873 Columbia has sent out 1,200 graduates. Among these were ten bishops and eight college presidents. It remains strictly a liberal arts college.

It prepares the groundwork for the priesthood, of course, but the percentage of those who enter this work has fallen from 75 to 50 per cent.

Sisters Now Attend Classes.

In 1920 sisters of religious orders were admitted to college classes. Protestants also attend the school. The aim of the college is combine religion and science "so that the faith of the students may become stronger as their knowledge widens and deepens, and as their appreciation of the good, the true, and the beautiful matures and expresses itself in active life."

The college formerly was known as St. Joseph college and as Dubuque college and adopted the name of Columbia in 1920. In 1928 the college was placed on the approved list of the Association of American Universities.

STATE RESTS IN TRIAL OF 4 FOR HIDING WITNESS

CRIMINAL COURT.

Herman Sittig and Steve Verni, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary; Paul Occhino and Eugene O'Neill, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years each in the penitentiary; Tony Ballo and Malcolm Markham, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in the penitentiary; William Babcock, robbery, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge Robert C. O'Connell.

The state yesterday rested its case against four persons accused of a conspiracy to obstruct justice in connection with the Town Hall police scandal. Judge Rudolph Desort is presiding at the trial in Criminal court.

William Nichols, a gambler; James Burke, Nichols' chauffeur; George Gardner, a rooming house owner, and Gardner's wife, Edna, are the defendants. It is alleged that Burke, an important witness, fled in an attempt to escape testifying against Detectives Earl Flannery and Frank McKune. The detectives were indicted for allowing robbers to escape, but were acquitted. Burke was found in time to testify.

Nichols and the Gardners are charged with taking Burke out of the city and paying his expenses while he was away. Testimony for the defense will be presented today.

PAROLED THIEF CAUGHT TAKING GIRL'S BICYCLE

Since 1917 Sam Levine has been in and out of the Bridewell for larceny of one sort or another. In 1934 he stole an automobile and went to Joliet penitentiary for two years. He was freed on a parole due to expire next July.

Yesterday Anna Botenstein, 15 years old, 3918 North Claremont avenue, was riding her bicycle in front of 4019 Lincoln avenue when Levine appeared. He knocked her off the bicycle, jumped on, and pedaled away.

The girl ran screaming down the street after Levine. Policemen Clement Schroeder, Ambrose Byrne, and Edward Reichardt heard her, and quickly caught the thief. Levine was locked up.

Humowiecki lived at 2543 North Austin avenue, Chicago. He shot Mrs. Helen Gober, 40 years old, of this city because she rejected his offers of marriage.

BEGIN CONTEMPT TRIAL OF HORAN, THEN CONTINUE IT

Battle Over Holding It in Star Chamber.

BY JAMES DOHERTY.

The contempt citation against Bailif Albert J. Horan of the Municipal court was called for trial yesterday in secret. The bailif, an elected official, is charged with contumacy in that he failed to obey an order of twenty-seven judges to rehire fifty-five deputies he discharged just before last spring's primary election.

Albert J. Horan.

The case had its inception last March when Horan, who was allied with the Horner-Courtney faction of the Democratic party, purged his pay rolls of fifty-five men supporting candidates of the Kelly-Nash faction. Horan said it was an economy move; the deputy bailifs were not needed, he asserted.

Chief Justice John Sonsteby, a supporter of the Kelly-Nash group, called a meeting of the thirty-six judges, most of whom are his political allies. Horan was ordered to put the fifty-five stalwarts back on the pay roll.

Put on Special Pay Roll.

When Horan demurred Judge Sonsteby persuaded the city controler to put the deputies on a special roll. They reported thereafter to Judge Sonsteby. They are still doing so. The judge or one of his assistants assigns them to duty in various courtrooms where Horan's deputies are also on the job.

Horan refused to recognize the fifty-five. They are not under bond and have no right to act in his name, he explained.

The judges met on July 13 and cited Horan. They then adjourned, but called upon Lieut. Richard Barry of the detective bureau who served the papers on Horan Monday night. Horan said he didn't know whether he was charged with civil or criminal contempt.

So, at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Bailif Horan, in the rôle of defendant, presented himself at the chambers and hearing room of Judge Sonsteby. Newspaper reporters were there.

Casey Votes Against Secrecy.

Horan and his attorneys, John F. Cashen and Cassius Doty, were called into Sonsteby's private chambers. For forty-five minutes the other judges waited outside. It was reported afterwards that the only discussion inside concerned Horan's request for a continuance.

When they emerged into the hearing room only one judge voted "no" to a motion that the trial be held in executive session. The negative vote was that of Judge Edward B. Casey, a Republican. He said he would not agree to a star chamber trial.

Nevertheless it was decided that Horan should be tried privately. Newspaper men were told to get out.

"Clear the room," Chief Justice Sonsteby ordered, and Horan was left facing his accusers, who are also to be the witnesses against him and who will then vote him guilty or innocent of contempt.

As the reporters were leaving, Attorney Cashen was protesting to Chief Justice Sonsteby that Horan was not asking for trial behind locked doors. Later Cashen said he was compelled to withdraw his objections to private trial in order to get a continuance.

Warned of Immediate Trial.

"If you want the public represented, Horan will go to trial today," said Attorney Hirsch Soble, representing the judges, according to Cashen.

A half hour later Judge Sonsteby announced to the newsmen in the corridor that Horan had been granted a continuance until next Wednesday. On that date Horan must make a written answer at 10 a. m. and then appear personally before all the judges at 2 p. m.

HIS TEETH ARE FALSE TO HIM, EVEN IN A MOMENT OF NEED

An upper set of false teeth saved John Snopek's life last night, to his disgust. Snopek shot himself with a rifle under his chin. The .22 caliber bullet penetrated his lower jaw, but stuck in the hard rubber plate of his denture. Physicians in St. Anthony's hospital said he will live. Snopek, 53 years old, tried suicide in the boiler room of the building where he gets rent free as janitor at 3145 West 16th street.

CLYDE L. DAY, 69, CHICAGO LAWYER 48 YEARS, IS DEAD

Special Counsel for State in Lake Level Case.

Clyde L. Day, for forty-eight years a Chicago attorney, died in St. Luke's hospital early yesterday. He suffered a stroke in his home at 5427 Hyde Park boulevard on Tuesday evening. Mr. Day was 69 years old.

Clyde L. Day.

He was one of the youngest men ever to pass the bar examination in Illinois. For years Mr. Day served in various capacities as special counsel for the city and the state of Illinois. As special assistant attorney general he argued the lake level case before the United States Supreme court, which was decided against the Chicago sanitary district.

Passes Bar Exam at 18.

Mr. Day was born in Paxton, Ford county. After attending schools there he began work in a lawyer's office in Paxton. At the age of 18 he passed the state bar examination, but was unable to obtain admission to the bar until he was 21. Then he moved to Chicago.

In 1908 Mr. Day was appointed assistant corporation counsel by Mayor Fred A. Busse. In 1910 he became city attorney. A year later he retired to private practice with the law firm of Church, Shepherd & Day.

Mr. Day was a member of the Chicago, Illinois, and American Bar associations, the American Legion, several Masonic bodies, the Law club, the Flossmoor Country club, and the Chicago Athletic club.

Serves as Captain in Army.

In 1917, at the age of 48, Mr. Day enlisted in the army, receiving a commission as a captain and judge advocate. After the war he served for three years as special attorney for the state, specializing in waterway litigation. From 1922 until 1925 he was chief attorney for the sanitary district.

Mrs. Margaret Gillespie Day, his widow, and two sons, Paul and John, survive. Funeral services will be held at 4 p. m. tomorrow in Oak Woods cemetery chapel.

JUDGE IMPOUNDS PAIR OF PANTS AS BITING EVIDENCE

Judge Robert Jerome Dunn impounded a pair of pants yesterday. But the owner wasn't inconvenienced, since he wasn't wearing them at the time. They were his extra pants, and they had holes in them, anyway.

The holes were the reason for impounding them. Attorneys for Leo Heinz Sr., Niles Center street commissioner, say they were made by the teeth of Kenneth Emerson's dog, Patsy, when she bit Ray Schmidt, 17 years old, of 1108 Washington street, Evanston. Schmidt, the owner of the pants, is to be a witness for Heinz, who is charged with the malicious killing of a domestic animal because he shot and killed Patsy.

Heinz contends that the holes show Patsy was inclined to bite folks. After the pants were impounded the case was continued until Aug. 17.

PASS ADDITIONAL SECTIONS OF NEW BUILDING CODE

The city council yesterday adopted chapters in Chicago's revised building code covering elevators, heating provisions, and ventilation. Action was deferred on additional chapters concerning plumbing, refrigeration, and boilers.

The complete code consists of 52 chapters of which 39 have been adopted and four are pending. Ald. James J. McDermott [14th], chairman of the council subcommittee which has been passing on the new regulations, said the work of the aldermen will end for the summer after three more chapters have been introduced. This will leave consideration of the six remaining chapters until fall.

ROOSEVELT CATCHES A 30 POUNDER, BUT THE SHARK GOT AWAY

ABOARD U. S. S. HOUSTON, En Route to Panama, July 20.—(AP)—Fish were so plentiful off picturesque Socorro Island today that President Roosevelt and the other fishermen aboard the Houston called it a day after three hours of strenuous work with rod and reel, and the cruiser steamed southward.

For the second time on this vacation jaunt down the Pacific the President caught the biggest fish. It was a bluejack weighing more than 30 pounds. The President hooked a shark, but lost it when his line parted after a half hour struggle.

The Houston was under way shortly after noon on a southward course of 500 miles to Clipperton Island, a possession of France 670 miles off the coast of Mexico.

Kalamazoo, Mich., July 20.—[Special.]—Larry Tetzlaff lost a six foot South American boa constrictor on a three week's trip in the upper part of the lower peninsula, near Holland. The snake escaped through a ventilation opening in the trunk of Tetzlaff's car.

RELIEF DEMAND IS REDUCED ONE PER CENT IN MAY

Washington, D. C., July 20.—(AP)—Reports to the social security board today covering ninety-nine urban areas in thirty-five states showed an aggregate decrease of 1 per cent in the number of cases receiving general relief, and a drop of less than 1 per cent in the funds obligated from May to June.

In forty-five of the ninety-nine areas decreases in cases were noted. In twelve the drop was 10 per cent or more, and in four it was more than 20 per cent. However, in ten cities increases of 10 per cent or more were listed.

Fifty-three of the ninety-nine cities reported decreases of 1 per cent or more in obligations for general relief from public funds. Forty cities noted increases of 1 per cent or above.

General relief included all state and local relief in cash and kind extended to the needy, except assistance under the social security act, other assistance of these special types, and aid to veterans under state and local statutes.

DENTISTS TO JOIN DISASTER RELIEF UNDER RED CROSS

A plan under which disaster refugees will be given necessary dental treatment on the scene was announced yesterday by Dr. Harry B. Pinney, secretary of the American Dental association.

The 400 state and local societies of the association are selecting dentists in every town where there is a Red Cross chapter and asking that they be ready to serve in event of flood, fire, or other disaster. Each dentist will be made a member of the local Red Cross preparedness committee.

The dentists' work in time of disaster, Dr. Pinney said, will include extraction of badly decayed or abscessed teeth, replacement of artificial dental structures lost or damaged, treatment of jaw or mouth injuries, and adoption of necessary steps to prevent spread of mouth diseases. The plan was drawn up by Dr. C. Willard Camalier, A. D. A. president, and James L. Feiser, vice chairman of the national Red Cross, both of Washington, D. C.

GRIEF REUNITES KING CAROL AND EXILED BROTHER

BUCHAREST, July 20.—(AP)—King Carol and his younger brother, Nicholas, reconciled at least temporarily by the death of their mother, the Dowager Queen Marie, attended mass together today at Sinaia with other members of the royal family.

Nicholas, shorn of his title and in exile since April 26, 1937, for marrying a commoner, was summoned by the king yesterday to attend the funeral. He was warned, however, that he must leave Rumania immediately after the ceremonies Sunday. The two brothers dined together last night—their first meeting since Nicholas was exiled.

Foreign delegations which will come for the funeral Sunday include Prince Regent Paul of Jugo-Slavia, the duke and duchess of Kent, Field Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering of Germany, and a French military group.

CHICAGO DEATH RATE IS LOWER THAN NEW YORK

The Chicago death rate for all causes in the first six months in 1938 was lower than that of New York for the same period, officials of the board of health said yesterday. Chicago also had a lower annual rate in infant deaths and maternal deaths per 1,000 births. All death rates were reduced in 1938 from those of 1937 in both Chicago and New York.

Comparative figures are:

	New York. '37.	'38.	Chicago. '37.	'38.
General death rate.....	11.4	10.5	11.0	9.9
Infant death rate.....	49.3	43.2	43.7	36.0
Maternal death rate..	4.3	3.6	3.6	2.9

The figures for the general death rate are based on each 1,000 population.

Get at the Cause of Constipation!

You know that constipation often gives you that dopey, sunken, bogged down feeling. Why not get at the cause?

If you eat what most people do—things like bread, meat and potatoes—the chances are all that's the matter with you is you don't get enough "bulk." And "bulk" doesn't mean what you may think. It's a kind of food that isn't entirely digested, but leaves a soft, bulky mass in the intestines that aids elimination.

If this is your trouble, what you need is a dish of crisp, crunchy Kellogg's All-Bran for breakfast every day. It contains the "bulk" you need, plus Nature's intestinal tonic vitamin B_1, and iron.

Eat All-Bran every day, drink plenty of water, and see if the old world doesn't look a lot brighter! All-Bran is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

2 NATIONS MOVE STEP NEARER TO PEACE IN CHACO

BUENOS AIRES, July 20.—(AP)—Representatives of the Bolivian and Paraguayan governments today approved the Chaco peace agreement negotiated under neutral auspices here, virtually completing the second phase of long negotiations to prevent a resumption of the Chaco war. The agreement also opens the way for further economic development of the two countries.

At the peace conference, which has been seeking a permanent settlement of the boundary dispute since a truce was declared on June 13, 1935, delegations of Bolivian and Paraguay signed the pact saying they fully approve of the treaty, initialed on July 9.

The treaty provides that the Bolivian constituent assembly must act and a Paraguayan plebiscite must be held within twenty days. Another phase will be arbitration of the boundary line by the peace conference delegates, who will represent their presidents. The neutral nations are Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Peru, Uruguay, and the United States.

LITTLE BEE BEND MOURNS PASSING OF GILES ARNOLD

Shreveport, La., July 20.—(AP)—Little Bee Bend, from the Widow Duck on down to the littlest pickaninny, today mourned for Giles Arnold, the plantation foreman Roark Bradford made famous as a fiction character in stories of Negro life.

Giles was a real person. He died Sunday in a Shreveport hospital and his plantation folk buried him yesterday at New Zion Methodist church cemetery, near Benton. Bradford was not able to get there from New Orleans for the funeral, but he sent his sympathy to Giles' widow, Betsy, and their adopted daughter, Penny.

In New Orleans, Bradford said, "Giles bulked big in that community. He won everybody's respect and a lot of white folks' affection." Giles was 53 years old.

PICKETS DELAY CIRCUS ARRIVAL IN DAVENPORT

Davenport, Ia., July 20.—[Special.]—Labor trouble that delayed departure of the Al G. Barnes-Sells Floto circus from Janesville, Wis., last night caused two sections of the train to reach Davenport five hours behind schedule today.

Police here were prepared to break up picket lines such as were established at Janesville yesterday. An elephant was used in Janesville to break the lines.

Special police were assigned to guard the show. The unloading boss said pickets don't bother the show much in the larger cities. They prefer small towns where police protection is limited.

Infant Welfare of Evanston to Give Fall Party

BY JUDITH CASS.

SUMMERTIME is not always a period of leisure, especially for the women who count infant welfare, settlement houses, or other institutions among their interests. Raising money for these charities is an all year around job.

Mrs. John Dingle, Mrs. Horatio Rogers, Mrs. R. Ward Starrett, Mrs. Robert Grier, Mrs. Hugh McCulloch, Mrs. George Paddock, Mrs. Rawleigh Warner, Mrs. Henry Platt Jr., Mrs. John Eliot Warner, and Mrs. John M. Scott may have anticipated a quiet, relaxing summer. But now that the Evanston Infant Welfare Juniors have decided to give a dinner-dance, the night of Oct. 28 at the Palmer house, they will be busy with the hundred odd tasks which, successfully performed, make a successful party.

The dance will be called a Newspaper ball and the juniors are preparing for it with the same thoroughness that characterized the badminton benefit they sponsored in the spring of 1937. That tournament earned $4,500. Mrs. Dingle, who is chairman of the dinner-dance, planned to spend the summer at home in Winnetka so she will be here for all of the summer committee meetings.

Mrs. Rawleigh Warner is at the Warners' Lake Geneva home with her children and Mrs. Starrett is at Eagle River, Wis., so their participation in planning the party will involve commuting. Mrs. Paddock already has had her summer holiday. She and Mr. Paddock and George Jr., have just returned from six weeks in England and France.

Kimbark Family Visit on Cape Cod.

Mrs. John R. Kimbark, another member of the juniors, is at Wianno, on Cape Cod, with her husband and children, Frances and Mary Louise. They are visiting Mr. Kimbark's mother, Mrs. Eugene R. Kimbark of Evanston, and his sister, Mrs. Norman MacColl. Also on the cape is Mrs. Jervis Babb, who is visiting her family. Phyllis Babb is with her mother.

Mrs. Robert Grier, who was president of the juniors last year, is at home to take an active part in preparations for the dinner-dance. Her children, Rachel and David, are summering on Savory Island in British Columbia with their grandmother, Mrs. A. H. G. Kemball, who took them to Norway for the three previous summers.

The John Scotts haven't any summer plans at the moment, nor have his parents, President and Mrs. Walter Dill Scott of Northwestern university, who are in Glenview. They will go away later. Young Mrs. Scott is president of the Juniors.

Hold Luncheon Next Wednesday.

Mrs. William F. Stall is serving luncheon in the side yard of her Evanston home next Wednesday to some of the committee members. The juniors contribute to the support of the Milburn avenue station of Infant Welfare, and to three Evanston stations.

Dates for other autumn parties that already have been announced are the following: Oct. 1, at the Ambassador East hotel, the North Avenue Day Nursery ball, of which Miss Honor Merrell, is the chairman; Oct. 3, the opening of the San Carlo Opera company at the Auditorium theater, sponsored by the Church Mission of Help, with Mrs. F. C. Benson Bellis as chairman; Oct. 8, at the Drake, a dance sponsored by the Chicago committee of the Arden Shore association; Oct. 15, a dance at the Drake for the benefit of the Margaret Etter crèche; Oct. 18, at the Stevens, the St. Luke's Fashion show; Nov. 5, at the Auditorium theater the Service club revue.

Fifth Generation Spends Summer at Harbor Point.

The fifth generation of the Chapin family to summer at Harbor Point, Mich., is the 8 month old son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Rose of Indianapolis, who is with his mother, the former Charlotte Robertson, at the Harbor Point cottage of her parents, the William A. Smiths. Harbor Point often is the destination of Mrs. Smith's brother, Lowell M. Chapin, who now lives in Niles, Mich.

A christening of interest that took place in New York recently was that of James Vernon McConnell Jr., the infant son of Mr. and Mrs. James V. McConnell, and the grandson of George Lee McConnell and the late Mrs. McConnell of Chicago.

The ceremony took place in St. Catherine's church, Riverside. The Rev. W. Michael Ducey, prior of St. Anselm's monastery, Washington, D. C., officiating. The minister is a cousin of Mrs. McConnell, who is the former Miss Margo Murphy of Detroit.

After spending two months in London and staying for the christening of her grandson, Bartle Bull Jr., Mrs. Jacob Baur went to Paris and then to Venice. At Venice she sailed in the S. S. Marco Polo on the Odyssey cruise along the Dalmatian coast to the Greek Islands. She will return to Paris late in August.

Mr. and Mrs. Lanning MacFarland of Winnetka are the parents of a daughter, born on Monday at the Evanston hospital. Mr. and Mrs.

Gladys Welge Leads Concert at Grant Park

BY CECIL SMITH.

The Woman's Symphony orchestra returned to the Grant park band shell last night for its third program of the season. Gladys Welge, announced in advance publicity as "the first, and probably the only, woman to conduct in Grant park this summer," replaced Rudolph Ganz, who directed the orchestra's two earlier concerts. John Neher, bass of the Chicago City Opera company, was soloist.

The announcer, under the erroneous impression that Mr. Ganz is permanent winter conductor of the orchestra, referred to Miss Welge as his substitute, though in reality she is the appointed regular conductor. Miss Welge took the mistake in good part, with unruffled countenance.

The performances of Mr. Neher were among the most successful of the summer, for his radio experience has enabled him to develop an admirable microphone technique. It was impossible to tell anything of the size of his voice. Its quality, however, is rich and its scale even and smooth.

He sang the famous bass aria from Verdi's "Simone Boccanegra" with a suave legato that brought his singing into the classification of bel canto, though his Italian vowels are distinctly middle western. "Ol' Man River," added as an encore, was projected with excellent musical feeling and a well prepared climax.

The members of the orchestra did their best work in Liszt's elocutionary symphonic poem, "Les Préludes." The most beautiful solo playing I have heard in this orchestra was that of Helen Kotas, who plays the French horn better than any one else in Chicago.

A considerable period was devoted to Sir Edward Elgar's "Nursery Suite." The British composer wrote these seven movements in the last years of his life, which in this case may fairly be referred to as his dotage. A city ordinance should be passed forbidding the playing of the suite without generous cuts.

In these works and in Mendelssohn's "Italian' symphony Miss Welge conducted with a good deal of animation, though her technique is uneconomical and her somewhat muscle bound movements delay the attacks of the orchestra.

An overture, "Amonavis," by A. Boyd Pixley of Chicago, received its world première toward the end of the program.

Government Goes the Limit to Make Salzburg Success

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

VIENNA, July 21.—The German government is doing everything possible to make the Salzburg festival a success. The festival begins Saturday. The programs, both in quality and size, are said to be equal to anything in the past. Baireuth's Wagner festival and the Heidelberg musical festival are running simultaneously, and the government intends to make the three an annual feature.

Looking at Hollywood
By Ed Sullivan

The Reviewing Stand.

Hollywood, Cal., July 20.—When your heart's on fire, smoke gets in your eyes. The blaze went out some time ago for Joan and Franchot, despite the half-hearted denials on both sides. They stuck it out as a wretched compromise to the box office. The formal separation, it seems to me, is a cleaner way to handle it. You'll hear a lot of reasons advanced for the bust-up of this marriage. You always do.

Luise Rainer said that Clifford Odets was jealous of her career. Lupe Velez said that she was worn ragged by her fights with Johnnie Weismuller. Barbara Stanwyck said Frank Fay humiliated her. Ann Harding asserted Harry Bannister interfered with her career. Eleanor Hunt claimed Rex Lease was jealous.

Vivian Duncan declared that Nils Asther spoke in Swedish to his mother, so that she was left out of the conversation. Bobbe Arnst said Johnny Weismuller insisted on having his brother live with them. Mary Pulson protested because Bull Montana made faces at her. Esther Muir filed suit because Busby Berkeley tore off her dress at a dance. The late Lowell Sherman was the most honest of all. He said he couldn't stand Helene Costello calling him a "ham" actor and all actors sided with him.

Yet despite the fact that Hollywood is only 600 miles from Reno, the marriage record is a pretty good record. Harold Lloyd and Mildred Lloyd have been married fifteen years. The Joe E. Browns soon will celebrate their 25th wedding anniversary. The Ralph Morgans have passed the 25th milestone. The Warner Baxters have been married eighteen years. John Boles has been in love with his Missus for seventeen years. Rod La Rocque and Vilma Banky have made a go if it for ten years. The Jack Bennys are in their tenth year.

The Fredric Marches have been wed for twelve years. Basil Rathbone has been happily wed for thirteen years. Others include the Wallace Beerys, Burns and Allen, the Groucho Marxes, the Chico Marxes, the Joel McCreas, the Jack Haleys, the Boris Karloffs, the Warren Williams, the Pat O'Briens, the Jim Cagneys, the Al Ritzes, the Edward G. Robinsons, the Paul Munis. So many others.

It's an ill wind indeed that blows no good. Hollywood, abandoning musical pictures, has done an important service to Broadway. Playwrights and song writers who rushed away from Broadway to tap the gold in the California hills are now racing back to the Stem.

As a result Broadway next winter will have at least ten big musical shows. Oscar Hammerstein already is signed to collaborate on three Broadway musicals—one with Jerome Kern and two with Larry Schwab. A fourth will come from the pens of Irving Berlin, Moss Hart, and George S. Kaufman. Cole Porter will team with Vinton Freedley and the Spewacks to contribute a fifth musical.

The Shuberts are lining up a Ziegfeld "Follies," headlining Richman. Bee Lillie will have a separate musical vehicle produced by Harry Kaufman. Rogers and Hart already have started work with George Abbott on the ninth scheduled musical. Dwight Wiman will give Broadway a tenth.

No story in recent years to match the Atlantic adventure of I-Meant-to-Go-to-California Corrigan. If you saw that in a movie you'd tear up the balcony seats and throw the chinaware at the ushers, alleging that such a thing could happen only in the mind of a scenario writer.

So far as I can recall, the only two faint parallels, both rather weak similes, happened some years back. Roy Riegels, running backward to his own goal line in a coast football game, provided one. The New York Herald-Tribune reporter, covering Rum Row, who swore in a copyrighted story that he had seen a giant ocean liner supplying the rum runners with cases of liquor, was another. Lloyd's Registry repudiated the story by asserting that no boat of such tonnage was in that section of American waters, and the inventive reporter confessed the hoax and resigned.

I-Meant-to-Go-to-California Corrigan, however, topped them all. In the first place, here is an apologetic hero rather than a braggart. He apologized for making his heroic mistake, he apologized to American aviation officials for taking off without official permission, he apologized to Irish customs men for troubling them.

In other words, here is the first trans-Atlantic crossing touched with humor. All the rest have been dead serious affairs, as well they might be. Corrigan, tongue in cheek, is a departure from the regular mold. He kidded the world and makes us like it.

The fact that he was a poor boy who saved his money to build this super-super-super-one-lung plane completed the Horatio Algeresque story, and any scenario writer will tell you that the rags to fame motif always is sock box office material. Corrigan wrote adventure into his script; humor, rags to riches, and novelty. The fact that he had worked on Lindbergh's plane completed the plot, supplied the motive without which no story is believable. Hollywood should engage the 31 year old Corrigan as head of their story departments. He knows what page one wants.

Needy Mother Pledges Frugal Use of Free Ice

BY DORIS LOCKERMAN.

A deserted mother with three children wrote to the Free ice fund yesterday for aid. In the last paragraph of a pathetic letter, she apologized for her request and promised that, if she could get only a few ice tickets she would use them only on warm days.

"I tried not to ask," she wrote, "but I can't make all ends meet. I earn very little money, and the little food we can buy spoils overnight. Can you imagine what it is to have no money, and know that within a day the last of your babies' food will be spoiled? I will be very saving with the ice, if you can help me."

The generosity of TRIBUNE readers this week will assure her and many other needy families of ice for a few weeks. Yesterday's gifts were:

J. W. P.	$ 25.20
D. B. N.	10.00
P. E. W.	10.00
Mrs. V. H. H.	10.00
Mars-sur-Allier Post No. 270	10.00

	$ 73.20
Previously acknowledged	176.98

The Camp Algonquin fund received three contributions, enough to send a few more needy children on a healthful two weeks' vacation in the country. They were:

E. P. Doree	$ 25.00
D. B. N.	10.00
P. E. W.	10.00

Needleworkers in Expert Class Like This Quilt Design

Four Lotus Blossoms.

Patterns of this design are 5 cents, stamps or coin. Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower.

BY NANCY CABOT.

Here is a quilt pattern which all expert needleworkers love to attempt because it is an expression of their dexterity with a needle. This is the most elaborate and detailed of all the lotus designs in our quilt album. Cream, green, and yellow are the colors which combine to reproduce this delicate bloom in quilt pictures. The nicest part of having a coverlet in this design is that the flower is permanent and cannot wither when taken from its native habitat. Twenty applique blocks, measuring 15 inches square each, are set together with four inch bands of white material between blocks, and surrounded by a nine inch border.

For a limited period Nancy Cabot offers 10 quilt patterns of her own choice at a price of 10 cents for the group (12 cents by mail). Address Nancy Cabot, Chicago Tribune, or call at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

A beauty bargain for the woman with normal skin who hates the feel of heavy creams in warm weather is a new, economical vacation cleansing cream that comes in pound jars. It's cooling, slightly mentholated, and the perfect texture for summer use.

It may be that you are one who puts away her heavy creams with the winter garments. Lots of women do. For some of us the thick lubricating creams are just a bit too much in warm weather—like wool dresses or heavy, heady perfumes.

A vacation cleansing cream is just the thing in this case. It's the ideal summer cleanser for two reasons, carefully worked out by the shrewd house that manufactures it. First of all, it is cooling, because it is mentholated slightly. It has a cool fragrance and feels like sherbet against the skin.

Then, too, it is inexpensive. This is packed in pound jars, and sold at an exceedingly low price. You can put it to good summer use, saving your heavier, more expensive creams.

In summer, as every woman knows, you must cleanse your face far more frequently than in cold weather. Because you perspire more your makeup breaks up more quickly—and that same perspiration gathers dust unto itself in a shocking manner.

You can't look or feel cool when you fear that your face is grimy. The pound of cream is an economy and a comfort because you can use it lavishly.

The texture is delightful. It isn't a runny, thin cream; neither is it thick. It's medium weight, with just enough suggestion of what we can only describe as "sponginess" to give you the assurance that it does do the job of summer lubricating as well as cleansing.

Whether or not you are vacationing you'll find this summer cleansing cream a good warm weather beauty-and-grooming aid.

Proper Care Beautifies the Skin on Back

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

On those lovely days at the beach or shore, what do people say about you behind your back?

"What a beautiful skin!" "What lovely shoulders!" "What a good looking back!'

Or do they whisper:

"What awful pimples!" "She doesn't look as if she bathed enough!"

Bathing suits are a dead give-away if your back isn't beautiful. It is all very well to don a cute little beach coat or one of those amusing beach nightshirts. You can lounge on the sands safely for a while. Inevitably the moment comes for a plunge. You must remove your pretty coat and expose your unsightly, pimpled, rough back to the world. Run fast! Maybe you won't see it, but every one else will.

A bad back complexion is almost always a sign of lack of scrubbing. It really is a form of uncleanliness. A vigorous daily attack with a long-handled back brush will inspire the blood to flow freely and remove the impurities. A daily hot and cold shower beating upon the skin will tone up the circulation. The summer sun will act as a disinfectant. But you don't want people to think you have been careless in keeping your skin clean all winter and spring.

You wouldn't go out in public continually with a dirty face, would you? Why let your back be a garden of impurities?

Invest in a back brush and scrub. We need hardly mention that inner cleanliness is essential for daintiness, too.

Lee Tracy Marries After Plane, Auto Trip to Yuma

Yuma, Ariz., July 20.—(AP)—Lee Tracy, film actor, and Helen Thomas Wyse were married here today after a hurried trip from Los Angeles by airplane and automobile. The airplane was forced down near Brawley, Cal., and automobiles were chartered for the remainder of the trip. The bride gave her age as 25. The actor signed the book as William Lee Tracy, age 40.

Some Flowers, a Ribbon, and Presto! a Hat

BY RHEA SEEGER.

Some one had a bright idea about developing the summer rage of wearing just a bunch of flowers on the head and went into a designing huddle. The result—neat little arrays of vari-colored blooms tied artfully with a bow of velvet or silk ribbon—all securely attached to a thin disc. These are the answer to the need for headgear to wear when you go out nights.

Such an invention and such a small affair should please every one. It is our guess that the movie going people who have raged about feminine headgear that blocks your view will rise and cheer. These flowered trifles wouldn't blot out anything but a couple of frothy curls of the owner. Even the bows of ribbon are well under control. Sometimes there is a snip of a veil, but that, too, is just an airy nothing.

You'll find such flattering flowered mixups in the costume accessory collections. The bunch of small white daisies, tied with black velvet ribbon; the field flowers with cornflowers, and the carnations also tied with grosgrain are worth considerably more than just a passing inspection. They're just what you need for summer night life; grand for occasions when brims are too extra and when a swathed turban suddenly looks too hot.

All have good firm elastics that anchor the confections on the skull, and do a good disappearing act, after they get into the hair. If you like flowers on your head and want something new, try these little dabs of floral combines. Prices are exceptionally easy.

Sally's Guests Will See Film, 'Lord Jeff' at Happy Party Today

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

[Activities of the Sally Joy Brown department are sponsored by Tribune Charities, Inc.]

I don't suppose I need to tell you boys and girls what day this is! Thursdays are most important during the party season, aren't they?

My winners for today's party are going to have a grand time seeing the film, "Lord Jeff." I hope all my guests will be prompt. And remember to bring those invitations I mailed to you.

And today is also the day I select the youngsters who'll be with me at a party one week from today. Judging from the huge piles of mail on my desk I'm going to have quite a job selecting 50 boys and 50 girls, but I'll do my very best. You'll know the results on Sunday just as soon as you can lay your hands on your TRIBUNE because the names of the winners will be printed in my column. We'll announce another party then, too.

SYNOPSIS.

On board the S. S. Panama Queen, sailing from Los Angeles to New York via Panama, are Anne Sydney, who has a part in a Broadway play, and her crippled and embittered sister, Mena. Arnold Vernon, elderly rich English motion picture producer, and his coldly beautiful wife, Claire. Isobel Butler, who has a stateroom next to the Vernon suite and hopes to get in pictures through him; Alex Reed, young surgeon returning to work after two years' illness, and gossipy Mrs. Panting. Isobel meets and arouses Vernon's interest. Anne and Alex are mutually attracted. Mena spitefully tells Alex that Anne is a heartless flirt. Pride causes Anne to hold herself aloof from him. Dr. Neil Andrews, a friend of Alex's, joins the ship in Mexico. He wants to get married and thinks Anne meets his ideals. Isobel and Arnold Vernon fall in love. He tries to buy his freedom from Claire. When she refuses he threatens to make a new will disinheriting her. The ship fights through a terrific hurricane.

INSTALMENT XXVIII.

A SHOOTING.

The violence of the hurricane lasted another two hours while hands ached with holding on to the lashed-up furniture, arms were nearly dragged out of their shoulder sockets. Suddenly the motion modified, the stewards were able to walk about—to stand up. They came swaying in from the smoke room with whisky and brandy and trays of sandwiches.

Isobel took a small glass of neat brandy—felt herself coming together again. The sharp pain at her side had subsided into a dull ache, almost forgotten. She hauled herself along with the rope and made for the doorway, to be barred again by the deck steward. "I can get down well enough. It's all right now——"

"Orders——" he began.

"Stand out of my way. It's only one deck down——"

He stood out of her way. "All right, Miss Butler. But hang on to the rail with both hands. If she keels over again like she did you'll be killed——"

Isobel pushed past him and began her perilous descent of the stairs. At the foot she leaped across the wide gap and caught the rail along the passage—reached her room and turned the door handle. The door yielded an inch and refused to open. Something inside was stopping it. "Arnold," she whispered, "Arnold——"

There was no answer. She leaned against the door with wildly hammering heart. "Arnold—Arnold——" As the ship rolled again she heard her trunk moving about the floor crashing and bumping. She pushed again and this time the door yielded a foot. She held it open with all her strength and forced herself in.

He was lying there unconscious on the floor, her heavy wardrobe trunk across his chest. She pulled the trunk out of the way with superhuman strength, rolled with it as the ship rolled, wedged it between the wall and the bottom of the bed. She crawled back to him—raised his head— "Dear—speak to me—speak——"

He was breathing stentoriously through open lips. At least he was still alive. She tried to lift him to the bed out of the way of the moving baggage, but with the continued motion of the ship he was too heavy for her. She took the sheet off her bed, slipped it through the chair back, the handles of the luggage, tied it firmly to the leg of the bed, which thank God, was bolted to the floor. Then went out to look for a doctor—any doctor.

Deck B was deserted. She hauled herself up the after stairs clinging to the rails, and got into the smoke room. There was no sign of the ship's surgeon—she didn't expect him—nor of Dr. Andrews nor of Alex.

She saw Claire wedged in a corner there, white and exhausted. Isobel reached her and whispered in her ear—"Get down to my room somehow quickly—your husband is down there terribly injured. Keep him from rolling about while I find a doctor——"

Claire stared at her with wide incredulous eyes, but surprisingly got up and went.

Isobel said to a smoke-room steward—"Where are all the doctors?"

"Down with the crew," he whispered. "Two of the men are dying——"

Isobel made her way past the doctor's quarters through the passage leading to the hospital. A grimy seaman with a cap on the back of his head attempted to bar her way.

"There's a man dying in his stateroom on B deck," shouted Isobel, hysterically, "I must get the doctor at once."

"He'll be attended to," said the man imperturbably. "Every one is being checked over. My orders are to allow no one to pass."

"Do you allow your passengers to die for want of attention? Two days ago this man was being treated for a heart attack. Now he's lying on the floor bleeding and unconscious. At least let me speak to the doctor——"

But he would not let her go to the hospital. "Let me see you get back up those stairs and I'll take your message," he said. She realized there were sights he didn't want her to see down there. She gave him the name and the number of the room and hoped for the best.

She began to pull herself up by the rails of the stairs. The thick carpet squelched underfoot with the water that had poured down it before the storm doors could be closed. The polished mahogany of the rail was slimy and wet. She was tired of the rolling—she was sick—her hands slipped. She fell back into the water slapping about the foot of the stairs and there she lay.

Claire managed to get to Isobel's stateroom, resentful of the discomfort of clinging to the rails and her body being torn from her arms, but now that the motion was so much less violent, no longer afraid. Her mind, anyhow, was too much occupied with other things.

So this is why he wanted to be free of me—this vulgar, appalling, gold-digging girl—her influence—of all things. She went into the room and stood looking at Arnold while she clung to the washbasin.

He was still unconscious, the thin thread of blood trickling from his mouth. Perhaps he's dying, she thought, with a sudden wild uprush of hope. He looked as if he might be—but no, there was the steady, strong breathing——

She opened the door and caught the storm rail outside. She emerged from the small passage into the main one that ran almost the length of the deck. It was deserted. It was difficult to keep her feet. The purser's suite was up there by the bathrooms.

His rooms were empty. She pressed her finger hard on the steward's bell. The red signal popped up outside, but of what avail? There was no one to see it. "I'm doing my best," she thought; "it won't be my fault if he dies."

Then she saw that the top drawer in Mr. Flagg's chest was open and she thought of the old Spanish pistol that lay inside. Her heart began to drum in her body like unheard thunder and her stomach tingled. She had been up in the smoking room when the Butler woman found him on the floor in her room. They wouldn't blame her if they found him dead. There would be proof that he was wounded before she came.

It was not as if she would really be taking his life—there was so little of it—only a few months perhaps—he thought so himself—but if he died now in the storm he could never alter his will——

There was a towel still tangled with the back of a fallen chair where the purser had left it.

Claire opened the drawer with the towel round her fingers—took out the gun. She moved out into the eerily bright empty passage—still nobody about. She got back without seeing a sign of life into Isobel's room. Safe. She clung to the wash basin again licking her dry lips.

Arnold's eyelids were fluttering—they rose a little—fell again. He was returning to consciousness. She pointed the pistol at his chest with the towel around it, shut her eyes, and pulled the trigger.

The noise was deafening in the enclosed room. She stood there paralyzed waiting for the sounds of running footsteps and shout, her eyes still closed on the sight she did not want to see. There was no sound but the groaning of the tormented ship.

Something acrid in the air was tearing at her chest. She coughed, startled by the sounds she made. There was no one coming after all—she could get out—escape. She turned her head away from the corpse and opened her eyes.

The pistol, what to do with it? Every room might be searched this very night. Impossible to open a port and let in those mountainous seas. The drawers under Isobel's wardrobe were sliding in and out. Claire opened her hands inside the towel and dropped the pistol in.

Serving a frozen salad helps to make even the hottest day seem cooler. For recipes, see Mary Meade's "Freeze the Salad." The booklet is on sale for 3 cents at the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street and Tribune Tower; or will be mailed for 5 cents in stamps. Mail requests should be addressed to Mary Meade.

BY MARY MEADE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune.]

We eat with our eyes fully as much as with our tongues, I think. An unattractive looking meal can reduce appetite to 50 per cent normal, and a carefully arranged, beautiful luncheon, or dinner can send it zooming 'way past its normal level.

There's more opportunity for bringing beauty into salads than there is in any other menu item. Even the simplest arrangements can be lovely to look at if the cook exercises what artistry she may possess.

These simple fruit and vegetable salads are among the most attractive and appetizing I know. I present them as proof of my assertion that half the pleasure in eating is in contemplating handsome food.

SIMPLE SUMMER SALADS.

FRUIT SALADS.

APRICOT AND CHERRY: Arrange three peeled apricot halves on lettuce for each salad. In the center of each half place three halves of sweet cherries. Serve with thin French dressing sweetened with honey. The salad may be made a little more elaborate if a piece of blanched almond is placed in each seed cavity of the cherries.

PEACH AND BLACKBERRY SALAD: Use the two halves of a ripe peach for each salad. Place the halves in a lettuce cup and fill the seed cavities with mayonnaise thinned with fruit juice. Sprinkle blackberries over the top of the salad.

ORANGE AND BANANA: Cut bananas into quarters lengthwise. Sprinkle each strip with orange or lemon juice, and roll in chopped nuts or coconut. Place about three strips on a lettuce bed, and top with a slice of orange to make each salad. Serve with mayonnaise.

CANTALOUPE FRUIT SALAD: For six salads combine two cups diced cantaloupe, one cup diced apples, one cup diced peaches, one cup chopped celery. Marinate 10 minutes in French dressing. Drain off dressing and add one-half cup chopped nuts. Serve on lettuce or other greens and serve mayonnaise as accompaniment.

FROSTED GRAPE SALAD: This is not a true salad, as no dressing is used, but may take the place of a salad in a summer luncheon. Dip clusters of green grapes into slightly beaten egg white, let dry somewhat, and then sprinkle with fine granulated sugar.

VEGETABLE SALADS.

RAW VEGETABLE SALAD: Let equal amounts of grated raw beet, grated raw carrot, and finely diced cucumber stand separately in French dressing for 10 minutes. Drain off excess dressing and arrange in small lettuce cups on salad plates, using a lettuce cupful of each of the three for each salad.

TOMATO POINSETTIA: Allow one medium tomato and five asparagus tips for each salad. Do not peel the tomato, but make quarter inch deep incisions with a sharp knife from center to stem end to form petals. Make about five petals. Cut them down in thin slices, leaving the center of the tomato as whole as possible and leaving the petals attached at the stem end. Spread the petals away from the center and stand a short asparagus tip against each, next to the tomato center. Sprinkle the center with riced hard cooked egg yolk, and place dabs of mayonnaise or cooked dressing between the petals.

BEET CUP SALAD: Chill medium sized boiled beets, pull off the skin, and hollow the center of each. Fill with diced orange and thinly sliced onion. Serve on lettuce with mayonnaise.

STRING BEAN SALAD: Use long canned or freshly cooked string beans. Marinate them in French dressing and chill thoroughly. Drain and arrange a sheaf of beans, held together by a circle cut from canned pimiento, on each lettuce lined salad plate. Fold thinly sliced radishes and green onions into mayonnaise and serve some of the mixture in a small lettuce cup at the side of each group of beans.

Dozens of salads, many of them simpler to make than these, are to be found in the cooking department's newest booklet, "Everyday Adventures in Salads." It is obtainable for 5 cents in stamps, by mail, or for only 3 cents if it is picked up at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, Tribune Tower lobby and 1 South Dearborn street. Address mail requests to Mary Meade, CHICAGO TRIBUNE.

Simple and Informal Dress

WOMAN'S AND MISS' PINAFORE FROCK.

For your hours at home, in your garden, at the country house or the beach you need a simple frock which can stand the rigors of frequent laundering and just as frequent traveling. You want a dress that looks crisp, come what may in the way of weather. This pinafore dress offered in our pattern today is a trig little model with buttoned shoulders, a slim long panel down the front, and a full sash that ties in a voluminous bow in back. On the slim skirt there are two capacious pockets with buttons to match those used on the shoulders. If you like a feminine and dressy touch, use ruffling on the shoulders, sleeves and pockets. If you prefer a more tailored frock, finish these same edges with bias binding.

All the cottons and wash silks will make up beautifully. If you like the idea of embroidery as a touch on a plain colored dress, you might look into the possibilities of our pattern, No. E-700, which is available for ten cents extra.

Style No. 3174 is designed for sizes 16, 18, and 20 years, and 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, and 48 inches bust measurement. Size 36 requires 3¼ yards of 39 inch material, with 2⅝ yards of ruffling.

CLOTILDE PATTERNS ARE 10 CENTS EACH

Heartbreaker Is Inferiority Feeling Victim

BY DORIS BLAKE.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

The heartbreaker is a victim of an inferiority complex. A long list of conquests may prove a man or girl has charm, good looks and sex appeal, but it does not mean that he or she has any real success in love.

On the contrary, it shows that the man or girl never has experienced the happiness and joy of love. The heartbreaker actually is fighting a sense of failure. He is eternally trying to reassure himself.

Niel S. took great pride in his success with the girls, even though he was no great shakes in business. He rushed Dorothy and dropped her for Mildred. After he had swept Mildred off her feet, his interest waned.

Harriet next seized his fancy, but once he was sure of her affection, he wandered off elsewhere. Actually he was trying to get a sense of achievement in romance that he failed to receive from his work. It was not until he found an absorbing job that he settled down to one girl and found real happiness.

Marian has turned down one man after another. She is forever making chaps miserable. She is extremely popular. One gay evening after another makes up her life.

It is possible that in the end she never may marry, or even in marriage she may still keep on flirting and never know real love. Her fickleness is a sign that she isn't getting any satisfaction or sense of achievement elsewhere.

Of course, all young people usually have to go through a certain trial and error period before they find their real mates. It is quite natural and necessary. But the confirmed heartbreaker is advertising that he or she has failed.

His wanderings are a symptom of not being able to love. The jilted girl and heartbroken boy, victims of philanderers, can know that at least they have had a deepening experience. They have had the joy of giving love instead of just taking it to flatter their vanity.

Urges School Changes to Meet Needs of Noncollege Groups

Sweeping changes in curriculum and teaching methods were recommended by De Witt S. Morgan, superintendent of schools at Indianapolis, at the conference of administrative officers of private and public schools yesterday at the University of Chicago. Mr. Morgan referred particularly to the needs of those students whose formal education ends with high school.

If the educator sets himself to meeting the needs of this group he will develop an entirely new kind of school in a few years, Mr. Morgan asserted. The chief need in secondary education, Mr. Morgan said, is guidance that will enable high school students to direct their careers intelligently in a confused world.

According to CULBERTSON

[Copyright: 1938: By Ely Culbertson.]

So many players blindly adhere to the ancient, but dishonored principle, "second hand low," that I shall devote this column for three days' running to the explosion of the myth.

The fact is that there can be no good rule as to whether second hand should play high or low to a given trick. There are at least three outstanding reasons under varying circumstances for second hand's playing high instead of low. One reason may be to preserve partner's entry; another, as a pure deception play; and the third, as a blocking measure. Today's hand illustrates the last named reason.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 heart	Pass	1 spade	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	Pass	Pass

It will be noted that South did not have a good opening two bid, despite his six honor tricks. He also had at least six losers and, of course, the rule is that a two bid must be based on more honor tricks than losers. When North, however, responded with one spade, South correctly jumped all the way to game in no trump. Incidentally, I had better point out that this jump is by no means a game-closing effort. It shows an enormous hand and, in that sense, invites partner to proceed. North, indeed, might well have gone to four spades, since his hand was devoid of outside entries and, hence, not well adapted to no trump play.

Against the actual three no trump contract West opened the diamond queen. Declarer won, and a count of tricks was not very satisfactory. In sight were only two hearts, two diamonds, and two clubs. Even if the club suit broke 3-3, South still would need two spade tricks to eke out his contract. To that end he led the nine of spades and, when West played low, ducked in dummy. East did his best to save the situation by holding up his king, but the damage already had been done. Declarer promptly switched to clubs, leading the ace-king and a small one and, by setting up a low club, reached the point at which only the ace of spades was needed for the ninth trick.

Here was a glorious opportunity for "second hand high." West, on declarer's lead of the nine of spades, should have put in his queen with alacrity and dispatch. The vital consideration was to prevent dummy's suit from being brought in and, if possible, to keep declarer from making even two spade tricks. The immediate play of the queen was by all odds the best method of obtaining that end. Note the effect it would have had. If declarer won with dummy's ace, East could win the next round with the king. If the queen were permitted to hold, declarer would be in no better position. He would have only one spade left and this would permit only the cashing of the ace.

This type of defensive play comes up whenever dummy has a long suit and no outside entry, and it will pay players to study the situation.

The Housewife

If you have plenty of luggage and never wonder despairingly where that suit that just came back from the cleaners can be wedged in you'll have no need of an extra traveling box. But if you are like lots of women we know you would welcome another container.

It's a travel case that's so inexpensive you can leave it at the shore or the camp when it is no longer needed. Made of heavy, nubby cardboard in lether brown, it is equipped with three wooden hangers to keep your garments from wrinkling. But it holds many more than three dresses or suits.

There are woven straps which hold the case firmly closed and two extra ones making handles at the top. It is the neatest, most convenient thing for the money we've come across.

Few Bidders Compete for Portraits of Bourbons

[Copyright: 1938: By the New York Times.]

LONDON, July 20.—Pictures and drawings composing the collections of the royal Bourbons of France, many of which formerly hung in the Tuileries palace, brought $25,600 at Sotheby's today. Although the sale was well attended, there was little competition, since the pictures were mostly family portraits and often of inconvenient size.

Quiet, Gentle Manner Works Best with Baby

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1938: By The Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.]

Don't snatch things from your babies and small children. If you never do they won't expect it, and so when you approach them to remove an object they shouldn't have they won't jerk, turn, or run from you—thereby increasing the danger to themselves, or to the cherished object they may have captured. Here's what I mean.

The baby was watching his mother cut the bread. The slices fell one upon the other in a neat, fascinating row, like tipped over blocks. Suddenly something on the stove boiled over, and annoyed, she turned to snatch the cover off the saucepan of creamed soup which she had forgotten. Such a mess!

She turned to pick up a dishcloth and was horrified to see the baby holding the big, sharp bread knife.

"No, no, baby, give me the knife!" she called out excitedly, and reached for it. The baby jerked back and waved the knife to and fro to avoid his mother's attempts to grab it. Each move was a menace to them both, but at last she caught his wrist and by main force uncurled the fingers of the tight little fist, while the baby burst into tears of frustration.

It is not necessary to take things from small children by force, except when they are actually babies who can neither walk, talk, nor understand. Even then, when you have to take something from a little baby's hand you can do it gently and rather slowly, and without any crossness, distracting the baby with something else, if necessary.

But early you can dispense with this method. Any little child can be trained to give up what you want him to, without resorting to force. Don't be excited, nor angry, nor sudden! Be calm and friendly, and explain. Sometimes even if he doesn't understand, the sound of explanation in your voice awakens an intelligent response in him.

Add to that an air of taking for granted that he will give up what you want him to, and you'll get results. If he's used to trusting you it's easily done. And then you are not putting him through the experience of feeling himself powerless in the grip of superior force, because with that sensation comes frustration. Force should not be used except in a real emergency.

The little boy with the bread knife would have given it up if his mother had talked quietly to him, or perhaps held his hand while he cut a few slices and then had said, "Now, let mother have it, because daddy is coming and we must cut some bread for him."

There are tricks in every trade. Learn this one in yours.

For the ninth time Jerry Shea lurched into the tavern at 3542 West 59th street and for the ninth time Caesar Ruscoutti, the owner, tossed him out. Then Mr. Ruscoutti closed up the place and went home.

Early yesterday Sergt. Jerry McGrath and his Chicago Lawn police squad saw the glass had been broken from the tavern door. Inside on the floor they found Mr. Shea, who mumbled: "He didn't throw me out this time." Nor did any one. Sergt. McGrath and his men lifted Mr. Shea and carried him—to the squad car—then to a Woodlawn police cell.

CYCLIST STRUCK BY AUTO DIES; ARREST DRIVER

John Jacobs, 28 years old, 712 West 21st street, was arrested yesterday on charges of manslaughter and reckless driving after the death of a boy, 14, who according to police was struck by Jacobs' automobile Tuesday night while riding his bicycle.

The boy, Charles Krueger, appeared at his home, 919 West 31st place, with his damaged bicycle. He told of the accident at 33d street and Lituanica avenue and said the motorist had given him $1 to repair his wheel. Six hours later the boy died of a skull fracture.

Policemen William Ward and Stanley Lechert identified Jacobs through three numbers of his automobile license obtained by witnesses. Jacobs admitted driving the car, but said he thought the boy was not seriously injured.

Injured Sunday in a collision on the Southwest highway near Cicero avenue in Oak Lawn, William Young died yesterday in the Little Company of Mary hospital. Young, who was 21 years old, lived at 6618 Fairfield avenue.

Two young couples were injured early today when their automobile overturned in a collision with another car at state route 59A and Countryside road, three miles west of Mundelein. The injured are Robert Igel, 2209 Rosemont avenue; Miss Jewill Austin, 1210 Granville avenue; Miss Louise McDonald, 7424 Rogers avenue, and Gerald Lucas, 838 Sherman avenue, Evanston. They were taken to the Condell Memorial hospital in Libertyville. The driver of the other car, whose name was not learned, was slightly hurt.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 448 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1. Of these, 345 were killed in Chicago, where 10,206 were injured in the same period.

Twenty-four hours after falling two floors and landing on her head, Margaret Asimakis, 7 years old, was still alive yesterday in the American hospital. The child, who lives at 4146 Broadway, was playing on the third floor porch at 903 Buena avenue. She has not regained consciousness.

WINS DISMISSAL ON CHAIN LETTER LOTTERY CHARGE

A charge of operating a lottery against Henry Verboomen, 1536 East 84th street, was dismissed yesterday by Judge Eugene Holland in South State street court.

Verboomen was arrested July 11 after a raid on the offices of the Taylor Drum and Bugle Corps Profit Sharing system, a chain letter scheme, at 37 South Wabash avenue. He was not in the office when it was raided and said he had signed a lease for the quarters for a man he knew only as Atkinson. The raid followed a complaint of the Harold A. Taylor post of the American Legion that its name was being used although permission had been denied.

A similar charge against Joseph and Paul Edwards, 556 East 87th place, who were running a chain letter office at 1525 East 53rd street, was continued until today by Judge Holland.

COUNCIL VOTES INDEPENDENT ASPHALT TEST

The city council yesterday voted for independent testing of asphalt used in city streets. The finance committee will investigate the amount of money to be spent for this purpose.

Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, asked for $65,000 to be paid to the Walter H. Flood company, chemical engineers. The company would examine basic materials used in asphalt, the mixing, and would place inspectors with each crew to see that it is properly rolled.

Ald. John F. Healy [6th] and John J. Duffy [19th] protested that the city already has civil service employés to inspect asphalt. Other aldermen said the city must safeguard against criticism of paving. Ald. J. M. Arvey [24th], finance committee chairman, was finally authorized to order the testing as he finds it necessary.

153 TESTS SHOW NO SUBSTITUTION IN CITY GASOLINE

Samples taken from 153 gasoline pumps in the Chicago area during the gasoline price cutting war failed to show a single instance of blending with nontaxable products, state inspectors reported yesterday.

The tests would have detected the presence of such fluids as kerosene and range oil. They were made under the direction of C. S. Holmberg, supervisor of the state motor fuel tax division, at the request of Eliot Evans, counsel for a committee representing the oil companies.

C. E. Ragen, head of a gasoline retailers' association, pointed out that the tests do not determine whether high gasoline is being mixed with low grade gasoline.

Murder Charge Is Filed in Wilson Ave. Shooting

A charge of murder was filed yesterday against Edward Rothman, 22 years old, of 5020 Winthrop avenue. He is accused of killing Edward Tager Sunday night in front of the hotel at 920 Wilson avenue, where Tager lived. Rothman denied that he is the gunman who shot Tager down.

STAGEHAND, THE CHIEF SHOW SPEED IN CLASSIC DRILL

QUOTE HOWARD PAIR AT 8 TO 5 IN $30,000 STAKE

Expect Ten to Face Starter Saturday.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Backers of Stagehand and The Chief, Maxwell Howard's favorites for the $30,000 Classic stakes to be run at Arlington on Saturday, took on renewed confidence last night. Earl Sande, trainer of the two great 3 year olds, also was in a cheerful mood, believing that the weather man is on his side.

Sande's fear is that the track will be muddy, as Stagehand, his ace, doesn't like such going at all and The Chief is scarcely more than a fair mudder.

Arlington Escapes Rain.

It rained on all sides Tuesday night and yesterday morning, but not a drop fell on the Arlington track.

Sande was so concerned over the threat of rain that he moved the work hour for the Howard color bearers up an hour to allow them to go through their final hard rehersal on a fast track.

Running head and head under stout restraint, Stagehand and The Chief clicked off a half in :49 1-5, three quarters in 1:14 2-5, a mile in 1:41 1-5, and a mile and an eighth in 1:54. At that stage Sande waved them down. Sande could not hide his satisfaction and neither could the professional railbirds. They predicted that the present odds of 8 to 5 against the entry will drop to 6 to 5 by post time on Saturday afternoon.

Arlington Jocky club officials started yesterday to groom the north side plant for the biggest racing day of the Chicago season. They expect 40,000 or more will turn out to see the Classic, a race which on several occasions has determined the 3 year old championship.

It's an Important Race.

It will carry just as much importance this year. Stagehand is far ahead of all other horses in America in money earned this year. A smashing victory in the Classic would cause nearly everybody to recognize him as the best 3 year old of the year, even though the Kentucky Derby winner, Lawrin, and the Preakness winner, Dauber, are not competing. Injuries have put both of these early season stars out of commission.

A victory for Menow would put him near the top of the division and eventually might result in a championship for that Kentucky colt. He already has beaten War Admiral in the Massachusetts handicap and has the Withers mile in New York to his credit.

Menow, Nedayr Arrive Today.

Menow and Willis Sharpe Kilmer's Nedayr will reach Arlington Park this morning from Saratoga. Cravat, second to Dauber in the Preakness, and third in the Belmont Stakes to Pasteurized, arrived from Belmont Park yesterday afternoon.

There probably will be eight or ten starters in the Classic and the field will be about as follows:

	Owner.	Jockey.
Stagehand	Maxwell Howard	J. Westrope
The Chief	Maxwell Howard	G. Woolf
Menow	H. P. Headley	E. Arcaro
Bull Lea	Warren Wright	I. Anderson
Nedayr	W. S. Kilmer	No boy
Cravat	T. B. Martin	A. Robertson
Blind Eagle	Mrs. E. Denemark	E. Steffen
Co-Sport	Bert Friend	W. Garner
Mythical King	B. F. Whitaker	K. McCoombs
Fairfax	Frank Seremba	C. Rollins

Bull Lea, another Classic candidate, caught the eye of the railbirds yesterday. He went the mile and a quarter Classic route in 2:08 3-5. He ran easily all the way, galloping the last quarter in 24 seconds.

This brought a boom in the stock of this early season sensation, which twice took the measure of Menow at the Keeneland track in Kentucky last spring.

FENSKE, MALOTT WIN EVENTS IN STOCKHOLM MEET

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, July 20.—(AP)—Ben Johnson of Columbia, and Ray Malott of Stanford, led a team of United States track athletes to victory today in the first day of the three-day international meet. The Americans took five of the seven events.

Johnson won the 100 meters in 10.4 beating his nearest competitor, Stenquist of Sweden, by three-tenths of a second. Malott set a Swedish record for the 400 meters, defeating Baumgarten of the Netherlands in 47.8. The old mark was 48.8.

George Varoff, the pole vaulter from Oregon, scored the only American victory in the field events when he cleared the bar at 13 feet 11 25-32 inches. Fred Wolcott of Rice, won the 110 meter high hurdles in 14.2 with Lidman of Sweden second in 14.6.

Chuck Fenske, the Wisconsin star, won the 1,500 easily over a crack field in 3:49.4, one and six-tenths seconds off Jack Lovelock's Olympic and world record.

Meet the New Pilot and Family

Mrs. Leo Hartnett was overjoyed when Gabby broke the good news to her.

The Hartnetts have one child, Leo Jr., who is a familiar figure around Wrigley field.

In the Wake of the News

BY ARCH WARD.

THE congratulations of the baseball fans of Chicago, to which I would like to add my own, are due Gabby Hartnett, newly appointed manager of the Cubs. . . . His elevation to the leadership of the north side team is fitting recognition of one of the most brilliant careers in the history of the diamond. . . . This department had no quarrel with Charley Grimm as a player, manager, or all round fellow, but we venture the guess that no athlete ever stepped into a major league manager's job with heartier acclaim than has Hartnett. . . . His appointment will revitalize the Cubs in every way. . . . Billy Burke of Cleveland, 1931 national open champion, was eliminated in the third round of the P. G. A. tournament last week, but won the smart cracking title of the event, 2 up. . . . Watching Paul Runyan, the ultimate winner, lining up a seven foot putt in his semi-final match with Henry Picard, Burke said, "He missed one of those twenty years ago—practicing." . . . In his own third round match with Horton Smith, Burke was just about to hit a difficult shot when an amateur movie cameraman knelt within ten feet in front of him. . . . After having been disturbed enough to half hit the shot, Burke remarked: "For $1.65 they want the movie rights now." . . . A Boston promoter has offered to bet $25,000 that a champion wrestler can beat Joe Louis in a mixed match. . . . What or who is a champion wrestler? . . . Reporters lost a punch line last week when "Boganowski took Russia." . . . Sounds like a political coup in the soviet. . . . Boganowski is William Boganowski, former jocky, now racing and training horses. . . . He "took Russia," a selling plater, from Mrs. R. J. Murphy in one of the Arlington claiming races. . . . Muddy Ruel, debonair coach of the White Sox, who carefully avoids rugged sartorial effects, smokes a very strong pipe. . . .

Gus Zarnas, Ohio State guard, who will play with the Bears this fall, will be the only Greek in professional football. . . . Next to yachting, the favorite hobby of Sheldon Clark, new member of the Illinois athletic commission, is breeding pheasants. . . . The Phillies are looking around for a minor league farm. . . . Four of the country's leading basketball players, Chuck Hyatt, Jay Wallenstrom, Jack Regland, and Bud Browning, all members of the Phillips team in the Missouri Valley A. A. U. league, have retired from competition to work for an oil company. . . . Cy Young, famous old time pitcher, has left his farm at Paoli, O., to become a greeter for a Boston hotel. . . . The Chicago Cardinals probably have more promising new players than any other team in the pro football league. . . . A survey by the National Collegiate association reveals that American colleges lose $250,000 a year on baseball. . . . Theodore Fink, 20 year old running guard on the University of Chicago football team, is an entrant in the Cook county tenor division of the ninth annual Chicagoland Music Festival vocal contest . . . He was a child soloist with Cantor Schiffman.

It's a Gift.

WET WEATHER IS BREAK FOR CUBS; PLAY TWO TODAY

After Brooklyn, They'll Be Ready for Giants.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The Cubs didn't have a chance to play their scheduled double-header with Brooklyn yesterday, the grounds being boggy, and they didn't know whether to moan or express appreciation. They still must dispose of the double bill today, but after weighing the matter they were inclined to suspect that the postponement might have been a stroke of fortune. What with the Giants coming up for three games starting tomorrow, at least one pitcher has been saved. And what's more, they moved up a notch to third place as the Bees beat Cincinnati last night.

If yesterday's schedule had been carried out, Mr. Diz Dean, the great man who staged something akin to a comeback last Sunday, would have faced the Dodgers in the final today. To pitch a noble character such as Diz against the Dodgers would have been sheer waste. But because of the intervention of the weather, Diz will be available, according to latest reports, for use against the Giants tomorrow. That should be a real test for the still questionable $185,000 arm.

Still Need Hitting.

Although the Cubs put on a winning streak which was stopped by the Dodgers at seven Tuesday, there still is no reason to believe they have flag possibilities unless they start hitting. They haven't hit all season. Five of those seven games were won because the pitchers turned in two shutouts and three one run games. The pitchers can't take that as a steady diet, as witness the six game losing streak which immediately preceded the seven game splurge. During the losing streak the pitchers were trying to get their second wind. They allowed 44 runs and the Cubs scored only 19.

Bill Lee and Clay Bryant are the only men from whom Manager Gabby Hartnett can expect a good performance whenever they start and two of this ilk isn't enough. Of course, Diz Dean may get into this class, Bryant and Root.

For today's twin affair with the Dodgers the Cubs will start Bryant and Charley Root, who were supposed to work yesterday. Giving a job of this kind to Root is a real indication of the shortage of pitchers. The old boy is past the point where he can be regarded as a nine inning workman.

Tex Carleton, who after his pitching effort on Monday thought his right arm was going to drop off, was feeling better yesterday. Dr. John Davis, the club physician, examined the ailing shoulder and found nothing out of kilter. But it is likely that Tex will have to rest for at least a couple more days. However, Carleton should be in fairly good shape for the Giants, what with Lee and Bryant ready to follow Dean.

Golf's Greatest Await Start of Chicago Open

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Stars in the field of 389 players who tee off tomorrow on the first eighteen holes of the second Chicago open golf tournament came swinging into town yesterday afternoon and last night.

Today every headliner in the huge battalion is expected to take a final rehersal over the No. 1 and 4 courses of the Olympia Fields Country club. Practice rounds yesterday were few, due to the presence of an army of 1,000 Knights of Columbus competing for their eleventh annual state championship.

Horton Smith, Harry Cooper, Jimmy Thomson, and Lawson Little, all of them with designs on taking away the first professional prize of $1,500, gave a demonstration of shots at a luncheon of the Traffic club in the Palmer house. Thomson later joined Johnny Revolta, former P. G. A. and Western Open title holder, in a practice round at Flossmoor. Ed Dudley and Sam Snead arrived late yesterday.

Hagen to Perform.

Gene Sarazen, the defending champion, Walter Hagen, making his first serious tournament start since his return from a world tour, and Ralph Guldahl, National and Western Open winner, will appear today. Guldahl yesterday played an exhibition match in Davenport, Ia.

The best practice drill to date was submitted Tuesday by Dick Metz, National Open runnerup and holder of the course record on the No. 4 layout. Metz shot a 71, one over par. In the National qualifying rounds on May

Lynch Fined $1,000 and Dethroned for Overweight

LONDON, England, July 20.—(AP)—The British board of boxing control today ordered Benny Lynch to pay £200 [$1,000] and declared his world flyweight title vacant for failure to make weight for Jackie Jurich of California on June 29. Lynch was 6½ pounds over the limit. He stopped Jurich, who weighed 110½, in the twelfth round.

Wetherell Wins Over Ball in Clay Court Tennis

New York, July 20.—(AP)—Rain has been added to the hazards of attending the Eastern clay court tennis tournament, washing out all but one match today. In this contest, Lewis Wetherell of Los Angeles, national public parks champion, whipped George Ball of El Paso, Tex., 6-4, 6-3, in a third round match.

SEVEN MIDWEST PLAYERS LEAD; FOUR DAYS TO GO

Fans Rally Behind Hometown Boys.

BY ARCH WARD.

Seven players from the middle west, two from the south, and two from the Pacific coast this morning lead the national poll which will determine the personnel of the College All-Americans for the kickoff against the Washington Redskins in Chicago's annual charity football game at Soldiers' field Aug. 31.

Chuck Sweeney.

The east, which from time to time has had three representatives in front, still has an even chance to place at least one athlete in the starting lineup. Frank Patrick of Pittsburgh is trailing Corby Davis of Indiana by only 2,466 votes for the full back job and the balloting is so heavy at that position the standings can be shuffled with any day's returns.

The increased interest in the selection of the team since the event was originated in 1934 has been amazing. A total slightly in excess of 167,000 votes was recorded for the first All-Star team. The standings this morning include 2,013,917 ballots and the goal is still four days away. The polls close at midnight Sunday. Votes sent through the mail will be counted, if they are postmarked before midnight on the closing day. The 150 newspapers coöperating with THE TRIBUNE in the conduct of the poll must wire their returns to this department not later than Monday night.

Remember Tuffy? And How!

Excerpts from telegrams received in the last twenty-four hours will help to give you a clearer idea of the enthusiasm that has been aroused throughout the country.

From the Minneapolis Journal: Record 3,500 votes for each of the following: King, Midler, Weld, Spadaccini, Gmitro, and Uram of Minnesota, and Butcher of Gustavus Adolphus. We are trying hard to put the Butcher boy on the squad. He's one of those small college whizzers who will help to prove that the All-Star game is where unknowns rise to stardom. Remember Tuffy Leemans?

From the Peoria Journel Transcript: Credit Bill McClarence, Bradley half back, with 30,764 additional votes. Newspaper carrier boys helped swell today's total with more than 12,000. They have cardboard signs bearing pictures of McClarence and Coach A. J. Robertson fastened to the front of their shirts. When they leave the evening paper, they knock on the door and present the ballots for members of each household to sign.

From the Washington, D. C., Herald: The Herald has received 22,417 additional votes for Maurice Carroll. The fans probably will tear down the building, if we don't place him on squad.

Gophers Get Support.

From the Minneapolis Star: Please credit King, Reed, Midler, Uram, Gmitro, Matheny, and Spadaccini of Minnesota with 5,212 votes. Minnesotans really have gone to work. There will be an avalanche from now on. Fans are concentrating on the Gophers, for they want all of them in the big game.

From the New Orleans Item Tribune: Pinky Rohm of Louisiana State today got 1,275 votes. Credit Clayton Calhoun of Loyola with 357.

HARTNETT TAKES GRIMM'S PLACE AS CUB MANAGER

Veteran Catcher Assumes Duties Today.

Wrigley's switch in managers undoubtedly was inspired by what happened after Aug. 2, 1932, when Grimm took the job after Hornsby had disagreed with the late Bill Veeck, then club president, over what he [Hornsby] regarded as office interference with the team. At that time the Cubs were just about as far behind in the race as at the present time. Under Grimm they stepped out and won the pennant, being routed subsequently in four world series games with the Yankees. They also won the flag in 1935, losing the world series in six games with Detroit.

Another factor in the shift probably was a "condition" existing on the team. Last week when Wrigley was denying that his mind was made up to fire Grimm he was asked if he thought some of the team's troubles might not be due to the presence of too many players with managerial ambitions.

"That's a condition Grimm hasn't been able to stamp out," was the reply.

The dismissal of Grimm can't be attributed to team dissension. While any manager's judgment might be open to questioning by the second guessers, there wasn't a man on the team soldiering on the now deposed boss, who during his managerial career finished first in 1932, third in 1933 and 1934, first in 1935, tied for second in 1936 and second in 1937.

He Started in 1921.

This year Grimm was the victim of circumstances beyond his control. He went into the race with full knowledge that his job depended on a pennant and that his team lacked something, proof of which was furnished by the $185,000 expenditure for Diz Dean, who in three months has started five games. Until the Dean purchase Grimm had the same team which had failed in 1937.

Hartnett, who by his endurance and playing ability climbed up to rank beside the greatest catchers of all time, was born Dec. 20, 1900, in Woonsocket, R. I., and played his first professional ball in 1921 with Worcester, Mass., of the Eastern league. He reported to the Cubs in the spring of 1922, but was in only thirty-one games that season.

In 1923 he was in eighty-five games, some of them as a first baseman, and in 1924 played in 111 games. That was the first of twelve seasons in which he has appeared in more than 100 games. The last of these was in 1937, which brought him up even with the iron man record established by Ray Schalk with the White Sox. In the spring of 1929 Hartnett's arm went dead and it was feared his career was at an end, but he didn't catch a single inning that year and the rest restored the arm.

Gabby's lifetime batting average is .300, his best mark being .354 last year. His current average is .290.

Came from Pirates.

Grimm, a brilliant fielding first baseman, came to the Cubs in a trade with Pittsburgh in 1925. Included in the deal were Wilbur Cooper, a southpaw pitcher, and infielder Walter [Rabbit] Maranville. The Cubs gave up Pitcher Vic Aldridge, Dick Niehaus, a rookie first baseman, and infielder George Grantham.

The ousted manager, who will be 39 next month, started his baseball career in the rôle of a bat boy in the St. Louis park. In 1916, when he was 17, he was taken on trial by Connie Mack, manager of the Athletics, but was soon back in his home town. In 1919 he had a cup of coffee with the St. Louis Cardinals, thence going to the Little Rock club, where after one season he was purchased by the Pirates.

Because of infirmities, Grimm retired from active play early in 1935, but attempted to resume his old position in 1936. He played in only thirty-nine games and last season erased his name from the active list. The high spot in his career as a boss was the twenty-one game winning streak, which, coming late in the season, lifted the Cubs to their 1935 pennant.

Others Were Fired, Too.

Grimm is the fourth Cub manager to be dismissed during the course of the last seventeen pennant races. Johnny Evers, who had managed the club on the west side in 1913, was named leader for 1921, but was supplanted by Bill Killefer before the season ended. Killefer remained through 1924, and in 1925 the job was given to Rabbit Maranville, but George Gibson was substituted to run the team before the race was completed.

Joe McCarthy was brought on from Louisville for the 1926 season and clung to the post until the fag end of 1930, when Hornsby was given the berth. Hornsby remained in charge until replaced by Grimm in 1932.

In 1913, 1914, 1915, and 1916 the Cubs had four one year managers—Evers, Hank O'Dea, Roger Bresnahan, and Joe Tinker. Prior to Evers the team had been directed from 1906 through 1912 by Frank Chance.

31, Dick shot a 66, four under par. The No. 1 course record of 67, five under par, was established by Hagen in winning the 1927 Western Open title.

The field is divided among 183 professionals and 206 amateurs. Of the amateurs, fifty are players with handicaps of five strokes or more who qualified in a special 18 hole test at Olympia Fields Tuesday. Leader of this group was Arnold Minkley of Big Oaks, who finished with a 73 on the No. 1 tot. All amateurs who failed to make the grade Tuesday are being admitted free as spectators to the tournament proper.

Reduce Field Saturday.

After the completion of thirty-six holes Saturday night the field will be reduced to forty-eight professionals and ties and twenty-four amateurs and ties. Each of the surviving amateurs will be paired with two professionals when the field sets out on the final thirty-six holes Sunday morning.

Admission fee will be $1.10 for each of the first two rounds and $1.65 for Sunday's thirty-six holes. A group ticket for the entire tournament is $3. Children under 12 will be admitted for 35 cents.

All-Star Poll Reaches Two Million Mark

Register: Washington university players are leading returns in this area. Give Tomlinson and Bukant 8,991 additional votes each.

From the Bloomington, Ill., Pantagraph: Bloomington is determined that its native son, Chuck Sweeney of Notre Dame, shall lead the nation. Friends have printed a special ballot carrying an artist's likeness of the former Trinity High school star and a place to vote for Kenneth Chittum, Illinois Wesleyan quarter back. Ed Lesnick, Normal center, is supported on the same ticket. More than 26,000 additional votes were collected for each of the three boys in this territory today.

23,000 for Skinner.

From the South Bend News-Times: South Bend's "home town" favorites packed up 27,864 votes today. The team is made up of Sweeney and Kovatch, ends; Schreyer and Woitman, tackles; Ruetz and Kuharich, guards; Wegner, center; Puplis, quarter back; Heap and McCormick, half backs, and Davis, full back.

From the San Francisco Chronicle: Schwarz, University of San Francisco tackle, is the most popular player in the poll in the Bay district. Behind him come Schwartz, California end; Markov, Washington tackle; Evans, California guard; Herwig, California center; Meek, California quarter back; Coffis, Stanford, and Gray, Oregon State, half backs.

From the St. Louis Globe Democrat: Credit Bob Skinner, Illinois Normal tackle, with 23,975 votes; Tony Donat, Illinois college quarter back, with 24,429; Ed Lesnick, Illinois Normal center, with 20,045, and Le Roy Kaska, Illinois Wesleyan half back, with 24,390. Maurice Kirk, Missouri guard, got 8,803.

From the Davenport Times: This is the greatest voting campaign that has hit the Tri-Cities. Give Joe Gustitus, tackle, and John Oelerich, half back, both of St. Ambrose, 21,609 and 19,430, respectively.

Nebel Drive Speeds Up.

From the Gary Post-Tribune: For Davis, Indiana, 14,629; Delich, Pittsburgh, 12,100; Sweeney, Notre Dame, 5,219; Isbell, Purdue, 4,962; Patrick, Pittsburgh, 9,637; Vanzo, Northwestern, 5,176; Filchock, Indiana, 4,265; Schreyer, Purdue, 2,561.

From the St. Paul Dispatch-Pioneer Press: Give 7,350 for Uram, Gmitro, Matheny, Spadaccini, King, Reed, Weld, and Midler, all of Minnesota; 8,232 for Fred Nebel, Xavier center. The poll is gathering surprising momentum.

Fort Worth Star Telegram: Routt, Texas Aggie guard; Benton, end, and Robbins, quarter back of Arkansas, are the favorites in the Texas poll. Whizzer White is running about 9 to 7 ahead of Hugh Wolfe of Texas in the half back returns.

Mexico, Mo., Ledger: Votes wired and mailed in here from Columbia, Jefferson City, Moberly, Macon, Hannibal, and Fulton have lifted the total for Maurice Kirk, Missouri guard, to 42,875. Nevada, Kirk's home town, sent 3,113 votes for him.

From Rockford Morning Star: Add 16,373 votes for Joe Gustitus, St. Ambrose lineman, whose home town really is going to bat for him. This year's All-Star poll breaks all records for interest.

From the Champaign News-Gazette: Credit Jack Berner and Bill Bennis of Illinois with 987; Skinner, State Normal, with 292, and McClarence, Bradley, with 276.

We could go on with the tabulations for two or three more columns if space permitted. In addition to the figures wired to THE TRIBUNE from other newspapers, hundreds of thousands of votes are brought or mailed directly to this office.

White Sox Log a Tale of Rain and More Rain

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., July 20.—Three days of rain and still raining in Boston. So runs the log of the White Sox's third 1938 visit to the cradle of liberty. Today's downpour washed away a double-header which the Red Sox had planned before the White Sox got here. Tomorrow there is to be a freshly arranged double-header, weather permitting.

In the affair tomorrow, if and when, Jack Knott and John Whitehead will pitch for the Chicagoans. Thus was Thornton Lee dropped out of the Fenway park plans and made available to pitch against the Yankees Friday.

Schedule Imperiled.

If the Sox White and Red—do not get in their double-header tomorrow it will be impossible to play out the schedule in Boston. The Red Sox have two more visits to Chicago, however, and transfers can be made if it appears the playing of a full schedule can affect the final standings of either of the teams.

If it rains tomorrow the White Sox will take off for New York at 3 o'clock. If they play they will try to catch a 6 o'clock train. And if they miss the 6 o'clock they will leave at midnight.

Helps Pitchers, Anyway.

The Sox have not welcomed the rain because it has piled up a bank of double-headers for the final trip here in August. However, the playing of only two out of four games scheduled [if the two are played tomorrow] has helped the White Sox get set for the four game Yankee series in so far as pitching is concerned.

Manager Jim Dykes will have available at the outset two pitchers, Lee and Monty Stratton, who have proved frequently that they can tame the champions.

Dean to Earn Cubs That $185,000 This Year, Says Rickey

San Francisco, Cal., July 20.—(AP)—Dizzy Dean, lame arm, eccentricities, and all, still is a bargain to the Cubs for $185,000, says the man who sold him—Branch Rickey.

The "front" man of the St. Louis Cardinals took time out today during a scouting trip to pay tribute to Dean as "more of a pitching artist than any fellow I ever knew."

Rickey said "Dean's past and present physical condition, so far as could be determined, was known by Phil Wrigley, Cubs president, at the time of the sale.

"We couldn't foresee that Dean's arm was going to go back on him, it it actually has," he said. "Nevertheless we realized there was something wrong. All the information we had was written into the sales contract. We did not try to conceal anything."

Rickey predicted Dean would earn back his purchase price for the Cubs this year.

"He's a money man, a gate performer," he said. "We miss him plenty from this standpoint, as well as on the field. Dizzy Deans do not grow on trees."

SPURGEON, ILLINI CAPTAIN, WEDS CHICAGO GIRL

Miss Gertrude Hubke of Chicago became the bride of Lowell Spurgeon of Centralia, Ill., outstanding high school and college athlete and newly appointed Rockford, Ill., High school football coach, in the manse of the Mayfair Presbyterian church last night.

Spurgeon played football three years at the University of Illinois. He was varsity captain in 1937. He was also a member of the track team.

Mrs. Spurgeon is a senior of Illinois, where the couple met, and plans to return to continue her studies in bacteriology.

West Hits Circuit Drive with Two on Base.

Cincinnati, O., July 20.—(AP)—Max West hit a home run into the right field bleachers with two on base to give the Boston Bees a 4 to 3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds tonight. It was the fifth defeat of the season for Johnny [no hit] Vander Meer against twelve victories. He yielded five hits. Cincinnati came back in its half of the ninth to fill the bases but Dusty Cooke, batting for Billy Myers, hit into a double play to end the game.

Elbie Fletcher hit Vandy's first ball pitched for a double and scored in the first inning. The Reds took the lead off Lou Fette in the second, however, with three runs. Score:

PIRATES, PHILS DIVIDE.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 20.—(AP)—Shut out, 11 to 0, by the Phillies today, Pittsburgh came back in the second game of a double-header to win, 4 to 1, and increase its lead over the Giants for first place to a game and a half.

CARDS WIN TWO.

St. Louis, Mo., July 20.—(AP)—The Cardinals became the gas house gang again for a day and dropped the New York Giants a game and a half out of the National league lead by sweeping both ends of a double-header today, 7 to 2 and 7 to 1.

The combination of the southpaw pitching of Clyde Shoun and Bob Weiland, plus the big bat of Johnny Mize, who clouted three homers in the second game, proved too much for the Giants.

BRING YOUR CARD TO SWIM TRIALS, BOYS AND GIRLS!

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Arrangements have been completed for the ninth Chicagoland 100 yard swimming races which will be held Saturday and Sunday. Four centers will qualify 160 boys and girls for the ten championship races which will be held July 31 in the Diversey beach lagoon, Lincoln park.

The last of the 1,500 acceptance cards were mailed yesterday to contestants who filed their entries before the deadline last Monday. All should be delivered so that each swimmer can present his card at the section in which he expects to compete. These cards admit to the pools without charge and the clerks also use them to assign the swimmers to their preliminary heats.

Each winner of a race will receive a badge. Each qualifier for the finals will receive a gold medal, and all contestants who compete their 100 yard swims will be rewarded with a souvenir button.

Report at 1 o'Clock.

Each contestant should report at 1 o'clock on the afternoon of the preliminary races. Here are the locations and dates of the trials:

Saturday—Sherman park, 52d street and Racine avenue.

Saturday—Cermak pool, 7600 Ogden avenue, Lyons, Ill.

Sunday—California park, 3901 North California avenue.

Sunday—Whealan pool, Milwaukee and Devon avenues.

The largest number of swimmers, as usual, will compete at Whealan pool Sunday. But for the first time since the system of trial races and gold medals for qualifiers was adopted, Cermak pool is third in the list of competitors. This larger registration was due to all the swimmers from the Jewish Peoples' institute being assigned to the Forest preserve district pool in Lyons, Ill.

Class C for boys 15 and 16 years of age easily is the largest combined group and Class C also leads total registration in the ten age classes at each of the four preliminaries.

Class B Girls Lead.

There are more girls competing in Class B [13 and 14 years of age] than in any girls' class. One of the largest sectional groups, however, is Class E for boys in the Sherman park pool.

While approximately 160 boys and girls will qualify for championships a week from Sunday, this number in each age and from each sectional will be assigned according to the number reporting. In other words, there will be more boys in Classes B and C than in any other and there will be more boys in all five classes than girls.

While the majority of contestants will come from Chicago and adjacent suburbs, five states will be represented. St. John's Military academy, and Milwaukee, Kenosha, Oshkosh, are a few of the Wisconsin cities. Illinois is well represented down state as far as Bloomington and Peoria. Davenport and Cedar Rapids, Ia.; Gary, Michigan City, and South Bend, Ind., and St. Joseph, Mich., are other cities included in the registrations.

Gary Teams Enter.

In the last list of team entries recorded was that of the Polish Roman Catholic union of Gary, Ind. This group, according to Coach Mitchell T. Serwatka, will compete in Sherman park pool. Samuel Langford, instructor at Washington park, where the first Washington park swimming races will be held July 30, has entered 23 boys in the Sherman park trials.

Phoebe Strehlow and Joe Darkin will swim for the Peoria Country club in Cermak pool Saturday. Stan Alcorn is serving as coach since Al Klingel is out west. Harriet Vance and Natalie Rogers, champions from Peoria last year, are competing this week in the Women's National A. A. U. meet in Santa Barbara, Cal.

Knox, McCoy Fight Delayed Bout Tonight

Rains early yesterday, which left Sparta stadium in a soggy condition, caused postponement of the scheduled ten round bout between Buddy Knox, Dayton, O., heavyweight, and Al McCoy of Boston, in the northwest side arena last night. Promoter Billy Cepak said the bout would be held tonight.

The fighters were not required to weigh-in yesterday, but it was reported unofficial weights were Knox, 184 pounds, and McCoy, 179. However, at this afternoon's weigh-in ceremony in the Illinois boxing commission offices, McCoy expects to carry 180 pounds and Knox 186.

After the postponement was announced, McCoy kept limber by going for a long walk in Lincoln park. Knox, who has a string of fifteen victories to protect against his opponent's ranking as ninth best heavyweight, did loosening-up exercises in Trafton's gymnasium.

One change has been made in the supporting card. Dick Gladstone, heavyweight stablemate of Jack Pumphrey of Franklin Park, was substituted for Pumphrey in a four round bout against Hank Wacker of Taylorville, Ill. Other matches:

Johnny Barbara vs. Indian Billy Lee [8], welterweights.
Lou Presto vs. Al Glode [5], light heavyweights.
Sammy Sullivan vs. Sonny Batson [4], featherweights.
Gene Spencer vs. Chuck De Franco [4], lightweights.

Eddie Dempsey of Moline, Ill., 1938 Chicagoland Golden Gloves featherweight champion, will head a series of amateur bouts under the auspices of the 47th ward in Marigold Gardens, Broadway and Grace street, this evening. The card includes seven fights and a wrestling match. Sammy Abruscato and Joe Donahue are handling arrangements.

Cardinals Sign Phil Dougherty to Play Center

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

The Chicago Cardinals yesterday signed one of the nation's outstanding linemen and released seven other players as Coach Milan Creighton went forward with his plan to completely rebuild the club into a National Football league championship contender.

The new lineman, a center, is Phil Dougherty of Santa Clara, who is polling a heavy vote among west coast fans in THE TRIBUNE'S nationwide All-Star poll. Dougherty has been the regular center on Santa Clara's powerful team for three years.

Although only 5 feet 10 inches in height and weighing 185 pounds, he established a reputation for ruggedness by playing every game during his three years of competition. He averaged one blocked punt a game throughout three seasons.

He Called Signals, Too.

Dougherty is a remarkable lineman in that he called signals for Santa Clara, directing the offense from the huddle, and he also called signals on defense. Pacific coast coaches recommended him to Creighton as the finest offensive center produced in the west. His unusual speed has made him especially adept at pass defense. Dougherty will join the Cardinals Aug. 15.

Five of the men dropped yesterday were given outright releases and two were claimed on waivers by the Pittsburgh Pirates. Those the Pirates claimed were Max Fisk, former De Paul half back, whom the Cardinals bought from Pittsburgh in midseason last year, and Billy Wilson, an end who played with the Cardinals last year and the season before.

Tipton Is Released.

Those on whom all National league clubs waived were Howard Tipton, former Southern California star, who played blocking back and guard for the Cardinals for a number of years; Rock Reed and Bill Crass, backs, from Louisiana State; Milford Miller, tackle from Chadron [Neb.] Teachers' college, and Bill Secl, Iowa guard.

Coals Defeat Aurora in Tourney Game, 11-5

Elgin, Ill., July 20.—(AP)—Chicago's Spencer Coals won their second game in the Illinois semi-pro baseball tournament tonight by trampling Aurora, 11 to 5, in the opening second round game. Aurora's one big inning, the sixth, was not enough to overcome the big early lead of the defending champions.

Yachtsmen Meet Wednesday at Mackinac Island

The Great Lakes Cruising club will be host at an informal meeting of fresh water yachtsmen at Mackinac Island, next Wednesday afternoon, it was announced yesterday by Commodore Kenneth R. Ball. The affair has been set for Wednesday because it is expected that, with fair weather, a majority of the fleet in the Chicago to Mackinac race will have finished by that time.

Yachtsmen from Lake Superior, Lake Huron, and Lake Erie as well as from Lake Michigan will be at the island. They will discuss sailing problems and experiences at the meeting.

Aloha, Commodore Ball's flagship, is to be the smallest entry in the 31st Mackinac race, which starts Saturday. Aloha, a few inches longer than the thirty-four foot overall minimum, will be sailed by a crew of six or seven. In addition to its owner-skipper, the crew of the cruising cutter will include Donald [Deacon] Currier, secretary of the cruising club, and Miss Lilyan Witzel, one of the few yachtswomen in the race.

Three of the Great Lakes Cruising club's directors will be in the Mackinac race. Logan T. McMenemy is entering his yawl, Adventure; John T. Snite, commodore of the club in 1937, will sail his schooner, Bagheera, and Robert A. Haynie will be skipper for Fred Wacker on the latter's racing sloop, Warrior. Henry Rubinkam, rear commodore of the club, will be skipper of Rubaiyat, defending champion in the cruising division of the race.

King Kong Loses; Claims 'Brother Act' Beat Him

King Kong lost a weird mat battle to Hans Schnabel at White City last night when Kong went out of the ring and was counted out after 43 minutes and 4 seconds of grappling. When the bearded wrestler tried to climb back into the ring he claimed that Schnabel's brother Otto, who was sitting at the ringside, blocked his efforts. Other results:

Fred Grubmier beat George Mansor [30:00].
Otto Schnabel and Ralph Garibaldi drew [30:00].
Jimmy Heffner threw Bull Curley [28:02].
Rudy Kay threw Stanley Pulaski [13:51].

SIMMONS HELPS SENATORS ROUT TIGERS, 7 TO 2

Homer in Seventh Starts Three Run Rally.

Washington, D. C., July 20.—(AP)—The Senators came up with base hits in the pinches today to back up Wes Ferrell's pitching for a 7 to 2 victory over the Detroit Tigers. It was Ferrell's twelfth victory of the season against eight defeats.

Boots Poffenberger's wildness sent Washington off in front in the first inning. He yielded two hits and he passed two batsmen to force in a run with none out. Roxie Lawson took it from there and he retired the side after one more runner scored. Al Simmons' twelfth homer of the year touched off a three run rally in the seventh which clinched the victory.

SIR JIM JAMES SCORES EASILY AT ARLINGTON

Burning Star Is Second, Safe and Sound 3d.

Sir Jim James, owned by E. W. Duffy of Detroit, got into running mood in the feature race at Arlington Park yesterday. He finished winner of the mile and an eighth battle by a length and a half from Nash Brothers' Burning Star and old Safe and Sound. He ran the route in 1:50 2-5. It was his third victory in eleven starts this year, but he was stoutly backed, paying $7.60 for $2.

King's Heir from Dixiana stable was among those trailing Sir Jim James home. The defeat cost him the privilege of parading to the post in the Classic field on Saturday. He showed lots of early speed, but quit badly in the late stages.

Her Reigh, a 5 year old son of Reigh Count-Salome II., displayed lots in winning the mile and a furlong fifth race. His time was 1:51 4-5. Sir Midas was second and Midas third. Stoutly backed Palamede never figured in the running.

The big thriller on yesterday's program was the six furlong fourth race. The favorite, Polly Hastings, held Wilda safe in a battle which continued through the stretch drive. Polly won by a head, with Thistle Ress, a long shot, finishing third.

Supporting the $50,000 Arlington Futurity on July 30 will be a $5,000 added handicap, for 3 year olds and upward at a mile and quarter, Racing Secretary Charles J. McLennan announced yesterday. Entries will close on Saturday, July 23.

McLennan predicts a large field for the Futurity, annually the midwest's most important test for 2 year olds. Candidates for the richly endowed race are progressing actively in their training and the quality of the juveniles pointing for the race is much higher than in previous years.

CHERRY JAM IS STAKE WINNER AT ROCKINGHAM

Salem, N. H., July 20.—(AP)—Cherry Jam, consistent money winning gelding from Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree stable, came through with his first stake victory today when he defeated six other 2 year olds in the $2,500 Maplewood stakes at Rockingham park.

Eddie Arcaro held the son of St. Brideaux off the early pace set by the Paragon stable's Selmalad and then pulled away in the home stretch to score by a length. Selmalad had another length and a half over Marty Madden's Greedan.

Cherry Jam paid $7.02 for a $2 straight mutuel.

Bets $100 on Louis to Beat Schmeling; Loses $250

New York, July 20.—[Special.]—Charles Brown, colored golf pro, bet $100 on Joe Louis to defeat Max Schmeling and lost $250, he told a Yorkville magistrate today. Brown claimed that his bookie absconded with the bet, the $100 he posted, and the $100 he won, and, in addition, he said, he spent $50 in celebration of Louis' victory. That made $250. A larceny warrant was issued for Frank De Grogri, a barber, who allegedly absconded.

MAYJO, away fast, took command under strong urging, was lightly restrained on the turn and, increasing her advantage with good response to pressure in stretch, held sway to the end. RED RAJAH, away slowly and lucky to secure room on the inside throughout, worked his way up gradually and finished boldly. ADORESS, a factor from the start but raced wide, held on well in her good performance.

NANA KATE, taken under light restraint after moving up in the first eighth, took command when called upon in the final quarter and won easily. ORCHIDS NEXT, a sharp factor from start and always under energetic riding, held on with good courage and wore down MAX FORST in the last eighth. Latter, away fast and having good speed, was on the inside after the first eighth, weakened when the real test came, but only gave way to ORCHIDS NEXT very slowly.

THIRD RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1,000, for maiden, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :23 1-5, :46 3-5, 1:13. Two dollar mutuels paid: Sir Gawaine, $15.40 straight, $8.00 place, $5.80 show; John Francis, $55.40 place, $14.40 show; Que Gato, $3.20 show. Winner trained by A. G. Tarn. Went to post at 3:16. At post 3 minutes. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving, place same.

SIR GAWAINE, well handled and on the inside for almost five-eighths, began to work his way through after reaching final quarter and weakened after getting to the front, but lasted. JOHN FRANCIS, a strong factor from the start, came out in the stretch and held on stubbornly under a drive. QUE GATO forced the pace under a light hold and, holding on fairly well, outstayed BRIERTON.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse $1,000. Net value to winner, $700; second, $150; third, $100; fourth, $50.

Time, :23 2-5, :46 4-5, 1:12 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Polly Hastings, $4.20 straight, $2.80 place, $2.40 show; Wilda, $3.20 place, $3.00 show; Thistle Ress, $4.60 show. Winner trained by C. Van Dusen. Went to post at 3:46. At post 1 minute. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving, place same.

POLLY HASTINGS forced the early pace under restraint, took command when called upon and, holding on resolutely, withstood the challenge of WILDA. Latter, probably best and raced wide, was allowed to drop back on the turn, rallied to hold urging in the stretch, and finished strongest; was wearing down the winner. THISTLE RESS, away slowly, was taken to the inside after a quarter, saved ground thereafter, and held on well.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and one-eighth. Purse $1,200. Net value to winner, $850; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50.

R. Allen. Went to post at 4:12. At post 1 minute. Start good from Bahr gate. Won driving, place same.

HER REIGH, rated along under a snug hold for almost three-quarters, rallied strongly when placed to a hand ride and, after getting clear, drew out very slowly through the last furlong. SIR MIDAS, away fast and hustled along for three-eighths, opened up a commanding advantage on the far turn, was given a breathing spell when approaching the stretch, and held on fairly well in the drive. MIDAS, under light urging early, was slow to respond to increased pressure, but rallied in the final three-sixteenths and closed strongest of all.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and one-eighth. Handicap. Three year olds and up. Purse $1,200. Net value to winner, $850; second, $250; third, $100; fourth, $50.

SIR JIM JAMES, away fast but under restraint for almost three-quarters, took command without need of strong urging, but was vigorously ridden the final eighth and, holding on gamely, was safe from BURNING STAR'S rush. The latter, under strong hand riding early, began to move up when punished after reaching the last five-sixteenths, came out in the stretch and, responding to belated drive, was rapidly getting to the winner. SAFE AND SOUND, restrained for about three-quarters, held on well under strong handling thereafter and headed KING'S HEIR in the last stride.

STEPINANNA, never far back and under restraint for three-quarters, moved up thereafter on the outside, responded to strong urging in the drive, and was up inside the final eighth. SALAAM, strongly restrained for six-eighths, made a determined bid and then weakened, but withstood SAM ALEXANDER'S bid. The latter remained a good distance out of it for seven-eighths and closed well thereafter and was getting to the leaders.

MR. MACK, well up and in hand for three-quarters, responded to pressure thereafter and was up in the closing strides. BONNY CLABBER moved into a contending position with a rush after a half mile, stood pressure thereafter gamely, and just failed to last. BAHADUR saved ground and began to improve his position after five-eighths, took command approaching the last eighth, and then hung.

RAILS AND LABOR SQUARE OFF FOR LONG PAY FIGHT

Expect Issue to Go to Mediation Board.

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

Railroad labor and management settled down yesterday to what apparently will be a long debate on the railroads' proposal to cut the wages of 914,000 rail workers 15 per cent.

In the afternoon H. A. Enochs, chairman of the carriers' joint conference committee, laid the railroads' desperate financial plight in the laps of 1,000 union men who are meeting under the leadership of George M. Harrison at the Palmer house. Harrison is chairman of the Railway Labor Executives' association.

During the morning the Enochs group at the Stevens hotel heard A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, declare the brotherhood would not accept a wage cut.

In the corridors of the two hotels the opinion was expressed by delegates taking part in the conference that the problem eventually would be placed before the national railroad mediation board and possibly put in the hands of a fact finding commission appointed by President Roosevelt.

Doubt Unions Would Arbitrate.

It was held to be unlikely that the unions would accept arbitration.

If the present conferences fail the next step provided by law is intervention by the mediation board. If the board's efforts fail two courses are left. They are:

1. The two parties may agree to arbitration. This is not compulsory, but if both sides agree to arbitrate the decision of the arbitrators is binding in law.

2. If either party refuses arbitration the President may appoint a fact finding commission which has thirty days in which to make a report. The decision of the commission is not binding. The theory is that the weight of public opinion would be against the party which acted contrary to the commission's findings.

The present series of conferences was held to be a squaring off of both parties for a long fight.

Enochs, former brakeman and veteran of many labor battles, who is now the spokesman for the railroads, read to the Harrison group a statement of the railroads' position.

Stresses Gravity of Problem.

"We are meeting here today to discuss a most serious question," Enochs said. "It is serious to you, who represent thousands of railroad employés, and it is serious to the managements of the carriers, who represent not only the interests of the employés, but also the public whom we all serve, as well as millions of citizens, life insurance policy holders, savings bank depositors and others who have supplied the money by which these properties have been created."

He declared that the managements were forced to their "distasteful" step in reducing forces and cutting wages because "when income does not meet outgo, the obligations of management require that remedial steps be taken to preserve the industry as a going concern."

Enochs recalled that when freight rates were boosted in 1920 to meet wage increases the public sought cheaper means of moving its freight and severe competition came into being. Last year, he said, the unions got increases "against the better judgment" of the carriers' joint conference committee.

"Only One Source of Income."

"At that time," Enochs continued, "we pointed out to you that the railroads have only one source of income —from the general public for service performed — and that to increase wages would have only one result—work then being done would have to be suspended. This happened.

"More than a quarter of a million railroad workers have lost their jobs within the last year. Under conditions which now exist, all but the essential activities of the railroads are curtailed. Men are furloughed or laid off. The money just isn't there to pay them. In June this year the railroads had a total of 914,000 employés. In June a year ago the total was 1,171,000.

"Our income for the first six months of 1938 was below that of the corresponding period of 1932. We are worse off now than we were when you agreed to a voluntary reduction in 1932.

Says "Burden Is Too Much."

"So the burden of increased cost due to the wage adjustment, as well as increased cost brought about by social security legislation, retirement legislation, increased taxes, increased cost of materials and other things, has been too much for the carriers to bear and the result is today that the carriers of this nation, almost without exception, are facing disaster."

Declaring that it is in the interest of railroad employés to help keep the roads solvent, because it means jobs, Enochs said it is regrettable that there seems to be developing in the railroad industry a feeling of antagonism to the employers.

"No other industry is now or has been assailed by its organized employés in the same manner or to the same extent as has been the carriers by its employés," he said. "You are constantly biting the hand that is feeding you; you do all you can to harass, to destroy, to discredit the management. You are slowly killing the goose that lays the golden egg and in many instances you have not

Rock Island Plan Wipes Out Stocks

New York, July 20. — [Special.] — Fixed charges of the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific Railway company are to be cut 79.5 per cent and present preferred and common stocks of the road will be wiped out under a plan of reorganization filed today with the interstate commerce commission. The protective committee for the first and refunding mortgage 4s and the secured 4½s, series A, headed by Dwight S. Beebe, vice president of the Mutual Life Insurance company, filed the plan.

This is probably the most drastic plan for the recapitalization of any road in financial difficulties, whether the carrier filed under section 77 or is in equity receivership.

The new plan is expected to face the objections of other bondholders' groups and also the stockholders' committees. If the plan is accepted in its entirety, as seems unlikely, it would mean the expungement of the $10,506,000 equity held by the St. Louis San Francisco, which owns 193,333 shares.

Propose New Bonds.

A new issue of first mortgage bonds totaling $55,000,000 is to be created under the plan. Of this total $11,000,000 are of series A, to be sold for cash to meet capital requirements. Another, $4,405,000, series A, would be exchanged for Choctaw and Memphis 5 per cent bonds, including claims for accrued unpaid interest thereon. The remaining $39,595,000 are of series B, to be distributed to other present creditors.

The interest rate on the series A bonds is to be 4 per cent, payable semi-annually. The series B obligations carry 4 per cent coupons, with the interest for each of the calendar years from 1939 to 1943, inclusive, payable annually on the next succeeding April 1, but only to the extent that there is in the calendar year net income available. Holders would receive script for unpaid coupons in the five year period.

Treatment of Bondholders.

Owners of the present general mortgage bonds would receive under this plan $182.88 in new first mortgage 4s, $595.76 in general 4½ per cent income bonds, and $421.36 in new preferred stock, series A. First and refunding mortgage holders would receive $117.08 in first mortgage 4s, $271.67 in general mortgage 4½s, $289.87 in preferred A stock, $233.67 in preferred stock, series B, and $308.32 in common stock.

The Reconstruction Finance corporation would be given $448.93 in first mortgage 4s and $752.60 in general mortgage 4½s.

Under this plan, provision is made for the expenditure of $71,000,000 over a period of five years in rehabilitating the property and equipment of the railroad.

MARITIME BOARD WILL TAKE OVER DOLLAR SHIP LINE

New York, July 20.—[Special.]—The collapse of the shipping empire founded by the late Capt. Robert Dollar tonight appeared imminent when it was learned from what the New York Herald Tribune called unimpeachable sources that the United States maritime commission would soon acquire control of the Dollar Line, Inc., and reestablish the company's famous round the world trans-Pacific and intercoastal passenger-cargo services under government operation.

The plan calls for the Dollar Line, which is heavily obligated to the government, to turn over all the company's voting common stock to the maritime commission, which will place its own directors on the board and will name a new president to succeed R. Stanley Dollar, who is to disassociate himself from the company.

Last January Arthur B. Poole was placed on the Dollar Line's board to safeguard the government's interest at the insistence of Joseph Kennedy, then chairman of the maritime commission.

According to reports, Edward Ford, vice president of the Grace Line, or Frazer A. Bailey, vice president of the Matson Navigation company, will be placed on the board by the commission and one of them will be named to head the new government owned service.

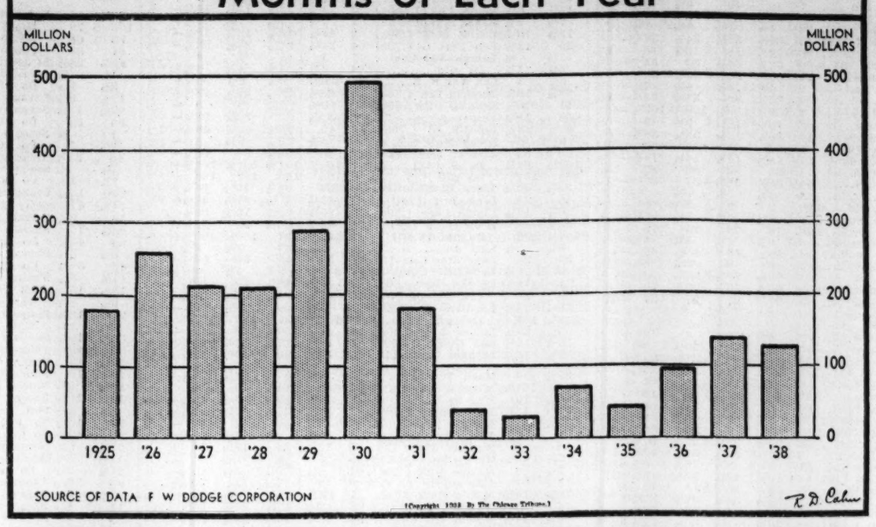
Public Utility Construction in the United States in the First Six Months of Each Year



Australian Aid Won by British on U. S. Pact

BY SAM BREWER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, July 20. — Australia has agreed to make trade concessions to the United Kingdom to help the British get a new Anglo-American trade pact. This was learned tonight coincidentally with publication of a new Anglo-Australian trade alliance. In return the British are to make similar concessions to Australia when negotiation of a new Australian-American pact is started. The nature of the concessions has not been decided.

The British have been anxious about the way the trade treaty negotiations in Washington, D. C., have been dragging along. They feel that once a treaty is signed it will be a new bond between America and Britain in international affairs.

Watch Morgenthau, Roper.

They have shown a keen interest also in Treasury Secretary Morgenthau's visit to Paris and Secretary of Commerce Roper's visit to London, which were rumored here to be indications of a new effort by President Roosevelt to find means of "economic appeasement" to insure Europe's peace. Morgenthau and Roper are in Europe now.

The "alliance" concluded with Australia is not a treaty, but a "memorandum of conclusions."

It declares:

1. That the British realize it is necessary for Australia to develop non-agricultural industries.

2. That the Australians recognize that the United Kingdom must be an exporter nation to keep its present position as the "great international trader, investor, and ship owner," and that Australia must continue to import British goods or the British cannot buy Australian raw materials.

Call Facts Desirable.

3. Both countries recognize that, although both favor preference within the empire, it is "not only inevitable but desirable" that both should enter trade agreements with other countries.

4. They agree to coöperate in every practicable way to aid each other in such agreements.

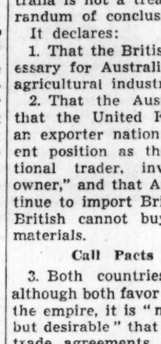
It is really just a statement of views to guide them in further negotiations, but an important point for Americans is the fourth—each is willing to aid the other in negotiating trade treaties with third parties.

City National Bank-Trust Names Otis Vice President

Stuart H. Otis has been elected a vice president of the City National Bank and Trust company. He formerly was assistant vice president. He is a son of Joseph E. Otis, former chairman of the old Central Trust company, a predecessor of the City National.

FRANCIS BONNER WILL AID SEC IN ORGANIZING OVER-COUNTER TRADE

Washington, D. C., July 20.—[Special.]—Francis A. Bonner, vice president of Blair, Bonner & Co., Chicago investment bankers, has accepted a three month appointment as adviser to the Securities and Exchange commission it was learned today. The appointment was in connection with the work of organizing over-the-counter brokers and dealers under the provisions of the Maloney act.



Francis A. Bonner.

Chairman W. O. Douglas of the SEC and Commissioner C. Mathews, who will supervise his work, said they were gratified that Bonner had agreed to assist. Bonner will take leave of absence from his business.

The SEC and representatives of the Investment Bankers Conference, Inc., and the Investment Bankers association recently agreed on the necessity for building up a strong national association of the over-the-counter brokers and dealers to register with the SEC as a self-regulatory body.

BARTLETT IS ELECTED BOARD CHAIRMAN OF N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, July 20.—(AP)—Edward E. Bartlett Jr. today was elected chairman of the board of governors of the New York Stock exchange by the votes of 708 members. His candidacy was unopposed.

Edw. E. Bartlett Jr.

Bartlett will fill out the unexpired term of William McC. Martin Jr., who soon after his election as chairman resigned and was appointed to the exchange presidency at annual salary of $48,000.

Bartlett, who will serve without salary, is known in stock exchange circles as a "liberal." He was a special partner in the firm of E. A. Pierce & Co., one of the largest commission wire houses in the exchange.

Bartlett has been a member of the exchange since 1926.

MADISON JURY'S RECESS DELAYS NEW OIL PROBE

Madison, Wis., July 20.—[Special.]—The government's new investigation of the oil industry, which was announced several weeks ago by the department of justice, will not get under way until Aug. 4, it was learned today.

After returning forty-seven indictments, involving other matters, in a partial report to Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone, the grand jury was excused and will not resume work until Aug. 3. United States District Attorney John J. Boyle still has several criminal cases to present to the grand jurors before they take up the examination of alleged unfair trade practices in the oil industry.

A notice of appeal was filed in federal court today by the twelve oil corporations and five individuals who were fined a total of $65,000 yesterday by Judge Stone for violation of the Sherman anti-trust act. The appeal notice was filed after Stone had issued an order permitting the convicted defendants to carry their case to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals in Chicago and also allowing them to file a joint bond of $25,000.

Wheat Prices Fall to Near Season's Low

CHICAGO GRAIN PRICES

Closing prices on the September delivery of principal grains on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday:

	Yesterday.	Tuesday.	Yr. ago.
Wheat	$ .69⅝	$ .70¼	$1.22¼
Corn	.59¼	.59¼	1.05¾
Oats	.25½	.26⅛	.34⅜
Rye	.50½	.51	.86¾
*Soy beans	.82¾	.82¾	1.08¼

*October delivery.

North American grain markets showed a heavy undertone yesterday. Wheat futures on the Chicago Board of Trade declined 1¼ cents at the extreme to within a small fraction of a cent of the lowest price of the season. Closing trades were at net losses of ⅞ to 1 cent.

Corn showed good resistance to pressure and rallied from its low point. Futures closed unchanged to ⅝ cent lower. Oats declined ⅝ to ½ cent. Rye was ⅛ to ⅝ cent a bushel lower.

Little Interest in Grains.

Activity in the stock market, according to some brokers, is reducing interest in grain markets.

Receipts of wheat at the twelve primary markets the last two days were only about 60 per cent of receipts during the same days last week. Some brokers were of the opinion the falling off in the movement was because prices were under the government loan level and farmers were awaiting developments.

Active deliveries of wheat at Kansas City closed as much as 1 cent a bushel lower. At Minneapolis the July declined 1⅞ cents. Liverpool closed ⅝ cent higher to ⅛ cent lower. Winnipeg was ¼ cent higher on July and 1 to 1⅛ cents a bushel lower on the new crop months.

July Contracts Close Tomorrow.

Trading in July grain contracts on American grain exchanges will cease at the close of business tomorrow. Uncompleted contracts outstanding after July 22 can be settled only by a delivery of cash grain. Final day for trading in July soy bean contracts will be July 27.

Houses doing export business were fair buyers of September corn futures. This buying was largely offset by the weakness in wheat and the generally favorable character of crop reports.

PLAN NEW STATE BANK IN ROGERS PARK DISTRICT

Plans for the organization of a state bank to be called the Rogers Park State Bank of Chicago were announced last night by Henry M. Tufo, an attorney at 105 West Adams street. A permit for the organization of the bank has been granted to Edwin M. McNea., security dealer, 208 South La Salle street. If a charter is granted, the bank will occupy the premises at 7001-3 North Clark street, formerly occupied by the Phillip State bank.

McNeal said the proposed bank will have a capital of $200,000, and surplus and contingency fund of $50,000. It is to be a member of the Federal Deposit Insurance corporation.

The district in Rogers Park has been without banking facilities since the Phillip State bank was closed. Temporary organizing quarters are being opened in the premises.

SEC SETS FIRST 'DEATH CLAUSE' UTILITY HEARING

Quiz on 'Integration' to Open Aug. 8.

Washington, D. C., July 20.—(AP)—The securities commission, acting under the utility holding company act, began today its first action to simplify a major utility holding company system.

Chairman William O. Douglas announced that a hearing would be held here Aug. 8 to determine what steps the $300,000,000 Utilities Power and Light corporation should take to limit operations "to a single integrated public utility system."

The commission will consider whether the company should be required to rid itself of interest in "any or all" of its forty-five subsidiaries.

Act Under "Death" Clause.

Douglas said the commission's action was being taken under section 11B of the holding company act—the so-called "death sentence" section.

Declaring that this provision was "badly misnamed," the chairman added, "This decision by the commission indicates that the commission means business under 11B."

This section calls for integration of utility holding systems. In the process of integration, companies are required to simplify themselves into well-knit units, both financially and geographically.

Utilities Power and Light, with headquarters in Chicago, has subsidiaries in mid-western and northeastern states. The company is being reorganized under section 77-B of the bankruptcy act.

SET CHICAGO HEARING DATE.

Special Master Harry N. Gottlieb was instructed yesterday by Federal Judge William H. Holly in Chicago, to begin hearings Aug. 8 on the new plan of reorganization for the Utilities Power and Light corporation.

The plan was filed with the court yesterday by the Atlas corporation, biggest creditor of the company. It had been submitted earlier to the Securities and Exchange commission. It is expected that steps will be taken to consolidate the hearing ordered by Judge Holly with the SEC hearing on the plan scheduled Aug. 8 in Washington.

17 MILLION PLANT OUTLAY PLANNED BY YOUNGSTOWN

Plans for the improvement of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube company's Indiana Harbor plant at a cost of $17,500,000 were disclosed yesterday. The company sent a letter to its stockholders announcing a special meeting to be held Aug. 30, at which they will vote on a proposal to waive for one year preëptive rights in 500,000 shares of common stock preparatory to raising $30,000,000 of new capital.

The letter stated that definite plans have not been made for handling the financing, but that it now appears that such financing could best be accomplished through the issuance of convertable debentures.

Proceeds from the sale of the debentures would be used to retire bank loans of $12,500,000, which mature in 1940 and 1941, and to carry out the Indiana Harbor improvements. This improvement will enlarge the steel producing facilities in the Chicago district.

Everyday Economics

Rubber Production.

Since 1934 the production of rubber has been restricted under an agreement among the chief producing countries. A committee operating under the international rubber regulation agreement meets regularly to establish quotas for three or six months' period for various producing areas.

The international committee recently reduced drastically the production quotas in an effort to bring output into line with current consumption which has been running behind because of the drop in demand in the United States. Stocks of crude rubber in May were 70 per cent greater than a year earlier, chiefly because of depression in this country.

The United States consumes about one-half of the world's output of crude rubber. About 75 per cent of rubber purchased by the United States goes into production of automobile tires and tire sundries. About 85 per cent of the world's crude rubber comes from Malaya, the Netherlands, East Indies, and Ceylon.

The price of rubber has fluctuated widely in recent months. It reached a high of 27 cents a pound in 1937 and sold as low at 10½ cents early this year. The market for the commodity is dependent on the continued success of the production restriction program. An earlier restriction program collapsed because many important producers did not coöperate and output in the unregulated areas gained. Producers accounting for about 98 per cent of the world's output are represented in the present international agreement.

UTILITIES COVER STOCK RETREAT AS FILMS YIELD

Close Is Irregular, Mostly Lower.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, July 20.—[Special.]—Widespread support for public utility issues this afternoon halted a broad selling wave in the stock market, but prices closed irregularly lower. The selling cropped out at noon on news that the government had filed an anti-trust suit against the principal motion picture producers. Earlier in the day carrier shares staged a strong rally, but it did not last.

Trading again was heavy, volume for the day being 2,509,440 shares, compared with 2,942,210 shares Tuesday.

With demand for the power and light shares running in 1,000 share blocks, active common shares added substantial fractions and preferred utility stocks made gains ranging up to 2 points or so.

North American a Gainer.

The most active stocks in the division were Electric Power and Light, Consolidated Edison, North American, Columbia Gas and Electric, and American Power and Light. Gains for these issues ran to 1⅛ points, that amount being gained by North American.

Among the preferred issues, Electric Power and Light $6 and $7 jumped 1½ and 1 point, respectively, and American Power and Light $6 and $5 spurted 1⅜ to 2⅝ points, respectively.

Interest in the utilities was influenced by two factors, observers said. One was the report that Chairman William O. Douglas of the Securities and Exchange commission had called a press conference to discuss a utility matter. The other was the largest weekly electric power output since the final week in January.

Movie Shares Under Pressure.

Amusement shares were under severe pressure after the justice department's suit was announced and they showed losses reaching 4 points or so. Loew's common made frequent appearances on the tape as it fell 3¾ points. Other weak spots were Paramount, off 1¾ points, Warner Brothers Pictures, off 1⅛, R.-K.-O., Universal preferred, and others.

At the height of the selling, the ticker was as much as five minutes behind floor trading.

The selling spread from pictures to other sections of the industrial list, and forced pivotal issues downward. Steels lost fractions to 2¼ points.

Motors followed suit. Chrysler took a loss of 1¾ points. General Motors dropped ¾ point. Leading coppers, slumped more than 1 point.

Carrier shares assumed command of the market early in the day. Nearly a dozen issues, mostly of the low priced variety, opened on blocks of a thousand shares at fractionally higher prices. These issues continued fairly active all day but sold off from best prices.

New York, July 20.—[Special.]—Kermit Roosevelt, son of the late President Theodore Roosevelt and a leading figure in the American merchant marine, today announced his resignation as president and director of the International Mercantile Marine company. He also resigned his posts in other steamship affiliates.

He gave out a statement at the offices of the company without explanation.

Roosevelt was the president of the Roosevelt Steamship company, which he founded fourteen years ago, and vice president of the United States Lines, the major American company on the North Atlantic.

● Patience, which is a prime requisite in investment and speculation, is amply rewarding our clients. Those who followed our specific advices to buy during the late May reaction and again in accordance with our market policy on June 20th, have had this substantially proved.

Courage to sell is of vital importance when the market reaches a zone from which a downward move is indicated. Just as patience has proved beneficial to our clients, the courage to sell at the proper time will be equally important.

Our current market study discusses the need to be prepared. If you are interested in this subject you may secure a copy without any obligation.

New York Bonds.

New York, July 20.—(AP)—Rail liens jumped from fractions to as much as 10 points in the bond market today. Industrials and utilities were off a bit. U. S. governments were easier, showing declines ranging to 7-32ds.

Moving picture company obligations dipped following announcement of the government's anti-monopoly drive in that field, but a rally before the close reduced the losses. Warner Brothers 6s, once down 4 points, closed 1½ lower at 83½. Paramount 6s at 99 and 3¼s at 82 each lost a point.

Among the rails, gains of a point or more were shown by Southern Pacific 4½s at 51⅜, and the 3¾s of '46 at 62; Katy 5s of '62 at 45; New York Central 5s at 65⅞, and Nickel Plate 4½s at 43⅜. Eastern Shore Public Service.

Investors' Guide: Please comment on the Eastern Shore Public Service company and the desirability of investing in its securities—D. W. S.

Answer: Eastern Shore Public Service company serves 354 communities in Delaware, Virginia and Maryland. Combined population of territory served is about 295,000. Principal revenue is from electricity, although gas and ice also are sold.

Total operating revenues were $2,588,043 and net income was $380,327, equal to $10.84 a share on the combined preferred stock in the 12 months ended March 31. Fixed charges were covered 1.76 times. In the preceding year, revenues were $2,366,600 and net income was $275,950 equal to $7.87 a combined preferred share, and fixed charges were covered 1.65 times.

Earnings on the combined preferred stocks in recent fiscal years ended Dec. 31 were $10.39 in 1937, $7.84 in 1936, $9.47 in 1935, $8.19 in 1934, $7.78 in 1933, $9.84 in 1932, and $14.06 in 1929.

Funded debt is $8,139,000. Capital stock consists of 14,538 shares of $6.50 no par cumulative preferred, 20,177 shares of $6 no par cumulative preferred, and 182,000 shares of $6 par common. All common stock is owned by the Associated Gas & Electric system.

The company has total assets of $15,655,648 at the end of 1937. Current assets were $435,635 and current liabilities were $668,294. The company's securities appear to be speculative at present.

Western Pacific 5s.

Investors' Guide: What do you think of Western Pacific railroad first 5s of 1946? Should I buy same? —J. L. T.

Answer: The Western Pacific first 5s of 1946 must be regarded as highly speculative. No interest has been paid since Sept. 1, 1933. Interest due in 1934 was deferred in accordance with a plan agreed to by bondholders, and subsequent interest coupons have been in default.

No reorganization plan has been approved, although several have been submitted. In August, 1937, a plan was submitted by the interstate commerce commission. Under this plan, holders of the first 5s of 1946 would receive 40 per cent of principal in new income bonds, 60 per cent in preferred stock, and unpaid interest thereon in common stock.

The road has failed by a wide margin in recent years to cover bond interest.

STEEL MAKERS, LABOR AGREE ON ORDER OF PARLEY

Wages in Mills First Topic for Discussion.

Washington, D. C., July 20.—(AP)—Steel management and labor agreed today on the procedure to be followed at a government hearing on fixing minimum wages for unskilled workers in plants which sell steel to the government.

Representatives of the industry, unions, and the labor department decided the hearing should take up first the pay for workers where steel is made, leaving until later the question of standards in steel fabricating plants. The hearing will begin Monday.

The Walsh-Healey act requires companies which hold contracts of $10,000 or more with the government to adhere to a forty hour work week and pay "prevailing wages." The government has never determined formally what are "prevailing wages" in the steel industry.

C. I. O. Asks Conference.

The C. I. O. told Secretary Perkins two weeks ago that the situation in the industry "is so acute because of threatened wage cuts" that these minimum pay schedules should be determined at once.

Metcalfe Walling, Walsh-Healey act administrator, said the conferees also would discuss Monday whether the companies should differentiate between an "apprentice" and a "learner."

"Actual prices" in any category did not enter today's discussions, he said.

WAGES DOMINANT ISSUE.

With the government conference on basic wages only a few days away, the wage question is now the dominant issue in the steel industry, Iron Age said yesterday. The improvement in steel buying, which has stepped up ingot production to a 1938 high of 36 per cent of theoretical capacity this week, is due largely to miscellaneous sources, the publication said.

Iron Age said that, unless wages are to be reduced, the only recourse of the industry is to raise prices. Much of the industry believes that a wage reduction is unlikely because of government opposition, according to the magazine.

In addition to high wages, rising scrap prices will force steel-making costs upward, the publication stated. Advancing quotations have raised the Iron Age scrap composite to $13.42 a ton.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farms

By Frank Ridgway

War on Sheep Parasites.

July 20, 1938.

TWENTY sheep have died at the Tribune's Du Page county farm within the last few weeks. Seven ewes and thirteen lambs have been found dead in the pastures. Parasites have been the chief cause of the trouble.

The development of parasites this season has been favored by the excessive rains that flooded the pastures where the farm flock ranges. The farm veterinarian thinks the death of the sheep was caused mainly by internal parasites, particularly stomach worms. On postmortem the lambs have been found anemic. The thin blooded condition of the lambs is believed to have been due chiefly to the stomach worms.

Several other factors have played a part in the condition of the flock that resulted in the heavy loss. Nodular disease has been found in the flock in recent years, but the veterinarian believes that this has been causing little trouble in recent months.

Victims Among Oldest.

The ewes that died were among the oldest ones in the flock, including six pure bred Southdowns brought here from Canada nearly two years ago. Nine of the dead lambs were pure breds. Last winter the flockmaster tried feeding some low grade hay which he believes left the ewes, especially some of the old ewes, in poor condition at lambing time.

Recent hot weather and the setback given the lambs at dipping time are also believed to have aided in weakening the animals, leaving them more susceptible to attacks of internal parasites.

Extra precautions are now being taken to protect the flock. A pond in one of the sheep pastures has been fenced off so the flock will not have a chance to drink stale water. Fresh water will be kept before them all the time. Liver fluke, a worm found in sheep, sometimes causes trouble when the flock is allowed to drink stagnant water from ponds.

Plan Chemical Drenching.

The flock also will be drenched regularly with a solution of copper sulphate or bluestone to keep stomach worms under control. Copper sulphate is now used successfully in protecting sheep against this parasite. Eggs of the stomach worm are picked up in the pastures as the sheep nip off the grass. After the eggs hatch the worms live inside the animal's fourth or last stomach.

The entire flock at the farm was treated with the copper sulphate last week. Under the direction of the farm's veterinarian the copper sulphate is given in different amounts depending upon the size of the animal. First the solution is prepared by dissolving the copper sulphate crystals at the rate of 4 ounces to a quart of water, adding eleven quarts of water to make three gallons.

The solution is then given at the following rate:

Sheep 80 pounds and over.....4 ounces
Sheep 70 pounds and over.....3½ ounces
Sheep 60 pounds and over.....3 ounces
Sheep 40 pounds and over.....2 ounces

The treatment will be repeated about once a month.

only destroyed the goose but your jobs and livelihood as well."

Enochs declared that public men and others assailing the railroads for proposing to cut wages have not been able to suggest where they can get the money to meet pay rolls as they come due.

"When a railroad goes into bankruptcy it keeps right on operating, whereas an unprofitable competitive enterprise is likely to go out of business," he continued. "This gives the railroad employés a sense of security in their jobs, but the security is not as strong as it might be and it is not as great as it was before competitive forms of transportation began to take business from the railroads."

Resume Meeting Today.

The meeting with the Harrison group will be resumed at 10 o'clock this morning at the Palmer house and that with the Whitney group at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Stevens hotel.

At the morning session Whitney, representing 140,000 trainmen, continued the presentation of his case. He is carrying on his fight with the railroads alone, his group having split with the labor executives' association over railroad retirement legislation.

Whitney said that he would need at least three days more to present his case. During his arguments the railroads present their rebuttals.
